Chinese, Korean Reds Drive Big Wedge Into Allies on Central Front in Mountains

Less Work for Dr. Howell This Summer?

Judging from the flow of water over the spillway at the Ashokan Reservoir, Dr. Wallace E. Howell, the New York rainmaker, might as well take a leave of absence this summer, we hope. All of New York's reservoirs were reported 100 per cent full Friday, the first time Gotham's vast watershed has brimmed over since May, 1942. The exact reading of the entire watershed was 100.8 per cent of its capacity. The .8 above 100 per cent represented the depth of water over the main spillways which put New York in the prodigal class of having poured away four days' supply, 4,510,000,000 gallons, since Wednesday. (Freeman Photo)

DiSalle Expects Living Costs To Go Up; May Exceed 6 Per Cent

Price Director Disagrees With Some Economists on Three-Point Rise; Hopes to Give Specific Regulations for Industries

Washington, Feb. 12 (AP)—Michael V. DiSalle, the government's price director, said today he expects the general price level to go up another "five or six per cent, or even more" before some degree of stability is achieved, probably about midsummer.

"I am in complete disagreement with some of the economists who say that maybe in five months we'll have a three-point rise," DiSalle said. "I think it's going to be higher than that. . . . I'd be tickled to death if by June or July we would begin to see some results of stability. I'm no optimist about what is going to happen."

As DiSalle expressed this view in a copyrighted interview with the magazine "U. S. News and World Report," growing dissatisfaction with progress of the economic stabilization program on the part of big segments of organized labor piled up new headaches for him and wage controls officials.

DiSalle indicated that his Office of Price Stabilization will move as rapidly as it can to supplant the initial price freeze, at peak levels in the Dec. 19-Jan. 25 period, with specific regulations for each industry.

'Very Real Freeze'

At present, he said, there is "a very real freeze, but the longer we keep it that way the more some people are going to be hurt by it." He added, however, that the time when most fields can be covered by specific orders is five or six months away.

He said, as he has before, that he believes the most effective type of price control fair to both business and consumer is one which fixes profit margins. He said he is thinking of allowing each industry to pick its own profit margin, based on some period before the outbreak of the Korean war, and allow it to add that to its costs.

At the same time, he said, he anticipates "some pretty good rollbacks" of prices in particular fields, especially in basic materials.

Dissatisfaction Smoulders

Labor dissatisfaction with the whole stabilization program had been smouldering for some time and came out openly over the week-end. It seemed likely to play a part in the government's efforts to come up with a formula for unfreezing most wages.

The Wage Stabilization Board which has prime responsibility for devising that formula is reported split three ways and some of its members are said to be discouraged about prospects for an agreement. Three of the nine members represent labor, three industry and three the general public.

The board will meet again tomorrow but its nine members, one official said, are "further apart than they were a month ago." It hopes to issue by the week's end a formula for permitting wage boosts above the current frozen levels of Jan. 25, an acknowledged stopgap.

Among the signs of labor unrest with the whole program were these:

Lawmakers Say Congress May Kick Out Military Plans

Washington, Feb. 12 (AP)—A figure—70,000—emerged today from the growing controversy called the great debate. Some senators said they think military plans call for that many additional U. S. troops in Europe this year.

The lawmakers, who asked that they not be named, added, however, that Congress may kick the military plans awry.

They based their opinion, they said, on an impression gained from Gen. Omar N. Bradley and others that congressional approval of ground force aid for Europe would involve sending about four additional divisions there.

The troops-to-Europe issue will come before the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees Thursday. Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, and Secretary of Defense Marshall are scheduled to testify.

Debate Goes On

In the meantime, the debate roared on, on Capitol Hill and in other forums across the nation.

Thomas E. Dewey loosed a sharp blow last night at the idea of a "Fortress America." It is the "utmost of folly" to think this country can be defended by air and sea power without large ground forces, he said.

Thus the New York governor, twice candidate for president on the Republican ticket, expressed a viewpoint differing widely from the stands taken in recent days by former President Herbert Hoover and Republican Senator Taft of Ohio.

Taft said Saturday he may propose limiting American troops for Europe's defenses to a fixed percentage of the nation's ground strength. He suggested 20 per cent as a possible maximum.

The Ohio senator, who heads the Senate G.O.P. Policy Committee, has challenged President Truman's right to put any American soldiers into the new western European army without congress' consent.

Hoover put forward the idea of a "western hemisphere Gibraltar" in a speech last December. Friday night he spoke out again, saying the United States should put emphasis on air and naval strength and munitions — not on land armies.

Takes Leaf From Book

Democratic Senator Douglas of Illinois took a leaf from the Republicans' book and brought the example of Abraham Lincoln — whose birthday is observed today— to bear on the situation.

Douglas says the free world stands today in a situation comparable to 1861, when Lincoln stood firm against the further extension of slavery.

And in today's stand against the spread of Communist tyranny, Douglas said, the western European countries will not have the sense of hope they need unless they feel "the United States is standing beside as well as behind them."

Douglas took part in the "Meet Your Congress" program broadcast by WINX, Washington, and other radio stations.

The four additional divisions senators said they think the military proposes to send this year, plus two divisions now on occupation duty in Germany would bring to approximately 100,000 the number of Americans available for the North Atlantic command by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Congressional committees were told by Eisenhower that the aim would be to marshal a force of about 40 divisions by the end of 1952.

Before he began his European defense survey, some senators were quoting Eisenhower as saying that he believed that the United States might be called upon to contribute one division out of every four in the final makeup of the defense force.

New Bid Made To Get Backing For UMT Program

Subcommittee Chairman Says Plan Is One for Long Term Preparedness

Washington, Feb. 12 (AP)—Senate supporters of the administration plan to draft 18-year-olds into a Universal Military Service and Training (UMST) program made a new bid today for a bipartisan backing.

"This is a permanent long term program and I think it is the most carefully prepared draft bill ever presented," Chairman Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.) of the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee told a reporter.

And Senator Bridges of New Hampshire, top-ranking Republican member of both the preparedness group and the full armed service committee, said.

"Generally speaking I think this is as fair a bill as we could turn out. There may be some slight changes made in it but I do not expect too much Senate opposition."

Chairman Russell (D-Ga.), of the 13-member armed forces group, sent out notices for a closed-door committee session Tuesday to act on the measure.

Approval appeared certain because the seven senators who voted for subcommittee approval of the program from a majority in the full committee. Senator Morse (R-Ore.) cast the lone negative vote in the subcommittee.

As the Senate bill now stands it would require that all men in the draft manpower pool between 19 and 25 years be called before any 18 year olds were taken. Then those nearest their 19th birthday would be caled ahead of younger 18s.

The bill also would extend service from the present 21 months to 24 months exclusive of leave. If the draftee took one month of leave for each year of service his duty would extend to a little more than 26 months.

Most senators expected the troops-to-Europe issue to come before the Senate before it acts on the draft-manpower issue.

The House Armed Services Committee expects to resume work on similar legislation Thursday.

In the meantime, freshman Senator Smathers (D-Fla.), a marine officer in the last war suggested in a statement that instead of drafting 18 year olds and putting them into military camps they should be permitted to take their military training at colleges and universities while continuing their academic studies. This, Smathers said, would save the government $1,000,000,000 a year.

South Korea Forces Fall In Collapse

American Officers Work Desperately to Rally Native Soldiers Near Hoengsong

Fury Increases

Crumbling of Line Puts Other Units in Rough Spot

Tokyo, Tuesday, Feb. 13 (AP)—Combining 60,000-man power with fake surrenders, white flags and handshakes, Chinese and North Korean Reds thrust a wedge seven dangerous miles deep into the allied central Korean front Monday, isolating some American and South Korean units.

On the east coast latest American reports said a patrol of the South Korean Capital Division, advancing northward, ran into a Red company almost on the 38th Parallel and was forced back south after a fight less than a mile below the old political boundary.

Earlier South Korean official reports had credited the South Korean patrol with a 5-mile penetration into North Korea. The American advisers' report early Tuesday to Eighth Army headquarters said they never crossed the line at all.

Peril Is Cited

They launched a savage counter-offensive shortly before Sunday midnight with 60,000 troops and hit throughout Monday in mounting fury along a 30 mile front.

By late Monday night, the Reds had smashed a wedge seven miles deep in the Allied line southwest of Hoengsong. They also had caved in South Korean forces at a number of other points and cut off some Allied units.

American officers were striving desperately to rally the South Koreans.

The Reds were fighting hand-to-hand with Allied defenders in the key road center of Hoengsong. One and a half miles south of Hoengsong the Communists had set up a road block. A Red column was sweeping toward that area to cut the Hoengsong-Wonju road.

Situation Confused

Field dispatches said the situation was confused and serious.

The Communist counter-offensive—a typical maneuver launched at night with massive forces at the weak point—threatened to wipe out the big Allied gains of the past 18 days in the central sector.

On the western front, the Allies had swept Saturday into Seoul's industrial suburb of Yongdungpo, its big airport at Kimpo and its seaport of Inchon.

The South Korean Capital Division on the east coast rolled north across the old parallel 38 border Sunday and captured the coastal town of Yangyang five miles deep in Red Korea.

But the four or more allied divisions massed around Seoul in the west and the South Koreans inside North Korea on the east coast could be forced to pull back for their lives unless the Communist smash in central Korea is stopped.

Attacking Hoengsong

On the central front, the Reds were attacking Hoengsong from three directions. Hoengsong is 10 miles north of Wonju, the road center where the U. S. Second division with French support smashed an earlier Red drive that permitted the allies to launch their own offensive Jan. 25.

From Hoengsong, five allied columns had thrust from six to nearly 12 miles in a fan-shaped drive west, north and northeast of the town.

The Red offensive wiped out most of these gains and threatened to crumple the whole center of the 150 mile allied line across Korea.

Hoengsong, 50 air miles east of Seoul, is in rugged hill country where the terrain favors the enemy. Roads are narrow and two mountain passes south of Hoengsong normally permit only one-way traffic.

The Communists move along

Legion Commander Assails Policy of State Department

Cocke Says Agency Needs Reconstitution; Speaks at Lincoln Tomb in Illinois

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 12 (AP)—National Legion Commander Erle Cocke, Jr., declared today the "pink cowards of procrastination we call our diplomats have laid a china egg" over the Korean issue.

Cocke, in an address prepared for the Legion's annual program at Abramhm Lincoln's tomb here, asserted that the State Department "not only should be re-examined, it must be reconstituted."

"From the very beginning of our present dilemma," he said, "our state department has kept the American people in the dark with its double talk, its double dealing . . . and what looks today like a reasonable facsimile of an outright double cross."

Cocke, of Dawson, Ga., asserted that calling Red China an aggressor is "more pure pussyfooting."

Should Be Condemned

"Red China should be condemned as a criminal," he said.

"That the United States has agreed to the principle that sanctions against Red China should not be pushed, pending efforts of a 'good offices committee' to get somewhere with proposals for a cease-fire truce and settlement in Korea, is bewildering to say the least."

The Legion commander said the cease-fire proposal was "fraught with peril."

Let us cut off all aid to every nation that does not give positive assurance that it will refrain from trading with the enemy, and that it will stand with us through thick and thin," he said.

"Not only should we clamp economic sanctions upon Red China, but upon Soviet Russia as well."

Rail Shift Seen as Possible Cause of Wreck Killing 84

Track Supervisor Says Inspection Made After Two Trains Passed Over

New York, Feb. 12 (AP) — Possibility that a rail was shifted by another train before the tragic Woodbridge, N. J., wreck was seen today at an investigation hearing.

The testimony was at a joint inquiry by the Interstate Commerce Commission and the New Jersey Public Utilities Commission into the Feb. 6 accident, which cost 84 lives.

Kenneth J. Silvey, New York Division engineer for the Pennsylvania Railroad, said it "could be" that a previous train had shifted the track before the disaster.

However, Harry J. McNally, the railroad's division track, supervisor, said he had inspected the newly - installed, temporary rail section after two trains passed over it, and found it "was perfectly safe to remain in operation."

Six Trains Used Tracks

The section had been put in use over a temporary overpass only five hours before the wreck. The railroad has said six trains used the new trestle before the crackup.

Meanwhile, in New Brunswick, N. J., Alexander Eber, assistant prosecutor of Middlesex county, sought a grand jury manslaughter indictment against the railroad. He says there were no caution signals in the vicinity of the temporary trestle, where a 25-mile-per-hour speed limit was set by the railroad.

The engineer of the wrecked train, Joseph Fitzsimmons, has testified that he looked in vain for the signals, but nevertheless

Shah of Iran Weds In Moslem Rites

Bride Is Granddaughter of Former Rebel Chief; Guns Salute Two

Tehran, Iran, Feb. 12 (AP)—The thunder of a 21-gun salute boomed out the news of the Shah's wedding today to lovely Soraya Esfandiari, 19-year-old granddaughter of a once rebellious Persian tribal chief.

Seated before two chief mullahs, Iran's highest religious leaders, the once divorced Shah and his European-educated, half-German bride were wed in a simple Moslem ceremony at Marmar Palace.

By order of the Shah, the traditional splendor of Persian court fetes was lacking in the celebration of the wedding. Iranian flags flying over snow-covered streets and a prancing squadron of lancers provided the only spots of color as the new queen's limousine carried her to the palace for the ceremony.

Heavy Guard Formed

Two small daughters of court functionaries held the long train of Soraya's silver lame wedding gown as she walked up the palace staircase to the Shah's study, where the ceremony took place.

A few moments later, the royal newlyweds emerged and walked into the glittering Hall of Mirrors to receive foreign diplomats and

May Pattern Treaty With Japan Along Atlantic Pact Line

Dulles Says U. S. Has No Such Proposal but Is Anxious to Listen to Suggestions

Manila, Feb. 12 (AP)—John Foster Dulles said today a Japanese peace treaty is closely linked with any proposal for a defense pact among the "offshore islands of Asia.".

The U. S. is willing to listen sympathetically to plans for a Pacific pact similar to the North Atlantic Treaty, said Dulles, U. S. ambassador at large, but it has no such proposal of its own.

Dulles conferred with President Elpidio Quirino of the Philippines on the peace terms he outlined last week to Japanese leaders. He declined to comment on the talk.

A major purpose of Dulles' visits is to sell them on the two most controversial points of the proposed peace treaty—Japan's role in the collective security arrangement and authorization for the Japanese to decide for themselves what occupation reforms they want to keep.

No Formal Conference

Dulles said the U. S. hopes to settle the terms of the treaty without any formal conference except for the signing.

He labeled premature a press conference question on whether Japan would furnish manpower and materials if included in a Pacific defense pact against communism.

In Tokyo Dulles had made it plain the U. S. does not expect Japan to be a passive bystander in Pacific defense plans. Tokyo statements by both Dulles and the Japanese government showed agreement that American power would guarantee Japan defense in the period immediately following the treaty. But the implication was that the Japanese eventually would have to raise some defensive force.

Dulles told his Manila press conference he still hopes the Soviet Union will sign the Japanese peace treaty. H added:

"I see no reason why Russia could not join if they mean all those declarations about wanting peace."

Truck Fire Jams Traffic

New York, Feb. 12 (AP)—An oil truck burst into flames in the Queens-Midtown vehicular tunnel under the East river today, and stopped all traffic through the tunnel between Manhattan and Queens. The truck caught fire just after it entered the tunnel in Queens, police said. It rolled about 100 yards before coming to a stop. The fire caused a traffic jam at each end of the tunnel, and police diverted vehicles to other East river crossings.

Dewey Administration Has Control of Topmost Items

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 12 (AP)—Bigger-spending and economy blocs maneuvered for position today in the battle of the budget as the Dewey administration prepared to touch off—and control—other political explosions.

Harmonious Republican majorities in both houses of the legislature guaranteed that Governor Dewey's proposed record budget of $938,940,759 would be approved without substantial change.

This was certain despite a Democratic charge that the budget made a mockery of the "Spartan course" pledged by Dewey in his third-term inaugural. It was certon, also, in the face of cross-fire criticism tomorrow at the annual public hearing on the budget.

G.O.P. legislative lines also were expected to hold firm for the administration as decisions drew near on these controversial issues:

1—A somewhat "softened" version of Dewey's sweeping civil defense-war regimentation bill.

2—How much in pay raises will be proposed for 80,000 public school teachers and the state's 70,000 regular employes.

3—Whether the state will provide financial aid for local school construction or, more probably, make it easier for localities to finance such work without direct fiscal aid from Albany.

4—A loyalty-check program for state employes "working in sensitive areas," as proposed by Dewey in his annual message.

5—An anti-climatical, "final" approval in the Senate of the McGoldrick residential rent control plan permitting some increases up to 15 per cent.

6—Establishment of a new

Governor Splits With Two Regarding Land Divisions

New York, Feb. 12 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey has re-entered the "great debate" on foreign policy with an appeal for a large American land army free to deploy its forces in Europe.

The titular head of the Republican party, twice a presidential candidate, clearly split with some other GOP leaders—including Senator Robert Taft of Ohio and former President Herbert Hoover—as he was interviewed yesterday on the National Broadcasting Company's "Meet the Press" television show.

Dewey, in direct variance with Mr. Hoover, said it was "the utmost of folly" to think this country can be defended by air and sea power without large ground forces.

The governor also opposed congressional limitation on the number of American troops sent to Europe, a restriction that Taft advocates along with Republican Senator Kenneth Wherry, of Nebraska.

Dewey said "isolationist" utterances were a "great aid to Stalin" and enlarge "the area of those in Europe who say 'We have been run over twice, our cities decimated, our children murdered; let's be neutral and let America and Russia fight it out."

To create a defense with only "two out of the three branches of military service," Dewey said, "is ignoring every lesson of both modern and ancient history."

"We had absolute undisputed command of the air, and yet we nearly got driven off of Korea," he added.

Mr. Hoover in an address here last Friday proposed a national

By late Monday night, the Reds had smashed a wedge seven miles deep in the Allied line southwest of Hoengsong. They also had caved in South Korean forces at a number of other points and cut off some Allied units.

American officers were striving desperately to rally the South Koreans.

Situation Confused

Field dispatches said the situation was confused and serious.

The Communist counter-offensive—a typical maneuver launched at night with massive forces at the weak point—threatened to wipe out the big Allied gains of the past 18 days in the central sector.

On the western front, the Allies had swept Saturday into Seoul's industrial suburb of Yongdungpo, its big airport at Kimpo and its seaport of Inchon.

The South Korean Capital Division on the east coast rolled north across the old parallel 38 border Sunday and captured the coastal town of Yangyang five miles deep in Red Korea.

But the four or more allied divisions massed around Seoul in the west and the South Koreans inside North Korea on the east coast could be forced to pull back for their lives unless the Communist smash in central Korea is stopped.

Attacking Hoengsong

On the central front, the Reds were attacking Hoengsong from three directions. Hoengsong is 10 miles north of Wonju, the road center where the U. S. Second division with French support smashed an earlier Red drive that permitted the allies to launch their own offensive Jan. 25.

From Hoengsong, five allied columns had thrust from six to nearly 12 miles in a fan-shaped drive west, north and northeast of the town.

The Red offensive wiped out most of these gains and threatened to crumple the whole center of the 150 mile allied line across Korea.

Hoengsong, 50 air miles east of Seoul, is in rugged hill country where the terrain favors the enemy. Roads are narrow and two mountain passes south of Hoengsong normally permit only one-way traffic.

Legion Commander Assails Policy of State Department

Cocke Says Agency Needs Reconstitution; Speaks at Lincoln Tomb in Illinois

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 12 (AP)—National Legion Commander Erle Cocke, Jr., declared today the "pink cowards of procrastination we call our diplomats have laid a china egg" over the Korean issue.

Cocke, in an address prepared for the Legion's annual program at Abramhm Lincoln's tomb here, asserted that the State Department "not only should be re-examined, it must be reconstituted."

"From the very beginning of our present dilemma," he said, "our state department has kept the American people in the dark with its double talk, its double dealing . . . and what looks today like a reasonable facsimile of an outright double cross."

Cocke, of Dawson, Ga., asserted that calling Red China an aggressor is "more pure pussyfooting."

Should Be Condemned

"Red China should be condemned as a criminal," he said.

"That the United States has agreed to the principle that sanctions against Red China should not be pushed, pending efforts of a 'good offices committee' to get somewhere with proposals for a cease-fire truce and settlement in Korea, is bewildering to say the least."

The Legion commander said the cease-fire proposal was "fraught with peril."

Let us cut off all aid to every nation that does not give positive assurance that it will refrain from trading with the enemy, and that it will stand with us through thick and thin," he said.

"Not only should we clamp economic sanctions upon Red China, but upon Soviet Russia as well."

Rail Shift Seen as Possible Cause of Wreck Killing 84

Track Supervisor Says Inspection Made After Two Trains Passed Over

New York, Feb. 12 (AP) — Possibility that a rail was shifted by another train before the tragic Woodbridge, N. J., wreck was seen today at an investigation hearing.

The testimony was at a joint inquiry by the Interstate Commerce Commission and the New Jersey Public Utilities Commission into the Feb. 6 accident, which cost 84 lives.

Kenneth J. Silvey, New York Division engineer for the Pennsylvania Railroad, said it "could be" that a previous train had shifted the track before the disaster.

However, Harry J. McNally, the railroad's division track supervisor, said he had inspected the newly - installed, temporary rail section after two trains passed over it, and found it "was perfectly safe to remain in operation."

Six Trains Used Tracks

The section had been put in use over a temporary overpass only five hours before the wreck. The railroad has said six trains used the new trestle before the crackup.

Meanwhile, in New Brunswick, N. J., Alexander Eber, assistant prosecutor of Middlesex county, sought a grand jury manslaughter indictment against the railroad. He says there were no caution signals in the vicinity of the temporary trestle, where a 25-mile-per-hour speed limit was set by the railroad.

The engineer of the wrecked train, Joseph Fitzsimmons, has testified that he looked in vain for the signals, but nevertheless

Bride Is Grandaughter of Former Rebel Chief; Guns Salute Two

Tehran, Iran, Feb. 12 (AP)—The thunder of a 21-gun salute boomed out the news of the Shah's wedding today to lovely Soraya Esfandiari, 19-year-old granddaughter of a once rebellious Persian tribal chief.

Seated before two chief mullahs, Iran's highest religious leaders, the once divorced Shah and his European-educated, half-German bride were wed in a simple Moslem ceremony at Marmar Palace.

By order of the Shah, the traditional splendor of Persian court fetes was lacking in the celebration of the wedding. Iranian flags flying over snow-covered streets and a prancing squadron of lancers provided the only spots of color as the new queen's limousine carried her to the palace for the ceremony.

Heavy Guard Formed

Two small daughters of court functionaries held the long train of Soraya's silver lame wedding gown as she walked up the palace staircase to the Shah's study, where the ceremony took place.

May Pattern Treaty With Japan Along Atlantic Pact Line

Dulles Says U. S. Has No Such Proposal but Is Anxious to Listen to Suggestions

Manila, Feb. 12 (AP)—John Foster Dulles said today a Japanese peace treaty is closely linked with any proposal for a defense pact among the "offshore islands of Asia.".

The U. S. is willing to listen sympathetically to plans for a Pacific pact similar to the North Atlantic Treaty, said Dulles, U. S. ambassador at large, but it has no such proposal of its own.

Dulles conferred with President Elpidio Quirino of the Philippines on the peace terms he outlined last week to Japanese leaders. He declined to comment on the talk.

A major purpose of Dulles' visits is to sell them on the two most controversial points of the proposed peace treaty—Japan's role in the collective security arrangement and authorization for the Japanese to decide for themselves what occupation reforms they want to keep.

No Formal Conference

Dulles said the U. S. hopes to settle the terms of the treaty without any formal conference except for the signing.

He labeled premature a press conference question on whether Japan would furnish manpower and materials if included in a Pacific defense pact against communism.

In Tokyo Dulles had made it plain the U. S. does not expect Japan to be a passive bystander in Pacific defense plans. Tokyo statements by both Dulles and the Japanese government showed agreement that American power would guarantee Japan defense in the period immediately following the treaty. But the implication was that the Japanese eventually would have to raise some defensive force.

Dulles told his Manila press conference he still hopes the Soviet Union will sign the Japanese peace treaty. H added:

"I see no reason why Russia could not join if they mean all those declarations about wanting peace."

Truck Fire Jams Traffic

New York, Feb. 12 (AP)—An oil truck burst into flames in the Queens-Midtown vehicular tunnel under the East river today, and stopped all traffic through the tunnel between Manhattan and Queens. The truck caught fire just after it entered the tunnel in Queens, police said. It rolled about 100 yards before coming to a stop. The fire caused a traffic jam at each end of the tunnel, and police diverted vehicles to other East river crossings.

Dewey Administration Has Control of Topmost Items

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 12 (AP)—Bigger-spending and economy blocs maneuvered for position today in the battle of the budget as the Dewey administration prepared to touch off—and control—other political explosions.

Harmonious Republican majorities in both houses of the legislature guaranteed that Governor Dewey's proposed record budget of $938,940,759 would be approved without substantial change.

This was certain despite a Democratic charge that the budget made a mockery of the "Spartan course" pledged by Dewey in his third-term inaugural. It was certon, also, in the face of cross-fire criticism tomorrow at the annual public hearing on the budget.

G.O.P. legislative lines also were expected to hold firm for the administration as decisions drew near on these controversial issues:

1—A somewhat "softened" version of Dewey's sweeping civil defense-war regimentation bill.

2—How much in pay raises will be proposed for 80,000 public school teachers and the state's 70,000 regular employes.

3—Whether the state will provide financial aid for local school construction or, more probably, make it easier for localities to finance such work without direct fiscal aid from Albany.

4—A loyalty-check program for state employes "working in sensitive areas," as proposed by Dewey in his annual message.

5—An anti-climatical, "final" approval in the Senate of the McGoldrick residential rent control plan permitting some increases up to 15 per cent.

6—Establishment of a new

Governor Splits With Two Regarding Land Divisions

New York, Feb. 12 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey has re-entered the "great debate" on foreign policy with an appeal for a large American land army free to deploy its forces in Europe.

The titular head of the Republican party, twice a presidential candidate, clearly split with some other GOP leaders—including Senator Robert Taft of Ohio and former President Herbert Hoover—as he was interviewed yesterday on the National Broadcasting Company's "Meet the Press" television show.

Dewey, in direct variance with Mr. Hoover, said it was "the utmost of folly" to think this country can be defended by air and sea power without large ground forces.

The governor also opposed congressional limitation on the number of American troops sent to Europe, a restriction that Taft advocates along with Republican Senator Kenneth Wherry, of Nebraska.

Dewey said "isolationist" utterances were a "great aid to Stalin" and enlarge "the area of those in Europe who say 'We have been run over twice, our cities decimated, our children murdered; let's be neutral and let America and Russia fight it out."

To create a defense with only "two out of the three branches of military service," Dewey said, "is ignoring every lesson of both modern and ancient history."

"We had absolute undisputed command of the air, and yet we nearly got driven off of Korea," he added.

Mr. Hoover in an address here last Friday proposed a national

Less Work for Dr. Howell This Summer?

Judging from the flow of water over the spillway at the Ashokan Reservoir, Dr. Wallace E. Howell, the New York rainmaker, might as well take a leave of absence this summer, we hope. All of New York's reservoirs were reported 100 per cent full Friday, the first time Gotham's vast watershed has brimmed over since May, 1949. The exact reading of the entire watershed was 100.8 per cent of its capacity. The .8 above 100 per cent represented the depth of water over the main spillways which put New York in the prodigal position of having poured away four days' supply, 4,310,000,000 gallons, since Wednesday. (Freeman Photo)

DiSalle Expects Living Costs To Go Up; May Exceed 6 Per Cent

Price Director Disagrees With Some Economists on Three-Point Rise; Hopes to Give Specific Regulations for Industries

Washington, Feb. 12 (AP)—Michael V. DiSalle, the government's price director, said today he expects the general price level to go up another "five or six per cent, or even more" before some degree of stability is achieved, probably about midsummer.

"I am in complete disagreement with some of the economists who say that maybe in five months we'll have a three-point rise," DiSalle said. "I think it's going to be higher than that. . . . I'd be tickled to death if by June or July we would begin to see some results of stability. I'm no optimist about what is going to happen."

As DiSalle expressed this view in a copyrighted interview with the magazine "U. S. News and World Report," growing dissatisfaction with progress of the economic stabilization program on the part of big segments of organized labor piled up new headaches for him and wage controls officials.

DiSalle indicated that his Office of Price Stabilization will move as rapidly as it can to supplant the initial price freeze, at peak levels in the Dec. 19-Jan. 25 period, with specific regulations for each industry.

'Very Real Freeze'

At present, he said, there is "a very real freeze, but the longer we keep it that way the more some people are going to be hurt by it." He added, however, that the time when most fields can be covered by specific orders is five or six months away.

He said, as he has before, that he believes the most effective type of price control fair to both business and consumer is one which fixes profit margins. He said he is thinking of allowing each industry to pick its own profit margin, based on some period before the outbreak of the Korean war, and allow it to add that to its costs.

At the same time, he said, he anticipates "some pretty good rollbacks" of prices in particular fields, especially in basic materials.

Dissatisfaction Smoulders

Labor dissatisfaction with the whole stabilization program had been smouldering for some time and came out openly over the week-end. It seemed likely to play a part in the government's efforts to come up with a formula for unfreezing most wages.

The Wage Stabilization Board which has prime responsibility for devising that formula is reported split three ways and some of its members are said to be discouraged about prospects for an agreement. Three of the nine members represent labor, three industry and three the general public.

The board will meet again tomorrow but its nine members, one official said, are "further apart than they were a month ago." It hopes to issue by the week's end a formula for permitting wage boosts above the current frozen levels of Jan. 25, an acknowledged stopgap.

Among the signs of labor unrest with the whole program were these:

Washington, Feb. 12 (AP)—A figure—70,000—emerged today from the growing controversy called the great debate. Some senators said they think military plans call for that many additional U. S. troops in Europe this year.

The lawmakers, who asked that they not be named, added, however, that Congress may kick the military plans awry.

They based their opinion, they said, on an impression gained from Gen. Omar N. Bradley and others that congressional approval of ground force aid for Europe would involve sending about four additional divisions there.

The troops-to-Europe issue will come before the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees Thursday. Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, and Secretary of Defense Marshall are scheduled to testify.

Debate Goes On

In the meantime, the debate roared on, on Capitol Hill and in other forums across the nation.

Thomas E. Dewey loosed a sharp blow last night at the idea of a "Fortress America." It is the "utmost of folly" to think this country can be defended by air and sea power without large ground forces, he said.

Thus the New York governor, twice candidate for president on the Republican ticket, expressed a viewpoint differing widely from the stands taken in recent days by former President Herbert Hoover and Republican Senator Taft of Ohio.

Taft said Saturday he may propose limiting American troops for Europe's defenses to a fixed percentage of the nation's ground strength. He suggested 20 per cent as a possible maximum.

The Ohio senator, who heads the Senate G.O.P. Policy Committee, has challenged President Truman's right to put any American soldiers into the new western European army without congress' consent.

Hoover put forward the idea of a "western hemisphere Gibraltar" in a speech last December. Friday night he spoke out again, saying the United States should put emphasis on air and naval strength and munitions — not on land armies.

Takes Leaf From Book

Democratic Senator Douglas of Illinois took a leaf from the Republicans' book and brought the example of Abraham Lincoln — whose birthday is observed today—to bear on the situation.

Douglas says the free world stands today in a situation comparable to 1861, when Lincoln stood firm against the further extension of slavery.

And in today's stand against the spread of Communist tyranny, Douglas said, the western European countries will not have the sense of hope they need unless they feel "the United States is standing beside as well as behind them."

Douglas took part in the "Meet Your Congress" program broadcast by WINX, Washington, and other radio stations.

The four additional divisions senators said they think the military proposes to send this year, plus two divisions now on occupation duty in Germany would bring to approximately 100,000 the number of Americans available for the North Atlantic command by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Congressional committees were told by Eisenhower that the aim would be to marshal a force of about 40 divisions by the end of 1952.

Before he began his European defense survey, some senators were quoting Eisenhower as saying that he believed that the United States might be called upon to contribute one division out of every four in the final makeup of the defense force.

New Bid Made To Get Backing For UMT Program

Subcommittee Chairman Says Plan Is One for Long Term Preparedness

Washington, Feb. 12 (AP)—Senate supporters of the administration plan to draft 18-year-olds into a Universal Military Service and Training (UMST) program made a new bid today for a bipartisan backing.

"This is a permanent long term program and I think it is the most carefully prepared draft bill ever presented," Chairman Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.) of the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee told a reporter.

And Senator Bridges of New Hampshire, top-ranking Republican member of both the preparedness group and the full armed service committee, said.

"Generally speaking I think this is as fair a bill as we could turn out. There may be some slight changes made in it but I do not expect too much Senate opposition."

Chairman Russell (D-Ga.), of the 13-member armed forces group, sent out notices for a closed-door committee session Tuesday to act on the measure.

Approval appeared certain because the seven senators who voted for subcommittee approval of the program from a majority in the full committee. Senator Morse (R-Ore.) cast the lone negative vote in the subcommittee.

As the Senate bill now stands it would require that all men in the draft manpower pool between 19 and 25 years be called before any 18 year olds were taken. Then those nearest their 19th birthday would be caled ahead of younger 18s.

The bill also would extend service from the present 21 months to 24 months exclusive of leave. If the draftee took one month of leave for each year of service his duty would extend to a little more than 26 months.

Most senators expected the troops-to-Europe issue to come before the Senate before it acts on the draft-manpower issue.

The House Armed Services Committee expects to resume work on similar legislation Thursday.

In the meantime, freshman Senator Smathers (D-Fla.), a marine officer in the last war suggested in a statement that instead of drafting 18 year olds and putting them into military camps they should be permitted to take their military training at colleges and universities while continuing their academic studies. This, Smathers said, would save the government $1,000,000,000 a year.

South Korea Forces Fall In Collapse

American Officers Work Desperately to Rally Native Soldiers Near Hoengsong

Fury Increases

Crumbling of Line Puts Other Units in Rough Spot

Tokyo, Tuesday, Feb. 13 (AP)—Combining 60,000-man power with fake surrenders, white flags and handshakes, Chinese and North Korean Reds thrust a wedge seven dangerous miles deep into the allied central Korean front Monday, isolating some American and South Korean units.

On the east coast latest American reports said a patrol of the South Korean Capital Division, advancing northward, ran into a Red company almost on the 38th Parallel and was forced back south after a fight less than a mile below the old political boundary.

Earlier South Korean official reports had credited the South Korean patrol with a 5-mile penetration into North Korea. The American advisers' report early Tuesday to Eighth Army headquarters said they never crossed the line at all.

Peril Is Cited

Tokyo, Feb. 11 (AP) — Chinese and Korean Reds rammed a dangerously deep wedge today into Allied lines on the mountainous central Korean war front.

They launched a savage counter-offensive shortly before Sunday midnight with 60,000 troops and hit throughout Monday in mounting fury along a 30 mile front.

By late Monday night, the Reds had smashed a wedge seven miles deep in the Allied line southwest of Hoengsong. They also had caved in South Korean forces at a number of other points and cut off some Allied units.

Dulles said the U. S. hopes to settle the terms of the treaty without any formal conference except for the signing.

He labeled premature a press conference question on whether Japan would furnish manpower and materials if included in a Pacific defense pact against communism.

In Tokyo Dulles had made it plain the U. S. does not expect Japan to be a passive bystander in Pacific defense plans. Tokyo statements by both Dulles and the Japanese government showed agreement that American power would guarantee Japan defense in the period immediately following the treaty. But the implication was that the Japanese eventually would have to raise some defensive force.

Dulles told his Manila press conference he still hopes the Soviet Union will sign the Japanese peace treaty. H added:

"I see no reason why Russia could not join if they mean all those declarations about wanting peace."

Broken Rail Found

New Brunswick, N. J., Feb. 12 (AP)—A broken rail was discovered on eastbound Pennsylvania Railroad tracks near Stelton today. Commuter trains had to be rerouted on another track to Metuchen for about an hour, resulting in some delays.

Governor Splits With Two Regarding Land Divisions

New York, Feb. 12 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey has re-entered the "great debate" on foreign policy with an appeal for a large American land army free to deploy its forces in Europe.

The titular head of the Republican party, twice a presidential candidate, clearly split with some other GOP leaders—including Senator Robert Taft of Ohio and former President Herbert Hoover—as he was interviewed yesterday on the National Broadcasting Company's "Meet the Press" television show.

Dewey, in direct variance with Mr. Hoover, said it was "the utmost of folly" to think this country can be defended by air and sea power without large ground forces.

The governor also opposed congressional limitation on the number of American troops sent to Europe, a restriction that Taft advocates along with Republican Senator Kenneth Wherry, of Nebraska.

Dewey said "isolationist" utterances were a "great aid to Stalin" and enlarge "the area of those in Europe who say 'We have been run over twice, our cities decimated, our children murdered; let's be neutral and let America and Russia fight it out."

To create a defense with only "two out of the three branches of military service," Dewey said, "is ignoring every lesson of both modern and ancient history."

"We had absolute undisputed command of the air, and yet we nearly got driven off of Korea," he added.

Mr. Hoover in an address here last Friday proposed a national

Card of Thanks

May I offer my sincere gratitude to all friends and former customers of my late father, I. Ginzburg, pharmacist, of 93 Broadway, who not only sent so many sympathetic letters and cards, but immediately and so willingly lent their personal services to aid and ease the shock of my father's sudden death.

Evening Verse...
(For Your Scrapbook)
By DANIEL J. O'CONNOR

MY VALENTINE

I have a comic valentine
The postman brought today
That asks "Do poets really dine—
Or live on curds and whey"?

A pensive bard is pictured there
With daisy-bordered hat
Which rests atop the flowing hair
That meets a worn cravat.
His coat is thin—and so is he
For lack of proper food
And this, I'm told, resembles me
In proper rhyming mood.

'Twas quite a blow! But I must live
And nurse my wounded pride;
As time goes on, I may forgive
The sender's heartless chide.
'Tis well I know who stooped to send
This penny valentine—
I only wish I'd seen my friend
The moment he got mine!

Local Spotters Drill During Week-End Tests

Kingston's observation post satisfactorily completed its duties in the week-end's most intensive peacetime test of the area's air defenses, the post supervisor reported today.

Mrs. George Dewey Logan revealed that the local post was staffed at all times during the scheduled hours of the test. About 40 volunteer spotters spent two-hour shifts at the observation post during the two days.

Mrs. Logan complimented the local operators of the New York Telephone Company for their cooperation and efficient handling of telephone calls to the filter centers.

The test covered 21 states and involved 150,000 volunteer civilian spotters. Air force bombers and fighters, navy, Canadian, Air National Guard and reserve planes flew approximately 3,000 sorties to test the effectiveness of the area's network of radar, defending planes, anti-aircraft artillery and ground observers. The volunteer spotters at 2,700 posts placed 23,000 telephone calls to 19 filter centers.

Suffocation Cause Of Child's Death

The nine-month-old baby son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kortright of R.F.D. Kerhonkson accidentally suffocated in his crip early Sunday morning.

The baby, Bobby Herbert, was found with the blankets covering its head about 7:45 a. m. Sunday by the mother, who rushed him to Dr. Alfred M. Feldshuh's office in Kerhonkson. The baby was pronounced dead on arrival at the doctor's office.

A verdict of "accidental death by asphyxiation" was issued by Coroner Arthur C. Chipp following an investigation by him and District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn and County Investigator Leonard Belmore of the sheriff's office.

Mrs. Kortright told investigators that the baby was apparently all right at 11:45 p. m. Saturday but did not awaken at the usual time Sunday morning.

Besides his parents, the boy is survived by a sister, Donna Sue Kortright; his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Kortright of Mombaccus and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert DeWitt of Napanoch. Several aunts and uncles also survive.

Funeral services will be held from the H. B. Humiston Funeral Home in Kerhonkson Tuesday at 2 p. m. The Rev. Elmer Cates of the Ellenville Methodist Church will officiate. Burial will be in the Pine Bush Cemetery, near Kerhonkson.

Followed Book Pattern

Granville Ferry, Nova Scotia, Feb. 12 (AP)—A comic book's picturization of a girl held captive was believed responsible today for the self-strangling of 11-year-old Evelyn Halliday. The child was found dead in her bedroom Saturday, apparently after she tied herself to the bedpost in imitation of the captive portrayed in a comic book at her feet. A coroner's jury, including a newsstand vendor of such publications, recommended in its verdict of accidental death that such "type of comic book be banned."

Ceiling and Wall Damaged

A section of ceiling and wall in a house owned by Mrs. Elizabeth K. Hoetger, 10 Valley street, were damaged by fire Saturday. Firemen were called at 11:08 a. m., and the report said the blaze, which had apparently started because of a defective flue, was confined to the point of origin between the downstairs ceiling and upstairs floor. Men and equipment from the central station responded. A section of wall on the second floor and boards in the attic were removed in fighting the blaze.

Y.W.C.A. Disbands

Prague, Feb. 12 (AP)—The Young Women's Christian Association in Czechoslovakia has disbanded, members were advised by letter today. The letter said the organization's central committee, central action committee and committee of branches had decided on its dissolution as of Jan. 31. This decision was made, it said, "because of changes in regulations concerning associations in accordance with the people's democratic laws." It did not elaborate.

Reservations Are Due

Boy Scout Rally Attracts Throng

Local observance of Boy Scout Week was climaxed Saturday evening with a rally at the municipal auditorium. Scouting events, exhibits and Cub Scout activities were featured at the rally, which was attended by a large number of parents and friends.

Boy Scout Troop 12, sponsored by the First Dutch Church and led by Scoutmaster Ralph Shapiro, came away with first place ribbon in the competition in scouting events. Second place was earned by Troop 26 of Port Ewen, Roger Mabie, scoutmaster; and Troop 3, St. Joseph's Church, Charles Thurin, scoutmaster, won third place.

In the Cubbing events, Pack 3, St. Joseph's Church, was awarded first place ribbon; Pack 12, First Dutch Church, won second place, and Pack 15, Church of the Comforter, won third place.

Scout exhibits featured merit badge requirements on camping (Troop 5), cooking and camping (Troop 6), cycling (Troop 8), pioneering (Troop 9), photography (Troop 10), first aid (Troop 11), reptile study (Troop 12), and seamanship (Troop 26).

Troops participating in the rally, listed with their sponsoring organization and scoutmasters, were: No. 3, St. Joseph's Church, Charles Thurin; No. 5, B'nai B'rith, David Badian; No. 6, First Baptist, Sherwood Lasher; No. 8, First Presbyterian, John Clark; No. 9, Redeemer Lutheran, William Daum; No. 10, Ulster Hose Company, Allen Cole; No. 11, St. James Methodist, Robert Tremper; No. 12, First Dutch, Ralph Shapiro; No. 26, Port Ewen, Roger Mabie.

Cub packs were No. 3, St. Joseph's Church, Carl Thurin, cubmaster; No. 12, First Dutch, James Little, and No. 15, Comforter, Arthur Souers.

Exhibits on Display

As a part of Scout Week events, four outstanding exhibits had been placed in local store windows. Troop 3 had an exhibit of the various branches of scouting, from Cubbing to Explorer Scouting, in the Montgomery Ward store window. Troop 6 featured Dr. Arthur S. Cole's rock and mineral collection along with models of tents and camping equipment, in the Blackstone Pharmacy window. Troop 11 had an exhibit of uniforms and other scoutcraft items in the window of Elston's Sport Shop. Troop 26 portrayed the part that the river has played in local history with an exhibit of ship models and paintings in the Esopus Town Hall at Port Ewen.

Outbreak Reported

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 12 (AP)—The state health commissioner says influenza virus caused the outbreak of respiratory disease in Niagara county. Dr. Herman E. Hilleboe estimated last night that half of the population had been affected by the swift spread of the disease. The health department's virus research laboratory is making further studies to determine the specific type of virus, Dr. Hilleboe said. Nearly 3,000 of the 14,263 children in Niagara Falls' schools were absent Friday. The schools were not open today because of the Lincoln holiday. Hilleboe said industrial absenteeism had amounted to about 20 per cent.

Record Sum Paid

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 12 (AP)—A record $1,484,568 in license fees was paid last year by dog owners in New York state, outside of New York city. The 613,427 licensed dogs represented an increase of 21,824 over the 1949 total, the State Agriculture Department said yesterday. New York city has its own dog-licensing system.

Rail Shift Seen

braked the train from 60 to about 25 miles per hour before the derailment.

The wreck was this country's worst since 1918, when 115 were killed in a Nashville, Tenn., train accident.

Silvey's testimony was under questioning by John E. Boswell, president of the New Jersey P.U.C.

"Suppose the track was shifted by a train immediately prior to the derailment, couldn't that be so?" Boswell asked.

"That could be so," Silvey said.

Maximum Safe Speed

Silvey said the maximum safe speed at the curve just before the trestle was 44 miles an hour, but that this was not the "overturn" speed. He put the 'locomotive overturn speed for a five-degree curve at 76 miles per hour.

McNally testified that the temporary track was laid under his supervision. After the first train used in on the day of the wreck, he said, there was one surface condition to correct, but "it did not produce an unsafe condition."

The repair involved tamping material under a tie to raise a rail an estimated one-half inch. He added that after this was done, and after another train used the section, he reinspected the section about 3 p. m., and found everything was "perfectly safe."

The wreck was about three hours later.

McNally said he did not install signals prior to the accident because it was "not necessary."

Slow Sign Set Up

He said that after the derailment, a slow sign was set up beside the main-track approach to the overpass, ordering a slowdown to 25 miles per hour along the regular tracks adjoining the temporary bypass. Later, he said, "normal speed" over the regular tracks was restored.

The bypass trestle, which had been set up to permit work on another construction project, was damaged and put out of use in the accident, and trains reverted to regular tracks.

Two civil engineers, Harry M. Brown and Shortridge Hardesty, both bridge-building specialists, testified that blueprints followed in constructing the new trestle showed the structure was suitable for its intended purpose.

Two locomotive engineers, Ralph W. Maxson, and Ned Rodd Calkins, said they operated trains over the trestle prior to the accident. Maxson said he passed over the site at about 15 miles an hour approximately 15 minutes before the wreck. Calkins said he was going not more than 20 miles an hour when he passed the site several hours earlier. Both said they were aware of the special slow-down speed limit.

these icy, precipitous roads like mountain goats but transport is dangerous for the mechanized allied forces.

The temperature had dipped to zero.

Forced to Retreat

Allied elements which had fanned out 10 miles northeast of Hoengsong were forced to fall back by the suddenness of the South Korean collapse. Units supporting the South Koreans could not bring artillery into full play because they were not sure where the ROKs were.

Some South Korean stragglers retreated within a few miles of Wonju. Waugh said Americans were stopping them and sending them back north.

American officers in that area reported the retreating South Koreans were re-assembling and added:

"All they have to do now is fight their way out."

An intelligence officer said the situation around Hoengsong was serious, but not as critical as first feared.

Newspaper Editors Hold Winter Session

Syracuse, N. Y., Feb. 12 (AP)—The mid-winter meeting of the New York State Society of Newspaper Editors opened today with several panel discussions.

Alexander F. Jones, executive editor of the Syracuse Herald-Journal, speaks at the luncheon.

Hal Boyle, Associated Press war correspondent recently returned from Korea, will address the group tonight.

In a pre-meeting program last night, the society honored M. Lyle Spencer, Dean of Syracuse University's School of Journalism.

Spencer will retire in June after 16 years as dean of the school. He was presented an honor scroll by L. R. Blanchard, general executive editor of the Gannett Newspapers and Editor of the Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

Eleven executives were initiated into Sigma Delta Chi, national journalism fraternity. They were: Richard H. Amberg, general manager of the Syracuse Post-Standard; Oxie Reichler, editor of the Yonkers Herald-Statesman; Nelson Griswold, city editor of the Buffalo Evening News; Norman R. Baker, editor of the Nyack Journal News; Martin R. Marriott, managing editor of the Rome Sentinel; George S. Crandall, executive editor of the Elmira Star Gazette; Charles A. S. Freeman, managing editor of the Newburgh-Beacon News; James H. Stevens, news editor of the Binghamton Press, Clarence T. Leighton, editor of the Oswego Palladium-Times; Edward J. Hughes, editor of the Port Chester Item, and Walter F. Hine, editor of the Gloversville Leader-Republican.

Fred W. Stein, society president and editor of the Binghamton Press, is presiding at the session, which will end tomorrow.

Case Will Leave City for New Jersey

Robert W. Case, manager of the two local Walter Reade theaters, and New York state division manager for the Reade chain, said today he expects to leave this city about March 1 to manage a Reade theatre at Long Branch, N. J.

As state division manager, Case managed seven theatres; two here, those at Hudson and Saratoga and an open air drive-in in this city. He has been here eight years.

The theatre at Long Branch, which is near Asbury Park, he said, will feature high grade stage presentations. Its seating capacity is about the same as either of the two local houses.

Case, who lives at Woodstock and also has a summer place at Shandaken, said no successor has been named to date. He is president of the Central Business Men's Association.

To Question O'Dwyer

New York, Feb. 12 (AP)—The Senate Crime Committee has sent an agent to Mexico to question U. S. Ambassador William O'Dwyer, former New York city mayor, prior to opening of hearings here tomorrow. Federal authorities said that Louis Yavner, special counsel to the crime committee, was in Mexico City today, seeking to question O'Dwyer presumably concerning organized crime in the New York metropolitan area. It was not disclosed what specific questions Yavner would ask O'Dwyer.

DiSalle Expects

Defense Mobilization Director Charles E. Wilson sought supervision over manpower so he could "impose mandatory controls' on workers.

Walter Reuther, president of the C.I.O. United Auto Workers, said in a speech at Hagerstown, Md., that the government froze prices "in the stratosphere" — at the highest levels between Dec. 19 and Jan. 25. Reuther pledges support of wage and price regulations, but said the economic controls law contains "loopholes * * * big enough to drive a truck through."

A.F.L. Vice President George M. Harrison told a reporter his appointment as special assistant to Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnson will not satisfy labors demand for a voice in the highest government economic councils.

On the price front, meanwhile, the Office of Price Stabilization was at work on an order placing ceilings on fats, oils, soybeans, coffee, cocoa and a few other commodities. Its issuance was likely this week.

Card of Thanks

May I offer my sincere gratitude to all friends and former customers of my late father, I. Ginzburg, pharmacist, of 93 Broadway, who not only sent so many sympathetic letters and cards, but immediately and so willingly lent their personal services to aid and ease the shock of my father's sudden death.

Evening Verse
(For Your Scrapbook)
By DANIEL I. O'CONNOR

MY VALENTINE

I have a comic valentine
The postman brought today
That asks "Do poets really dine—
Or live on curds and whey"?

A pensive bard is pictured there
With daisy-bordered hat
Which rests atop the flowing hair
That meets a worn cravat.
His coat is thin—and so is he
For lack of proper food
And this, I'm told, resembles me
In proper rhyming mood.

'Twas quite a blow! But I must live
And nurse my wounded pride;
As time goes on, I may forgive
The sender's heartless chide.
'Tis well I know who stooped to send
This penny valentine—
I only wish I'd seen my friend
The moment he got mine!

Local Spotters Drill During Week-End Tests

Kingston's observation post satisfactorily completed its duties in the week-end's most intensive peacetime test of the area's air defenses, the post supervisor reported today.

Mrs. George Dewey Logan revealed that the local post was staffed at all times during the scheduled hours of the test. About 40 volunteer spotters spent two-hour shifts at the observation post during the two days.

Mrs. Logan complimented the local operators of the New York Telephone Company for their cooperation and efficient handling of telephone calls to the filter centers.

The test covered 21 states and involved 150,000 volunteer civilian spotters. Air force bombers and fighters, navy, Canadian, Air National Guard and reserve planes flew approximately 3,000 sorties to test the effectiveness of the area's network of radar, defending planes, anti-aircraft artillery and ground observers. The volunteer spotters at 2,700 posts placed 23,000 telephone calls to 19 filter centers.

Suffocation Cause Of Child's Death

The nine-month-old baby son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kortright of R.F.D. Kerhonkson accidentally suffocated in his crip early Sunday morning.

The baby, Bobby Herbert, was found with the blankets covering its head about 7:45 a. m. Sunday by the mother, who rushed him to Dr. Alfred M. Feldshuh's office in Kerhonkson. The baby was pronounced dead on arrival at the doctor's office.

A verdict of "accidental death by asphyxiation" was issued by Coroner Arthur C. Chipp following an investigation by him and District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn and County Investigator Leonard Belmore of the sheriff's office.

Mrs. Kortright told investigators that the baby was apparently all right at 11:45 p. m. Saturday but did not awaken at the usual time Sunday morning.

Besides his parents, the boy is survived by a sister, Donna Sue Kortright; his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Kortright of Mombaccus and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert DeWitt of Napanoch. Several aunts and uncles also survive.

Funeral services will be held from the H. B. Humiston Funeral Home in Kerhonkson Tuesday at 2 p. m. The Rev. Elmer Cates of the Ellenville Methodist Church will officiate. Burial will be in the Pine Bush Cemetery, near Kerhonkson.

Followed Book Pattern

Granville Ferry, Nova Scotia, Feb. 12 (AP)—A comic book's picturization of a girl held captive was believed responsible today for the self-strangling of 11-year-old Evelyn Halliday. The child was found dead in her bedroom Saturday, apparently after she tied herself to the bedpost in imitation of the captive portrayed in a comic book at her feet. A coroner's jury, including a newsstand vendor of such publications, recommended in its verdict of accidental death that such "type of comic book be banned."

Ceiling and Wall Damaged

A section of ceiling and wall in a house owned by Mrs. Elizabeth K. Hoetger, 10 Valley street, were damaged by fire Saturday. Firemen were called at 11:08 a. m., and the report said the blaze, which had apparently started because of a defective flue, was confined to the point of origin between the downstairs ceiling and upstairs floor. Men and equipment from the central station responded. A section of wall on the second floor and boards in the attic were removed in fighting the blaze.

Y.W.C.A. Disbands

Prague, Feb. 12 (AP)—The Young Women's Christian Association in Czechoslovakia has disbanded, members were advised by letter today. The letter said the organization's central committee, central action committee and committee of branches had decided on its dissolution as of Jan. 31. This decision was made, it said, "because of changes in regulations concerning associations in accordance with the people's democratic laws." It did not elaborate.

Reservations Are Due

Reservations for the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet should be made by Tuesday night, February 13, it was announced today by Howard C. St. John, committee chairman. Reservations may be made by telephoning the Chamber of Commerce office or by returning the blanks which were mailed to members. The banquet will be held Thursday night at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Boy Scout Rally Attracts Throng

Local observance of Boy Scout Week was climaxed Saturday evening with a rally at the municipal auditorium. Scouting events, exhibits and Cub Scout activities were featured at the rally, which was attended by a large number of parents and friends.

Boy Scout Troop 12, sponsored by the First Dutch Church and led by Scoutmaster Ralph Shapiro, came away with first place ribbon in the competition in scouting events. Second place was earned by Troop 26 of Port Ewen, Roger Mabie, scoutmaster; and Troop 3, St. Joseph's Church, Charles Thurin, scoutmaster, won third place.

In the Cubbing events, Pack 3, St. Joseph's Church, was awarded first place ribbon; Pack 12, First Dutch Church, won second place, and Pack 15, Church of the Comforter, won third place.

Scout exhibits featured merit badge requirements on camping (Troop 5), cooking and camping (Troop 6), cycling (Troop 8), pioneering (Troop 9), photography (Troop 10), first aid (Troop 11), reptile study (Troop 12), and seamanship (Troop 26).

Troops participating in the rally, listed with their sponsoring organization and scoutmasters, were: No. 3, St. Joseph's Church, Charles Thurin; No. 5, B'nai B'rith, David Badian; No. 6, First Baptist, Sherwood Lasher; No. 8, First Presbyterian, John Clark; No. 9, Redeemer Lutheran, William Daum; No. 10, Ulster Hose Company, Allen Cole; No. 11, St. James Methodist, Robert Tremper; No. 12, First Dutch, Ralph Shapiro; No. 26, Port Ewen, Roger Mabie.

Cub packs were No. 3, St. Joseph's Church, Carl Thurin, cubmaster; No. 12, First Dutch, James Little, and No. 15, Comforter, Arthur Souers.

Exhibits on Display

As a part of Scout Week events, four outstanding exhibits had been placed in local store windows. Troop 3 had an exhibit of the various branches of scouting, from Cubbing to Explorer Scouting, in the Montgomery Ward store window. Troop 6 featured Dr. Arthur S. Cole's rock and mineral collection along with models of tents and camping equipment, in the Blackstone Pharmacy window. Troop 11 had an exhibit of uniforms and other scoutcraft items in the window of Elston's Sport Shop. Troop 26 portrayed the part that the river has played in local history with an exhibit of ship models and paintings in the Esopus Town Hall at Port Ewen.

Outbreak Reported

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 12 (AP)—The state health commissioner says influenza virus caused the outbreak of respiratory disease in Niagara county. Dr. Herman E. Hilleboe estimated last night that half of the population had been affected by the swift spread of the disease. The health department's virus research laboratory is making further studies to determine the specific type of virus, Dr. Hilleboe said. Nearly 3,000 of the 14,263 children in Niagara Falls' schools were absent Friday. The schools were not open today because of the Lincoln holiday. Hilleboe said industrial absenteeism had amounted to about 20 per cent.

Record Sum Paid

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 12 (AP)—A record $1,484,568 in license fees was paid last year by dog owners in New York state, outside of New York city. The 613,427 licensed dogs represented an increase of 21,824 over the 1949 total, the State Agriculture Department said yesterday. New York city has its own dog-licensing system.

Rail Shift Seen

braked the train from 60 to about 25 miles per hour before the derailment.

The wreck was this country's worst since 1918, when 115 were killed in a Nashville, Tenn., train accident.

Silvey's testimony was under questioning by John E. Boswell, president of the New Jersey P.U.C.

"Suppose the track was shifted by a train immediately prior to the derailment, couldn't that be so?" Boswell asked.

"That could be so," Silvey said.

Maximum Safe Speed

Silvey said the maximum safe speed at the curve just before the trestle was 44 miles an hour, but that this was not the "overturn" speed. He put the locomotive overturn speed for a five-degree curve at 76 miles per hour.

McNally testified that the temporary track was laid under his supervision. After the first train used in on the day of the wreck, he said, there was one surface condition to correct, but "it did not produce an unsafe condition."

The repair involved tamping material under a tie to raise a rail an estimated one-half inch. He added that after this was done, and after another train used the section, he reinspected the section about 3 p. m., and found everything was "perfectly safe."

The wreck was about three hours later.

McNally said he did not install signals prior to the accident because it was "not necessary."

Slow Sign Set Up

He said that after the derailment, a slow sign was set up beside the main-track approach to the overpass, ordering a slowdown to 25 miles per hour along the regular tracks adjoining the temporary bypass. Later, he said, "normal speed" over the regular tracks was restored.

The bypass trestle, which had been set up to permit work on another construction project, was damaged and put out of use in the accident, and trains reverted to regular tracks.

Two civil engineers, Harry M. Brown and Shortridge Hardesty, both bridge-building specialists, testified that blueprints followed in constructing the new trestle showed the structure was suitable for its intended purpose.

Two locomotive engineers, Ralph W. Maxson, and Ned Rodd Calkins, said they operated trains over the trestle prior to the accident. Maxson said he passed over the site at about 15 miles an hour approximately 15 minutes before the wreck. Calkins said he was going not more than 20 miles an hour when he passed the site several hours earlier. Both said they were aware of the special slow-down speed limit.

these icy, precipitous roads like mountain goats but transport is dangerous for the mechanized allied forces.

The temperature had dipped to zero.

Forced to Retreat

Allied elements which had fanned out 10 miles northeast of Hoengsong were forced to fall back by the suddenness of the South Korean collapse. Units supporting the South Koreans could not bring artillery into full play because they were not sure where the ROKs were.

Some South Korean stragglers retreated within a few miles of Wonju. Waugh said Americans were stopping them and sending them back north.

American officers in that area reported the retreating South Koreans were re-assembling and added:

"All they have to do now is fight their way out."

An intelligence officer said the situation around Hoengsong was serious, but not as critical as first feared.

Newspaper Editors Hold Winter Session

Syracuse, N. Y., Feb. 12 (AP)—The mid-winter meeting of the New York State Society of Newspaper Editors opened today with several panel discussions.

Alexander F. Jones, executive editor of the Syracuse Herald-Journal, speaks at the luncheon.

Hal Boyle, Associated Press war correspondent recently returned from Korea, will address the group tonight.

In a pre-meeting program last night, the society honored M. Lyle Spencer, Dean of Syracuse University's School of Journalism.

Spencer will retire in June after 16 years as dean of the school. He was presented an honor scroll by L. R. Blanchard, general executive editor of the Gannett Newspapers and Editor of the Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

Eleven executives were initiated into Sigma Delta Chi, national journalism fraternity. They were:

Case Will Leave City for New Jersey

Robert W. Case, manager of the two local Walter Reade theaters, and New York state division manager for the Reade chain, said today he expects to leave this city about March 1 to manage a Reade theatre at Long Branch, N. J.

As state division manager, Case managed seven theatres; two here, those at Hudson and Saratoga and an open air drive-in in this city. He has been here eight years.

The theatre at Long Branch, which is near Asbury Park, he said, will feature high grade stage presentations. Its seating capacity is about the same as either of the two local houses.

Case, who lives at Woodstock and also has a summer place at Shandaken, said no successor has been named to date. He is president of the Central Business Men's Association.

To Question O'Dwyer

New York, Feb. 12 (AP)—The Senate Crime Committee has sent an agent to Mexico to question U. S. Ambassador William O'Dwyer, former New York city mayor, prior to opening of hearings here tomorrow. Federal authorities said that Louis Yavner, special counsel to the crime committee, was in Mexico City today, seeking to question O'Dwyer presumably concerning organized crime in the New York metropolitan area. It was not disclosed what specific questions Yavner would ask O'Dwyer.

DiSalle Expects

Defense Mobilization Director Charles E. Wilson sought supervision over manpower so he could "impose mandatory controls' on workers.

Walter Reuther, president of the C.I.O. United Auto Workers, said in a speech at Hagerstown, Md., that the government froze prices "in the stratosphere" — at the highest levels between Dec. 19 and Jan. 25. Reuther pledges support of wage and price regulations, but said the economic controls law contains "loopholes * * * big enough to drive a truck through."

A.F.L. Vice President George M. Harrison told a reporter his appointment as special assistant to Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnson will not satisfy labors demand for a voice in the highest government economic councils.

On the price front, meanwhile, the Office of Price Stabilization was at work on an order placing ceilings on fats, oils, soybeans, coffee, cocoa and a few other commodities. Its issuance was likely this week.

Police Captain William T. Roedell, who has been at the Benedictine Hospital for several weeks, returned to his home, 101 Pine Grove avenue early Saturday afternoon. He was taken to the hospital Christmas day for treatment of a heart condition.

Card of Thanks

May I offer my sincere gratitude to all friends and former customers of my late father, I. Ginzburg, pharmacist, of 93 Broadway, who not only sent so many sympathetic letters and cards, but immediately and so willingly lent their personal services to aid and ease the shock of my father's sudden death.

Evening Verse—

(For Your Scrapbook)
By DANIEL J. O'CONNOR

MY VALENTINE

I have a comic valentine
The postman brought today
That asks "Do poets really dine—
Or live on curds and whey"?

A pensive bard is pictured there
With daisy-bordered hat
Which rests atop the flowing hair
That meets a worn cravat.
His coat is thin—and so is he
For lack of proper food
And this, I'm told, resembles me
In proper rhyming mood.

'Twas quite a blow! But I must live
And nurse my wounded pride;
As time goes on, I may forgive
The sender's heartless chide.
'Tis well I know who stooped to send
This penny valentine—
I only wish I'd seen my friend
The moment he got mine!

Local Spotters Drill During Week-End Tests

Kingston's observation post satisfactorily completed its duties in the week-end's most intensive peacetime test of the area's air defenses, the post supervisor reported today.

Mrs. George Dewey Logan revealed that the local post was staffed at all times during the scheduled hours of the test. About 40 volunteer spotters spent two-hour shifts at the observation post during the two days.

Mrs. Logan complimented the local operators of the New York Telephone Company for their cooperation and efficient handling of telephone calls to the filter centers.

The test covered 21 states and involved 150,000 volunteer civilian spotters. Air force bombers and fighters, navy, Canadian, Air National Guard and reserve planes flew approximately 3,000 sorties to test the effectiveness of the area's network of radar, defending planes, anti-aircraft artillery and ground observers. The volunteer spotters at 2,700 posts placed 23,000 telephone calls to 19 filter centers.

Suffocation Cause Of Child's Death

The nine-month-old baby son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kortright of R.F.D. Kerhonkson accidentally suffocated in his crip early Sunday morning.

The baby, Bobby Herbert, was found with the blankets covering its head about 7:45 a. m. Sunday by the mother, who rushed him to Dr. Alfred M. Feldshuh's office in Kerhonkson. The baby was pronounced dead on arrival at the doctor's office.

A verdict of "accidental death by asphyxiation" was issued by Coroner Arthur C. Chipp following an investigation by him and District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn and County Investigator Leonard Belmore of the sheriff's office.

Mrs. Kortright told investigators that the baby was apparently all right at 11:45 p. m. Saturday but did not awaken at the usual time Sunday morning.

Besides his parents, the boy is survived by a sister, Donna Sue Kortright; his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Kortright of Mombaccus and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert DeWitt of Napanoch. Several aunts and uncles also survive.

Funeral services will be held from the H. B. Humiston Funeral Home in Kerhonkson Tuesday at 2 p. m. The Rev. Elmer Cates of the Ellenville Methodist Church will officiate. Burial will be in the Pine Bush Cemetery, near Kerhonkson.

Followed Book Pattern

Granville Ferry, Nova Scotia, Feb. 12 (AP)—A comic book's picturization of a girl held captive was believed responsible today for the self-strangling of 11-year-old Evelyn Halliday. The child was found dead in her bedroom Saturday, apparently after she tied herself to the bedpost in imitation of the captive portrayed in a comic book at her feet. A coroner's jury, including a newsstand vendor of such publications, recommended in its verdict of accidental death that such "type of comic book be banned."

Ceiling and Wall Damaged

A section of ceiling and wall in a house owned by Mrs. Elizabeth K. Hoetger, 10 Valley street, were damaged by fire Saturday. Firemen were called at 11:08 a. m., and the report said the blaze, which had apparently started because of a defective flue, was confined to the point of origin between the downstairs ceiling and upstairs floor. Men and equipment from the central station responded. A section of wall on the second floor and boards in the attic were removed in fighting the blaze.

Y.W.C.A. Disbands

Prague, Feb. 12 (AP)—The Young Women's Christian Association in Czechoslovakia has disbanded, members were advised by letter today. The letter said the organization's central committee, central action committee and committee of branches had decided on its dissolution as of Jan. 31. This decision was made, it said, "because of changes in regulations concerning associations in accordance with the people's democratic laws." It did not elaborate.

Boy Scout Rally Attracts Throng

Local observance of Boy Scout Week was climaxed Saturday evening with a rally at the municipal auditorium. Scouting events, exhibits and Cub Scout activities were featured at the rally, which was attended by a large number of parents and friends.

Boy Scout Troop 12, sponsored by the First Dutch Church and led by Scoutmaster Ralph Shapiro, came away with first place ribbon in the competition in scouting events. Second place was earned by Troop 26 of Port Ewen, Roger Mabie, scoutmaster; and Troop 3, St. Joseph's Church, Charles Thurin, scoutmaster, won third place.

In the Cubbing events, Pack 3, St. Joseph's Church, was awarded first place ribbon; Pack 12, First Dutch Church, won second place, and Pack 15, Church of the Comforter, won third place.

Scout exhibits featured merit badge requirements on camping (Troop 5), cooking and camping (Troop 6), cycling (Troop 8), pioneering (Troop 9), photography (Troop 10), first aid (Troop 11), reptile study (Troop 12), and seamanship (Troop 26).

Troops participating in the rally, listed with their sponsoring organization and scoutmasters, were: No. 3, St. Joseph's Church, Charles Thurin; No. 5, B'nai B'rith, David Badian; No. 6, First Baptist, Sherwood Lasher; No. 8, First Presbyterian, John Clark; No. 9, Redeemer Lutheran, William Daum; No. 10, Ulster Hose Company, Allen Cole; No. 11, St. James Methodist, Robert Tremper; No. 12, First Dutch, Ralph Shapiro; No. 26, Port Ewen, Roger Mabie.

Cub packs were No. 3, St. Joseph's Church, Carl Thurin, cubmaster; No. 12, First Dutch, James Little, and No. 15, Comforter, Arthur Souers.

Exhibits on Display

As a part of Scout Week events, four outstanding exhibits had been placed in local store windows. Troop 3 had an exhibit of the various branches of scouting, from Cubbing to Explorer Scouting, in the Montgomery Ward store window. Troop 6 featured Dr. Arthur S. Cole's rock and mineral collection along with models of tents and camping equipment, in the Blackstone Pharmacy window. Troop 11 had an exhibit of uniforms and other scoutcraft items in the window of Elston's Sport Shop. Troop 26 portrayed the part that the river has played in local history with an exhibit of ship models and paintings in the Esopus Town Hall at Port Ewen.

Outbreak Reported

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 12 (AP)—The state health commissioner says influenza virus caused the outbreak of respiratory disease in Niagara county. Dr. Herman E. Hilleboe estimated last night that half of the population had been affected by the swift spread of the disease. The health department's virus research laboratory is making further studies to determine the specific type of virus, Dr. Hilleboe said. Nearly 3,000 of the 14,263 children in Niagara Falls' schools were absent Friday. The schools were not open today because of the Lincoln holiday. Hilleboe said industrial absenteeism had amounted to about 20 per cent.

Record Sum Paid

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 12 (AP)—A record $1,484,568 in license fees was paid last year by dog owners in New York state, outside of New York city. The 613,427 licensed dogs represented an increase of 21,824 over the 1949 total, the State Agriculture Department said yesterday. New York city has its own dog-licensing system.

Rail Shift Seen

braked the train from 60 to about 25 miles per hour before the derailment.

The wreck was this country's worst since 1918, when 115 were killed in a Nashville, Tenn., train accident.

Silvey's testimony was under questioning by John E. Boswell, president of the New Jersey P.U.C.

"Suppose the track was shifted by a train immediately prior to the derailment, couldn't that be so?" Boswell asked.

"That could be so," Silvey said.

Maximum Safe Speed

Silvey said the maximum safe speed at the curve just before the trestle was 44 miles an hour, but that this was not the "overturn" speed. He put the 'locomotive overturn speed for a five-degree curve at 76 miles per hour.

McNally testified that the temporary track was laid under his supervision. After the first train used in on the day of the wreck, he said, there was one surface condition to correct, but "it did not produce an unsafe condition."

The repair involved tamping material under a tie to raise a rail an estimated one-half inch. He added that after this was done, and after another train used the section, he reinspected the section about 3 p. m., and found everything was "perfectly safe."

The wreck was about three hours later.

McNally said he did not install signals prior to the accident because it was "not necessary."

Slow Sign Set Up

He said that after the derailment, a slow sign was set up beside the main-track approach to the overpass, ordering a slowdown to 25 miles per hour along the regular tracks adjoining the temporary bypass. Later, he said, "normal speed" over the regular tracks was restored.

The bypass trestle, which had been set up to permit work on another construction project, was damaged and put out of use in the accident, and trains reverted to regular tracks.

Two civil engineers, Harry M. Brown and Shortridge Hardesty, both bridge-building specialists, testified that blueprints followed in constructing the new trestle showed the structure was suitable for its intended purpose.

Two locomotive engineers, Ralph W. Maxson, and Ned Rodd Calkins, said they operated trains over the trestle prior to the accident. Maxson said he passed over the site at about 15 miles an hour approximately 15 minutes before the wreck. Calkins said he was going not more than 20 miles an hour when he passed the site several hours earlier. Both said they were aware of the special slow-down speed limit.

these icy, precipitous roads like mountain goats but transport is dangerous for the mechanized allied forces.

The temperature had dipped to zero.

Forced to Retreat

Allied elements which had fanned out 10 miles northeast of Hoengsong were forced to fall back by the suddenness of the South Korean collapse. Units supporting the South Koreans could not bring artillery into full play because they were not sure where the ROKs were.

Some South Korean stragglers retreated within a few miles of Wonju. Waugh said Americans were stopping them and sending them back north.

American officers in that area reported the retreating South Koreans were re-assembling and added:

"All they have to do now is fight their way out."

An intelligence officer said the situation around Hoengsong was serious, but not as critical as first feared.

Newspaper Editors Hold Winter Session

Syracuse, N. Y., Feb. 12 (AP)—The mid-winter meeting of the New York State Society of Newspaper Editors opened today with several panel discussions.

Alexander F. Jones, executive editor of the Syracuse Herald-Journal, speaks at the luncheon.

Hal Boyle, Associated Press war correspondent recently returned from Korea, will address the group tonight.

In a pre-meeting program last night, the society honored M. Lyle Spencer, Dean of Syracuse University's School of Journalism.

Spencer will retire in June after 16 years as dean of the school. He was presented an honor scroll by L. R. Blanchard, general executive editor of the Gannett Newspapers and Editor of the Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

Eleven executives were initiated into Sigma Delta Chi, national journalism fraternity. They were: Richard H. Amberg, general manager of the Syracuse Post-Standard; Oxie Reichler, editor of the Yonkers Herald-Statesman; Nelson Griswold, city editor of the Buffalo Evening News; Norman R. Baker, editor of the Nyack Journal News; Martin R. Marriott, managing editor of the Rome Sentinel; George S. Crandall, executive editor of the Elmira Star Gazette; Charles A. S. Freeman, managing editor of the Newburgh-Beacon News; James H. Stevens, news editor of the Binghamton Press, Clarence T. Leighton, editor of the Oswego Palladium-Times; Edward J. Hughes, editor of the Port Chester Item, and Walter F. Hine, editor of the Gloversville Leader-Republican.

Fred W. Stein, society president and editor of the Binghamton Press, is presiding at the session, which will end tomorrow.

Case Will Leave City for New Jersey

Robert W. Case, manager of the two local Walter Reade theaters, and New York state division manager for the Reade chain, said today he expects to leave this city about March 1 to manage a Reade theatre at Long Branch, N. J.

As state division manager, Case managed seven theatres; two here, those at Hudson and Saratoga and an open air drive-in in this city. He has been here eight years.

The theatre at Long Branch, which is near Asbury Park, he said, will feature high grade stage presentations. Its seating capacity is about the same as either of the two local houses.

Case, who lives at Woodstock and also has a summer place at Shandaken, said no successor has been named to date. He is president of the Central Business Men's Association.

To Question O'Dwyer

New York, Feb. 12 (AP)—The Senate Crime Committee has sent an agent to Mexico to question U. S. Ambassador William O'Dwyer, former New York city mayor, prior to opening of hearings here tomorrow. Federal authorities said that Louis Yavner, special counsel to the crime committee, was in Mexico City today, seeking to question O'Dwyer presumably concerning organized crime in the New York metropolitan area. It was not disclosed what specific questions Yavner would ask O'Dwyer.

DiSalle Expects

Defense Mobilization Director Charles E. Wilson sought supervision over manpower so he could "impose mandatory controls' on workers.

Walter Reuther, president of the C.I.O. United Auto Workers, said in a speech at Hagerstown, Md., that the government froze prices "in the stratosphere" — at the highest levels between Dec. 19 and Jan. 25. Reuther pledges support of wage and price regulations, but said the economic controls law contains "loopholes * * * big enough to drive a truck through."

A.F.L. Vice President George M. Harrison told a reporter his appointment as special assistant to Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnson will not satisfy labors demand for a voice in the highest government economic councils.

On the price front, meanwhile, the Office of Price Stabilization was at work on an order placing ceilings on fats, oils, soybeans, coffee, cocoa and a few other commodities. Its issuance was likely this week.

Dewey Says Probe Depends on Job Done by Officials

New York, Feb. 12 (AP) — Gov. Thomas E. Dewey said yesterday the question of whether he will support a legislative investigation of New York city depends on "how good a job' is done by the district attorneys.

District Attorneys Frank S. Hogan of Manhattan and Miles F. McDonald of Brooklyn have been conducting investigations of various city departments for a considerable time, including gambling, rackets and graft.

Dewey declined in a television interview yesterday to say whether he would support a pending legislative measure for an investigation of possible links between the underworld and New York city government and politics.

The Governor was queried about the measure, introduced by two Republican legislators, during the National Broadcasting Company's "meet the press" show.

Reminded that the legislature would have only two months to decide on the bill, Dewey said "we will be able to make up our minds before the session is over."

Dewey said after the program:

"The question is whether there is anything that the legislature could turn up which could not be turned up by the district attorneys in a criminal prosecution.

"It may be that many evil conditions exist, but that these conditions involve the commission of no crime. The question to be decided is whether conditions should be brought out which a criminal investigation might not be able to bring out.'

Jessie Quick Hurt

Jessie Quick, 32, of 406 Washington avenue, suffered injuries of the chest Saturday when his car struck a tree near 129 East Chester street. The police report at 2:45 p. m. by Officers James Burns and Louis Sapp, Jr., said the Quick car was headed north on East Chester street when it "slid on ice and struck a tree in front of 129 East Chester street." Quick was taken to Kingston Hospital and his car was removed by a wrecker. His condition was reported as "good" today.

Air Reservists Plan Meeting Tuesday Night

The 9267th Volunteer Air Reserve Squadron will meet Tuesday at 8 p. m. in the American Legion Building, West O'Reilly street.

Major Leon D. Sachter, U. S. Army Reserve, will talk on "Court Martial Procedure in the Service." Maj. Sachter is an attorney in civilian life and resides in Pawling.

Also present will be Captain William Friga, Jr., a group liaison officer of the Stewart Air Force Base, Newburgh, who will talk on present policies of the air force with respect to reservists being ordered to active duty.

It was recently announced that within the next three months, all airmen and a substantial number of officers of the 9267th Squadron will be ordered to temporary active duty for a period of five days during which time they will be screened and processed to determine their eligibility and general fitness for active duty assignments with the air force.

Captain Friga will discuss in detail this new policy and will be available for questions.

All reservists are requested to attend the meeting.

Two Accidents Block Route 17 at Hillburn

Hillburn, N. Y., Feb. 12 (AP)—Two accidents involving two autos and a trailer-tractor blocked Sunday traffic on heavily-traveled Route 17 near here from 11 a. m. to 5:45 p. m. yesterday.

Thousands of cars and buses had to make a detour through Suffern while wrecking vehicles worked on the two cars and trailer, which had skidded on the ice and gone down a 30-foot embankment.

The first car to go into the gully was driven by Julius W. Lucas, of 811 Sterling Place, Brooklyn, who was taking four friends to Bear Mountain to ski. The five persons in the car were injured slightly.

A moment later, a southbound car driven by Roger Smith, of Oneonta, N. Y., and carrying John Gallagher and George Cuyler, both of Oneonta, was slowed down at the wreck scene.

A northbound trailer-tractor, driven by John Hill, of Eddystone, Pa., skidded on the ice and carried the Smith car down the embankment with it, police said.

State of Washington Sites Are Studied

Washington, Feb. 12 (AP)—Eastern Metal Products Co. of Tuckahoe, N. Y., is considering five western Washington cities as possible sites for a proposed aluminum operation, Senator Magnuson (D-Wash.) said Saturday.

He identified cities under consideration as Vancouver, Longview, Tacoma, Bellingham and Everett.

Magnuson said he had been informed by company representatives that the project involves three units—bauxite reduction, aluminum production and fabrication. Total reduction and production employment in four potlines will be about 300 men with an additional 1,200 persons to be employed in the fabricating plant.

The company has had a commitment from Bonneville Power Administration for some months for 110,000 firm kilowatts of energy.

Magnuson said the eastern firm desires a tidewater site to facilitate handling of the bauxite which is to be shipped in.

Employe, 19, Set Fire to Get Out Of Service Draft

Lansing, Mich., Feb. 12 (AP)—Michigan's state office building is a charred, icy ruin because a teen-aged father just couldn't face the thought of leaving his wife and baby to go into military service.

Full of remorse over the $4,000,000 fire that burned 45 hours and all but halted operation of the state government, 19-year-old Richard C. Shay is jailed pending a formal arson charge. He is a state highway department employe.

He admitted Saturday night, Prosecutor Paul C. Younger said, that he set the blaze because he thought "a little fire" would get him a probationary sentence and keep him out of the army.

Actually, said draft officials, Shay was in no danger of being inducted, although he had received orders to take a pre-induction physical. His 18-year-old wife, Roberta, and their seven-month-old daughter were ample exemptions, said Chairman Dwight C. Rich of the Ingham county draft board.

'Needed Another Year'

"But the fellows in my department kept telling me I would be in the trenches in a couple of months," Shay told police.

"I'd enlist tomorrow if I thought they needed me. But I needed another year so my family would have enough to live on if I was called into service."

Young Shay, who was an Eagle Scout and had an honorable discharge after 18 months in the naval reserve, told of touching a match to some cotton cord in the building's micro-film office just before noon Thursday.

He told police he went home to lunch, but hurried back and found "terrific heat and smoke." He turned in the alarm.

"I've been through a lot, listening to the radio and praying and hoping that no one would be injured. I would rather give my own life than have someone else killed because of something I did," he said. No one was hurt in the blaze.

16 Whales Knocked Out

Wakkanai, Japan, Feb. 12 (AP)—Sixteen careless whales were cruising along today, not paying much attention to the hazards of sea travel. They bumped into a cluster of small icebergs off the northern tip of Hokkaido Island. Every one of the whales was knocked cold. Along came some poor Japanese fishermen and bagged all 16. The whales, 20 to 30 feet long, were valued at $10,000.

Four Persons Killed

Airolo, Switzerland, Feb. 12 (AP)—At least four persons were killed and 22 others were believed buried by avalanches which crashed into two villages in southeast Switzerland last night. Continuous snowfall in the area renewed the threat of slides in the section where 75 persons were killed by avalanches in a single week-end last month. Many villages previously hit were again being evacuated.

Dewey Says Probe Depends on Job Done by Officials

New York, Feb. 12 (AP) — Gov. Thomas E. Dewey said yesterday the question of whether he will support a legislative investigation of New York city depends on "how good a job' is done by the district attorneys.

Major Leon D. Sachter, U. S. Army Reserve, will talk on "Court Martial Procedure in the Service." Maj. Sachter is an attorney in civilian life and resides in Pawling.

Also present will be Captain William Friga, Jr., a group liaison officer of the Stewart Air Force Base, Newburgh, who will talk on present policies of the air force with respect to reservists being ordered to active duty.

It was recently announced that within the next three months, all airmen and a substantial number of officers of the 9267th Squadron will be ordered to temporary active duty for a period of five days during which time they will be screened and processed to determine their eligibility and general fitness for active duty assignments with the air force.

Captain Friga will discuss in detail this new policy and will be available for questions.

All reservists are requested to attend the meeting.

Two Accidents Block Route 17 at Hillburn

Hillburn, N. Y., Feb. 12 (AP)—Two accidents involving two autos and a trailer-tractor blocked Sunday traffic on heavily-traveled Route 17 near here from 11 a. m. to 5:45 p. m. yesterday.

Thousands of cars and buses had to make a detour through Suffern while wrecking vehicles worked on the two cars and trailer, which had skidded on the ice and gone down a 30-foot embankment.

The first car to go into the gully was driven by Julius W. Lucas, of 811 Sterling Place, Brooklyn, who was taking four friends to Bear Mountain to ski. The five persons in the car were injured slightly.

A moment later, a southbound car driven by Roger Smith, of Oneonta, N. Y., and carrying John Gallagher and George Cuyler, both of Oneonta, was slowed down at the wreck scene.

A northbound trailer-tractor, driven by John Hill, of Eddystone, Pa., skidded on the ice and carried the Smith car down the embankment with it, police said.

State of Washington Sites Are Studied

Washington, Feb. 12 (AP)—Eastern Metal Products Co. of Tuckahoe, N. Y., is considering five western Washington cities as possible sites for a proposed aluminum operation, Senator Magnuson (D-Wash.) said Saturday.

He identified cities under consideration as Vancouver, Longview, Tacoma, Bellingham and Everett.

Magnuson said he had been informed by company representatives that the project involves three units—bauxite reduction, aluminum production and fabrication. Total reduction and production employment in four potlines will be about 300 men with an additional 1,200 persons to be employed in the fabricating plant.

The company has had a commitment from Bonneville Power Administration for some months for 110,000 firm kilowatts of energy.

Magnuson said the eastern firm desires a tidewater site to facilitate handling of the bauxite which is to be shipped in.

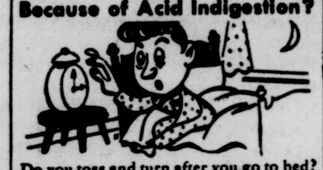

Bard College to Offer Summer Workshop

Bard College, Annandale - on - Hudson, New York is holding a special six-week summer Workshop in Poetry beginning July 9, 1951 for advanced college students interested in creative writing. Enrollment will be limited to 15 students. As a new addition to the summer writers' workshops held throughout the country by various colleges the purpose of the Bard Workshop is to stress the practice of writing poetry and the development of poetic sensibilities and insights. Critical studies will be combined with exercises in the technical aspects and the subject matter of poetry.

Theodore Weiss, editorr of the Quarterly Review of Literature and assistant professor of English at Bard College will direct the workshop program. Among the visiting writers and critics will be William Carlos Williams and Allen Tate.

Inquiries should be sent to the Director of Admissions, Bard College, Annandale-on-Hudson.

Employe, 19, Set Fire to Get Out Of Service Draft

Lansing, Mich., Feb. 12 (AP)—Michigan's state office building is a charred, icy ruin because a teen-aged father just couldn't face the thought of leaving his wife and baby to go into military service.

Full of remorse over the $4,000,000 fire that burned 45 hours and all but halted operation of the state government, 19-year-old Richard C. Shay is jailed pending a formal arson charge. He is a state highway department employe.

He admitted Saturday night, Prosecutor Paul C. Younger said, that he set the blaze because he thought "a little fire" would get him a probationary sentence and keep him out of the army.

Actually, said draft officials, Shay was in no danger of being inducted, although he had received orders to take a pre-induction physical. His 18-year-old wife, Roberta, and their seven-month-old daughter were ample exemptions, said Chairman Dwight C. Rich of the Ingham county draft board.

'Needed Another Year'

"But the fellows in my department kept telling me I would be in the trenches in a couple of months," Shay told police.

"I'd enlist tomorrow if I thought they needed me. But I needed another year so my family would have enough to live on if I was called into service."

Young Shay, who was an Eagle Scout and had an honorable discharge after 18 months in the naval reserve, told of touching a match to some cotton cord in the building's micro-film office just before noon Thursday.

He told police he went home to lunch, but hurried back and found "terrific heat and smoke." He turned in the alarm.

"I've been through a lot, listening to the radio and praying and hoping that no one would be injured. I would rather give my own life than have someone else killed because of something I did," he said. No one was hurt in the blaze.

16 Whales Knocked Out

Wakkanai, Japan, Feb. 12 (AP)—Sixteen careless whales were cruising along today, not paying much attention to the hazards of sea travel. They bumped into a cluster of small icebergs off the northern tip of Hokkaido Island. Every one of the whales was knocked cold. Along came some poor Japanese fishermen and bagged all 16. The whales, 20 to 30 feet long, were valued at $10,000.

Four Persons Killed

Airolo, Switzerland, Feb. 12 (AP)—At least four persons were killed and 22 others were believed buried by avalanches which crashed into two villages in southeast Switzerland last night. Continuous snowfall in the area renewed the threat of slides in the section where 75 persons were killed by avalanches in a single week-end last month. Many villages previously hit were again being evacuated.

LINCOLN'S GREATEST STRENGTH

All over America Abraham Lincoln's birthday is always the high spot of the political speech-making season. Paying tribute to Lincoln is as much the politician's privilege as quoting Thomas Jefferson.

In this time of stress, Americans might well wish that their politicians spent less time in revering Lincoln and more in emulating the fundamental traits that made him a great public servant.

Lincoln stands out in American history because he channeled all his strength into a single great purpose: the preservation of the United States as a union.

He believed in the ideals that justified the existence of America and he believed in the country's future. In the union's darkest day, he did not listen to counsels of despair. His was the voice of courage, of confidence, and yet of compassion.

Above all, his was a voice for unity in allegiance to the American ideal.

Too many of the men who mount platforms to hymn Lincoln's praises will not practice in their daily political lives that same faithfulness to unity.

Seldom in American life has there been a greater need for solidarity of purpose among our people. Yet a lot of our lawmakers, including a healthy number in the august U. S. Senate, pursue their political objectives in utter and complete disregard of that necessity.

Men who cannot suppress their frankly political aims in a time of great trial for the nation make a mockery of the annual homage to Lincoln.

The goal of American living is freedom for every individual—in a setting of security—to develop his capacities as richly and fully as he wishes. The pursuit of that goal is not the special prerogative of any political party. No party may feel that its success is synonymous with the nation's success.

Any man who does believe that his party's triumph is absolutely indispensable to America's future is out of place invoking the spirit of Lincoln. For Lincoln was an American before he was a Republican.

ON THE BACKS OF MEN

Few Americans have had much experience with being carried, as a matter of course, by other human beings. Once past childhood, the average American's experience in being carried is limited to horseplay, in which the result is mere absurdity, and to illness, in which a disagreeable sense of helplessness is engendered. To get from one place to another by some means other than walking, we step into an automobile or some public conveyance.

In the Oriental lands, most particularly in China, the experience of the ordinary citizen is different. Automobiles are for the very few; street cars, buses and trains are for anyone who has the fare, but their routes serve relatively small numbers. The common means of transportation, other than one's own feet, are rickshaw and the sedan chair. The rickshaw is pulled by a trotting coolie, his back ahead of the rider's feet and judiciously out of reach. The sedan chair is carried on the shoulders of a team of coolies.

Something in a man's habits of thinking changes when it becomes his habit to ride on the backs of other men.

Karl Marx might have expected communism to change the order in which it is recognized as one man's lot to be carried and another man's lot to do the carrying. But modern communism does not change this; it merely changes, to suit its own needs, the method of deciding who carries and who is carried.

In order to deal intelligently with China, as well as with other Oriental nations, it is necessary to try to understand the minds of people who accept unthinkingly, as their natural right, the privilege of being carried by a team of coolies.

ATOMIC CURE FOR DIVORCE EVIL

Dispatches from Nevada about the recent A-bomb test contain some interesting sidelights. One account has it that the state's lucrative divorce trade may be affected adversely. It's feared estranged couples will look for quieter places to untie the knot.

Sociologists who worry over our high divorce rate may perk up at this news. Put an A-bomb test range in every easy-divorce state in the country and you might find a lot more couples determined to carry on bravely despite their differences.

LINCOLN AND DISLOYALTY

As the years pass, Abraham Lincoln is not being memembered as the President who controlled our destinies during the war between the states, nor even as the President who issued the Emancipation Proclamation.

Rather do Washington and Lincoln stand high above all the men who have sat in the President's chair, and their greatness lies in their selfless devotion to the nation. It is said that President Truman has taken Jackson as his model, which is unfortunate because it can only justify in his own mind a cantankerousness that approaches a distorted ego. Franklin D. Roosevelt employed no model, for he was his own model, naturally.

Lincoln could not have understood disloyalty. Even as we today are faced by disloyalty, by those who can and do serve an enemy, overtly and in secret, so was he faced with the same problem. In a proclamation, issued on March 10, 1863, he said:

"Whereas evil-disposed and disloyal persons at sundry places have enticed and procured soldiers to desert and absent themselves from their regiments, thereby weakening the strength of the armies and prolonging the war, giving aid and comfort to the enemy, and cruelly exposing the gallant and faithful soldiers remaining in the ranks to increased hardships and danger:

"I do therefore call upon all patriotic and faithful citizens to oppose and resist the aforementioned dangerous and treasonable crimes, and to aid in restoring to their regiments all soldiers absent without leave, and to assist in the execution of the act of Congress 'for enrolling and calling out the national forces, and for other purposes,' and to support the proper authorities in the prosecution and punishment of offenders against said act snd in suppressing the insurrection and rebellion."

He called upon the people to aid in this, whereas in our era disloyalty has become so much a political issue that the executive branch of the government has consistently since 1934, when the Harold Ware Communist cell was organized, aided, defended, protected and whitewashed the disloyal.

It is not only a matter of Alger Hiss and William W. Remington, who was convicted on Wednesday of last week, after having been cleared on several occasions by so-called loyalty boards. It is much more than that. It is a general attitude that loyalty is a private matter and that high public officials, even in so important an agency as the State Department, may have private judgment as to whether the United States must be preserved as a sovereign state or shall become absorbed in some vast international congeries of states which live upon its strength while humiliating and shaming its traditions and conduct.

Lincoln would not have tolerated disloyalty. And even in his proclamation pardoning all who had taken up arms against this government and restoring to them their property, except slaves, he still insisted upon a loyalty oath, to wit:

"I, _____, do solemnly swear, in presence of Almighty God, that I will henceforth faithfully support, protect, and defend the Constitution of the United States and the union of the states thereunder; and that I will in like manner abide by and faithfully support all acts of Congress passed during the existing rebellion with reference to slaves, so long and so far as not repealed, modified, or held void by Congress or by decision of the Supreme Court; and that I will in like manner abide by and faithfully support all proclamations of the President during the existing rebellion having reference to slaves, so long and so far as not modified or declared void by decision of the Supreme Court. So help me God."

There was an unerring greatness in this simple man which stands like a beacon in our era of intellectual and spiritual pigmies. He placed country above party; he placed principle above self. And because he so believed, he was assassinated.

It was unfortunate that he was followed by lesser men who dared not understand that the essence of reconstruction was malice toward none. They gave this country many unfortunate years.

No country can survive inadequate leadership; no nation can survive disloyalty. We need a Lincoln and a Robert E. Lee today to rescue America from a morass of mediocrity. On Lincoln's birthday this is something to think about.

That Body of Yours

STANDARD BLOOD PRESSURE READINGS

There was a time when an appendix operation was a common topic of conversation. When physicians and surgeons showed us that if the appendix was removed within 36 hours of discovery and no food or purgatives were given, the death rate could be reduced from 10 per cent to about 1 per cent, the interest in appendix operations subsided.

Today health discussions most frequently concern blood pressure, because high blood pressure is the most frequent cause of heart strokes (coronary thrombosis) and of brain strokes (apoplexy).

Because blood pressure is of such great interest, physicians now have to warn patients that the blood pressure may go up many points if they are emotionally disturbed and so purposey do not measure the blood pressure every time the patient consults them. Blood pressure should, if possible, be taken early in the day before the patient gets all worked up emotionally from the problems of the day, and should not be taken after a big meal.

For many years it has been customary for insurance and health organizations to publish blood pressure tables showing what the normal blood pressure should be at the various ages. According to the Journal of the American Medical Association, however, these published tables put normal blood pressure too low and so upset the minds of many men and women. The Journal states that these standards of normal blood pressure must be corrected, as 140 to 160 systolic (with arm cuff tightened) and 90 to 100 diastolic (with no pressure in the arm cuff) are really below the average. A study of 15,706 persons between the ages of 16 to 65 showed that persons up to the age of 40 can have normal pressures well above 140 systolic and 90 to 100 diastolic. In fact, these pressures are seen more often than those we now call normal pressures.

"In' patients older than 55 years, systolic pressures of 180 and 190 with diastolic pressures of 100 to 110 may merely indicate the aging process and should not cause alarm," the article states.

This information, gained by investigating the blood pressure of thousands of normal individuals, should be reassuring.

Remember, blood pressure is most important but higher readings than present standards should not cause alarm.

Still Guiding Toward Freedom

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — Today the SS Aagtedyk sails from Philadelphia, City of Brotherly Love, bearing the first cargo of the tide of toys to Europe. This is a friendship cargo which the American Legion has painstakingly collected from all parts of the U. S. A. for the children of Europe and for the families of American GI'S in Korea.

Last year the Legion sent 3,000,000 toys to Europe. Frequently drives of this kind slacken after the first year. People get tired or discouraged, figure the need isn't quite so great. But the Legion has reversed this trend, and the amazing total of 7,000,000 toys have now been contributed by children who could spare a toy from under their own Christmas tree.

What the Legion and its friends have realized is that money cannot buy friendship. Nor can the shipment of arms build friendship. Nor can the rebuilding of European factories, important as that is, build friendship. It is the people-to-people understanding, such as comes through a gift of a toy bearing a message from one child to another, which really builds the kind of enduring friendship we need.

Note—The Legion did such a good job of collecting friendship toys this year that the cost of shipping became much greater than last year. Whereupon a group of patriotic businessmen in New York, led by Lewis Rosenstiel, stepped in to raise $50,000 to cover overhead expenses.

Alien Property Politics

One of the little-noticed but festering political sores of Washington is General Aniline and Film, the giant German-Swiss chemical corporation, formerly affiliated with the notorious I. G. Farben cartel and now a pawn in the cutthroat game of Democratic politics.

If a Senate committee ever pries into the political ramifications of General Aniline and Film it will make the current probe of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation seem pallid by comparison. Technically, the German-Swiss company is supposed to be operated by the alien property custodian of the U. S. Justice Department. But the Justice Department has farmed direction of the company to various friends who hepled Harry Truman get where he is.

First of all, shrewd, farsighted Victor Emanuel, tycoon of the American Aviation Company, appointed Leo Crowley as head of his Standard Gas and Electric Co., when Leo was a power in the Roosevelt administration. At that time—1939 and the years following—Crowley had the unique privilege of drawing $75,000 from Standard Gas and Electric at the very same time he was working for U. S. taxpayers as head of the Federal Deposit Insurance and as alien property custodian.

An implication that Crowley was serving two masters came later when he rewarded the man who paid him $75,000 annually by making Victor Emanuel a director of the giant German firm, General Aniline and Film. As alien property custodian, Crowley could appoint the directors of this German firm, and he appointed not only Emanuel but Emanuel's close friend, George Allen.

Profitable Back-Scratching

After Crowley stepped down as alien property custodian, he placed his own friend and assistant, Jim Markham, in this key position. And Markham, in turn, appointed another friend of Victor Emanuel's, Louey Johnson, on the board of General Aniline and Film. Johnson became not only a director, but general counsel at a retainer of $37,500 annually.

Later, when Markham stepped out as alien property custodian, he got a job in Louey Johnson's law firm. Thus, everybody scratched each other's back all the way round.

However, a lot of politicians had their eyes on the giant German-Swiss firm. Manufacturing as it does Ansco Film, hormones, and 1,000 different synthetic dyes, it was the juiciest property seized by the government during the war. Its factories spread out from Grasselli, N. J., to Binghamton and Johnson City, N. Y., and a total of $1,000,000 a year was paid out to top executives and directors.

So in 1947, Bob Hannegan of Democratic National Committee fame, induced Attorney General Tom Clark to appoint Jack Frye as head of the General Aniline. Frye, a party faithful, had been eased out of his job as head of Trans World Airlines, but now stepped into the presidency of the giant German-Swiss firm at $72,000.

Battle of Tycoons

About that time Victor Emanuel's influence began to wane, and the influence of rival tycoon, Floyd Odlum, began to increase. Both incidentally, had carefully sweetened the kitty of the Democratic party, but in 1948 Odlum had gone down the line for Truman while Emanuel flirted with the Republicans.

At any rate, today finds Richard C. Patterson, a satellite of Floyd Odlum's, on the board of General Aniline, and significantly appointed as U. S. Ambassador to Switzerland. Patterson has no outstanding qualifications for the U. S. ambassadorship to Switzerland, having recently served in an opposite area of the world—Guatemala. However, it may or may not be a coincidence that the Swiss are now doing their best to take over General Aniline, in fact, have sued the U. S. Government, while the Swiss Government has made representations to the State Department on behalf of the European investors in General Analine.

So naturally the question is being asked as to whether a Floyd Odlum man as ambassador to Switzerland could not perhaps intervene in this delicate, difficult situation.

Songbird Director

Other interesting political appointments to the board of General Aniline, made by a politically minded Justice Department, are: Morton Downey, the Coca-Cola singer, who is a delightful personality but knows little about dyestuffs; Colvin Brown, publisher of the Motion Picture Daily and great friend of ex-Postmaster General Frank Walker; William J. Mahaney of San Francisco, who gave $5,000 to the Democrats; and Donald Lincoln, law partner of Louey Johnson, who contributed $1,000 to the Democrats.

Meanwhile, General Aniline's earnings have dropped. Meanwhile, also, the U. S. Government has followed a general policy of selling off other German property seized during the war. General Aniline and Film, however, remains unsold, and the juciest industrial pawn in all party politics.

Talks of Hoover and Taft Make Military Men Gasp Over Lack of Knowledge

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Feb. 12 — Former President Hoover and Senator Taft, by their speeches urging a greater emphasis on sea power and air power rather than land power, have demonstrated that helpful though it be to rebate such issues these two statesmen are not really up to date on military strategy as it will affect the next big-scale war in Europe.

What both men are talking about has made military men here gasp with astonishment. For there is no such thing as a sharp line of demarcation in our over-all strategy between air power, sea power, or land power respectively. Korea has proved that it is the combination of all three rather than reliance on any one or two of thoese components which makes for success against an enemy, even though the aggressor possesses only one force-land armies.

Both Messrs. Taft and Hoover have spoken repeatedly of land troops and have attempted to argue that a certain number of divisions will be mobilized by Russia against which it would be futile to match American or European Divisions. The speeches have given the impression that because the Russians have more divisions already, it would be a mistake to try to build up manpower against them.

What seems to have been overlooked is that air power, for example, consists of a large amount of ground power. Thus the big bases in Europe, whether in Britain or France or Spain or North Africa or the middle east, will require a sizable number of ground troops to protect those points against land attack.

The theory that air power can make sustained attacks from our own continent and that these alone will be adequate has been found fallacious. These are, of course, intercontinental bombers which in the initial stages of any war will fly from here to Europe and back carrying the atom bomb; but every military man familiar with the general strategy of today knows that this is an initial stage and that the second stage will require repeated and sustained sorties from overseas bases integrated with land and sea operations.

Another fallacy which seems to permeate the Taft-Hoover addresses is that America should wait for an attack before starting a large expeditionary force to Europe. True the North Atlantic Pact literally doesn't obligate us to aid until an attack comes, but American citizens would not for a moment want to wait till Europe is attacked and Russia is on the march to begin a build-up of resistance, actual or potential. To deter an attack by assembling an adequate force is an implied obligation of any treaty of mutual defense.

There are some good points in both the Taft and Hoover speeches such as the necessity for thorough consideration of the problem of getting congressional authority to send large bodies of troops to Europe and of assuring that proportionate contributions of manpower will be made by the Europeans. But this is a far different question from that which confronts our military chieftains.

Plainly the American people must entrust to their responsible military chiefs the task of formulating a basic strategy. It is not for laymen to say how many troops shall compose a division or how many divisions are necessary to ward off an attack. It is for Congress to decide whether or not to take the advice of the military and, if the nation does not have faith in its military advisers, no military program which is evolved out of partisan debate in the halls of Congress can win the confidence of the country. To illustrate the point as to how far military science was run ahead of the already obsolete conceptions of five years ago with respect to the usual operations of land armies, it is pertinent to quote one paragraph from a copyrighted interview last week in U. S. News & World Report in which General Collins, chief of staff of the United States army, said:

"The guided missile also will eventually be a great asset that I think can ultimately be used perhaps for the defense of Europe, because the guided missile can be brought in which considerable accuracy under certain conditions, relatively close to your troops."

At another point in the extended interview the general said that 200 Communist divisions are the equivalent of only 120 American-type divisions and that while 20 of our divisions wouldn't be enough, the new weapons make it possible for him to say: "You don't have to match division for division."

Mr. Hoover was quite right when he declared that the American people should have more information, but it is also true that laymen who are thinking solely of the number of divisions of land armies in measuring our strength, and who fail to see the over-all picture in terms of a combined air power, sea power and land power with new atomic weapons for each armed service are not really informed on what 1951 warpower can do.

The question of expense is frequently mentioned but it is at best only relative. How much money would the American people pay today to prevent a third World War? The result can hardly be attained at a bargain price, but where liberty and survival are at stake the value of money itself is also relative. Inflation is bad, but defeat and enslavement are much worse.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Feb. 11—As I told you Friday, a rich broker named Arthur J. Goldsmith runs a half-dozen propaganda layouts from his apartment in the luxurious Waldorf Tower but uses the demure and misleading address of "100 East 50th street" on the letterheads. Mr. Goldsmith is supposed to be a man that you are supposed to be afraid of. That kind are a challenge to a free press and I have never yet tangled with one who didn't fold up if you bellied right up to him.

So, after inquiries made by hand at the Waldorf Tower where this mysterious power has his lair, I called up to ask for an appointment. A sharp and, I thought, nasty manner was the extent of the Goldsmith menace in that encounter. Mr. Goldsmith said he wouldn't talk but that, if I would write him a letter, he would answer it. A few minutes later, one of the three secretaries employed in his three-room apartment where the half-dozen propaganda layouts do business under the letterhead address of 100 East 50th street called back to say that while Goldsmith was willing to answer such a letter, he wouldn't promise to answer any or all questions that the letter might ask.

Now, I ask you, what do you make of a rich man with a consuming hobby of creating propaganda through a bunch of letterhead societies and hosing money into our public elections, who is too proud, too independent of public opinion or too scared lest the truth be told, to answer questions about his activities?

I am an American citizen. I am a voter. I have a right that my vote shall be effective and not neutralized or nullified by the dirty money of some rich predator living in Philadelphia who pours his wealth into my state out west to elect someone that he prefers. What right has this rich guy to butt into the elections in my state anyway? If it is corrupt practice for a corporation to do that, it is just as rotten for a secret group of eastern plotters to do the same thing with money received from corporations or from foundations or whatever source.

When I give Herbert Swope an assignment he stays with it. Most often he brings in the story, but this time he had the croup and could hardly talk on the phone, which, if you know your Herbie, is a terrible state of affairs, and moreover he just couldn't find his friend Goldsmith. He phoned all over intending to tell him he couldn't stand off the great American free press that way and had better answer the questions.

But Herbert couldn't get him and I did my duty when I asked the guy to talk. Now Goldsmith can either answer my questions about his propaganda societies and tell me the truth or I will make my own inquiries and tell him—and you.

LINCOLN'S GREATEST STRENGTH

All over America Abraham Lincoln's birthday is always the high spot of the political speech-making season. Paying tribute to Lincoln is as much the politician's privilege as quoting Thomas Jefferson.

In this time of stress, Americans might well wish that their politicians spent less time in revering Lincoln and more in emulating the fundamental traits that made him a great public servant.

Lincoln stands out in American history because he channeled all his strength into a single great purpose: the preservation of the United States as a union.

He believed in the ideals that justified the existence of America and he believed in the country's future. In the union's darkest day, he did not listen to counsels of despair. His was the voice of courage, of confidence, and yet of compassion.

Above all, his was a voice for unity in allegiance to the American ideal.

Too many of the men who mount platforms to hymn Lincoln's praises will not practice in their daily political lives that same faithfulness to unity.

Seldom in American life has there been a greater need for solidarity of purpose among our people. Yet a lot of our lawmakers, including a healthy number in the august U. S. Senate, pursue their political objectives in utter and complete disregard of that necessity.

Men who cannot suppress their frankly political aims in a time of great trial for the nation make a mockery of the annual homage to Lincoln.

The goal of American living is freedom for every individual—in a setting of security—to develop his capacities as richly and fully as he wishes. The pursuit of that goal is not the special prerogative of any political party. No party may feel that its success is synonymous with the nation's success.

Any man who does believe that his party's triumph is absolutely indispensable to America's future is out of place invoking the spirit of Lincoln. For Lincoln was an American before he was a Republican.

ON THE BACKS OF MEN

Few Americans have had much experience with being carried, as a matter of course, by other human beings. Once past childhood, the average American's experience in being carried is limited to horseplay, in which the result is mere absurdity, and to illness, in which a disagreeable sense of helplessness is engendered. To get from one place to another by some means other than walking, we step into an automobile or some public conveyance.

In the Oriental lands, most particularly in China, the experience of the ordinary citizen is different. Automobiles are for the very few; street cars, buses and trains are for anyone who has the fare, but their routes serve relatively small numbers. The common means of transportation, other than one's own feet, are rickshaw and the sedan chair. The rickshaw is pulled by a trotting coolie, his back ahead of the rider's feet and judiciously out of reach. The sedan chair is carried on the shoulders of a team of coolies.

Something in a man's habits of thinking changes when it becomes his habit to ride on the backs of other men.

Karl Marx might have expected communism to change the order in which it is recognized as one man's lot to be carried and another man's lot to do the carrying. But modern communism does not change this; it merely changes, to suit its own needs, the method of deciding who carries and who is carried.

In order to deal intelligently with China, as well as with other Oriental nations, it is necessary to try to understand the minds of people who accept unthinkingly, as their natural right, the privilege of being carried by a team of coolies.

ATOMIC CURE FOR DIVORCE EVIL

Dispatches from Nevada about the recent A-bomb test contain some interesting sidelights. One account has it that the state's lucrative divorce trade may be affected adversely. It's feared estranged couples will look for quieter places to untie the knot.

Sociologists who worry over our high divorce rate may perk up at this news. Put an A-bomb test range in every easy-divorce state in the country and you might find a lot more couples determined to carry on bravely despite their differences.

LINCOLN AND DISLOYALTY

As the years pass, Abraham Lincoln is not being memembered as the President who controlled our destinies during the war between the states, nor even as the President who issued the Emancipation Proclamation.

Rather do Washington and Lincoln stand high above all the men who have sat in the President's chair, and their greatness lies in their selfless devotion to the nation. It is said that President Truman has taken Jackson as his model, which is unfortunate because it can only justify in his own mind a cantankerousness that approaches a distorted ego. Franklin D. Roosevelt employed no model, for he was his own model, naturally.

Lincoln could not have understood disloyalty. Even as we today are faced by disloyalty, by those who can and do serve an enemy, overtly and in secret, so was he faced with the same problem. In a proclamation, issued on March 10, 1863, he said:

"Whereas evil-disposed and disloyal persons at sundry places have enticed and procured soldiers to desert and absent themselves from their regiments, thereby weakening the strength of the armies and prolonging the war, giving aid and comfort to the enemy, and cruelly exposing the gallant and faithful soldiers remaining in the ranks to increased hardships and danger:

"I do therefore call upon all patriotic and faithful citizens to oppose and resist the aforementioned dangerous and treasonable crimes, and to aid in restoring to their regiments all soldiers absent without leave, and to assist in the execution of the act of Congress 'for enrolling and calling out the national forces, and for other purposes,' and to support the proper authorities in the prosecution and punishment of offenders against said act snd in suppressing the insurrection and rebellion."

He called upon the people to aid in this, whereas in our era disloyalty has become so much a political issue that the executive branch of the government has consistently since 1934, when the Harold Ware Communist cell was organized, aided, defended, protected and whitewashed the disloyal.

It is not only a matter of Alger Hiss and William W. Remington, who was convicted on Wednesday of last week, after having been cleared on several occasions by so-called loyalty boards. It is much more than that. It is a general attitude that loyalty is a private matter and that high public officials, even in so important an agency as the State Department, may have private judgment as to whether the United States must be preserved as a sovereign state or shall become absorbed in some vast international congeries of states which live upon its strength while humiliating and shaming its traditions and conduct.

Lincoln would not have tolerated disloyalty. And even in his proclamation pardoning all who had taken up arms against this government and restoring to them their property, except slaves, he still insisted upon a loyalty oath, to wit:

"I, _____ _____, do solemnly swear, in presence of Almighty God, that I will henceforth faithfully support, protect, and defend the Constitution of the United States and the union of the states thereunder; and that I will in like manner abide by and faithfully support all acts of Congress passed during the existing rebellion with reference to slaves, so long and so far as not repealed, modified, or held void by Congress or by decision of the Supreme Court; and that I will in like manner abide by and faithfully support all proclamations of the President during the existing rebellion having reference to slaves, so long and so far as not modified or declared void by decision of the Supreme Court. So help me God."

There was an unerring greatness in this simple man which stands like a beacon in our era of intellectual and spiritual pigmies. He placed country above party; he placed principle above self. And because he so believed, he was assassinated.

It was unfortunate that he was followed by lesser men who dared not understand that the essence of reconstruction was malice toward none. They gave this country many unfortunate years.

No country can survive inadequate leadership; no nation can survive disloyalty. We need a Lincoln and a Robert E. Lee today to rescue America from a morass of mediocrity. On Lincoln's birthday this is something to think about.

STANDARD BLOOD PRESSURE READINGS

There was a time when an appendix operation was a common topic of conversation. When physicians and surgeons showed us that if the appendix was removed within 36 hours of discovery and no food or purgatives were given, the death rate could be reduced from 10 per cent to about 1 per cent, the interest in appendix operations subsided.

Today health discussions most frequently concern blood pressure, because high blood pressure is the most frequent cause of heart strokes (coronary thrombosis) and of brain strokes (apoplexy).

Because blood pressure is of such great interest, physicians now have to warn patients that the blood pressure may go up many points if they are emotionally disturbed and so purposey do not measure the blood pressure every time the patient consults them. Blood pressure should, if possible, be taken early in the day before the patient gets all worked up emotionally from the problems of the day, and should not be taken after a big meal.

For many years it has been customary for insurance and health organizations to publish blood pressure tables showing what the normal blood pressure should be at the various ages. According to the Journal of the American Medical Association, however, these published tables put normal blood pressure too low and so upset the minds of many men and women. The Journal states that these standards of normal blood pressure must be corrected, as 140 to 160 systolic (with arm cuff tightened) and 90 to 100 diastolic (with no pressure in the arm cuff) are really below the average. A study of 15,706 persons between the ages of 16 to 65 showed that persons up to the age of 40 can have normal pressures well above 140 systolic and 90 to 100 diastolic. In fact, these pressures are seen more often than those we now call normal pressures.

"In patients older than 55 years, systolic pressures of 180 and 190 with diastolic pressures of 100 to 110 may merely indicate the aging process and should not cause alarm," the article states.

This information, gained by investigating the blood pressure of thousands of normal individuals, should be reassuring.

Remember, blood pressure is most important but higher readings than present standards should not cause alarm.

Still Guiding Toward Freedom

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — Today the SS Aagtedyk sails from Philadelphia, City of Brotherly Love, bearing the first cargo of the tide of toys to Europe. This is a friendship cargo which the American Legion has painstakingly collected from all parts of the U. S. A. for the children of Europe and for the families of American GI'S in Korea.

Last year the Legion sent 3,000,000 toys to Europe. Frequently drives of this kind slacken after the first year. People get tired or discouraged, figure the need isn't quite so great. But the Legion has reversed this trend, and the amazing total of 7,000,000 toys have now been contributed by children who could spare a toy from under their own Christmas tree.

What the Legion and its friends have realized is that money cannot buy friendship. Nor can the shipment of arms build friendship. Nor can the rebuilding of European factories, important as that is, build friendship. It is the people-to-people understanding, such as comes through a gift of a toy bearing a message from one child to another, which really builds the kind of enduring friendship we need.

Note—The Legion did such a good job of collecting friendship toys this year that the cost of shipping became much greater than last year. Whereupon a group of patriotic businessmen in New York, led by Lewis Rosenstiel, stepped in to raise $50,000 to cover overhead expenses.

Alien Property Politics

One of the little-noticed but festering political sores of Washington is General Aniline and Film, the giant German-Swiss chemical corporation, formerly affiliated with the notorious I. G. Farben cartel and now a pawn in the cutthroat game of Democratic politics.

If a Senate committee ever pries into the political ramifications of General Aniline and Film it will make the current probe of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation seem pallid by comparison. Technically, the German-Swiss company is supposed to be operated by the alien property custodian of the U. S. Justice Department. But the Justice Department has farmed direction of the company to various friends who hepled Harry Truman get where he is.

First of all, shrewd, farsighted Victor Emanuel, tycoon of the American Aviation Company, appointed Leo Crowley as head of his Standard Gas and Electric Co., when Leo was a power in the Roosevelt administration. At that time—1939 and the years following—Crowley had the unique privilege of drawing $75,000 from Standard Gas and Electric at the very same time he was working for U. S. taxpayers as head of the Federal Deposit Insurance and as alien property custodian.

An implication that Crowley was serving two masters came later when he rewarded the man who paid him $75,000 annually by making Victor Emanuel a director of the giant German firm, General Aniline and Film. As alien property custodian, Crowley could appoint the directors of this German firm, and he appointed not only Emanuel but Emanuel's close friend, George Allen.

Profitable Back-Scratching

After Crowley stepped down as alien property custodian, he placed his own friend and assistant, Jim Markham, in this key position. And Markham, in turn, appointed another friend of Victor Emanuel's, Louey Johnson, on the board of General Aniline and Film. Johnson became not only a director, but general counsel at a retainer of $37,500 annually.

Later, when Markham stepped out as alien property custodian, he got a job in Louey Johnson's law firm. Thus, everybody scratched each other's back all the way round.

However, a lot of politicians had their eyes on the giant German-Swiss firm. Manufacturing as it does Ansco Film, hormones, and 1,000 different synthetic dyes, it was the juiciest property seized by the government during the war. Its factories spread out from Grasselli, N. J., to Binghamton and Johnson City, N. Y., and a total of $1,000,000 a year was paid out to top executives and directors.

So in 1947, Bob Hannegan of Democratic National Committee fame, induced Attorney General Tom Clark to appoint Jack Frye as head of the General Aniline. Frye, a party faithful, had been eased out of his job as head of Trans World Airlines, but now stepped into the presidency of the giant German-Swiss firm at $72,000.

Battle of Tycoons

About that time Victor Emanuel's influence began to wane, and the influence of rival tycoon, Floyd Odlum, began to increase. Both incidentally, had carefully sweetened the kitty of the Democratic party, but in 1948 Odlum had gone down the line for Truman while Emanuel flirted with the Republicans.

At any rate, today finds Richard C. Patterson, a satellite of Floyd Odlum's, on the board of General Aniline, and significantly appointed as U. S. Ambassador to Switzerland. Patterson has no outstanding qualifications for the U. S. ambassadorship to Switzerland, having recently served in an opposite area of the world—Guatemala. However, it may or may not be a coincidence that the Swiss are now doing their best to take over General Aniline, in fact, have sued the U. S. Government, while the Swiss Government has made representations to the State Department on behalf of the European investors in General Analine.

So naturally the question is being asked as to whether a Floyd Odlum man as ambassador to Switzerland could not perhaps intervene in this delicate, difficult situation.

Songbird Director

Other interesting political appointments to the board of General Aniline, made by a politically minded Justice Department, are: Morton Downey, the Coca-Cola singer, who is a delightful personality but knows little about dyestuffs; Colvin Brown, publisher of the Motion Picture Daily and great friend of ex-Postmaster General Frank Walker; William J. Mahaney of San Francisco, who gave $5,000 to the Democrats; and Donald Lincoln, law partner of Louey Johnson, who contributed $1,000 to the Democrats.

Meanwhile, General Aniline's earnings have dropped. Meanwhile, also, the U. S. Government has followed a general policy of selling off other German property seized during the war. General Aniline and Film, however, remains unsold, and the juciest industrial pawn in all party politics.

Talks of Hoover and Taft Make Military Men Gasp Over Lack of Knowledge

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Feb. 12 — Former President Hoover and Senator Taft, by their speeches urging a greater emphasis on sea power and air power rather than land power, have demonstrated that helpful though it be to rebate such issues these two statesmen are not really up to date on military strategy as it will affect the next big-scale war in Europe.

What both men are talking about has made military men here gasp with astonishment. For there is no such thing as a sharp line of demarcation in our over-all strategy between air power, sea power, or land power respectively. Korea has proved that it is the combination of all three rather than reliance on any one or two of thoese components which makes for success against an enemy, even though the aggressor possesses only one force-land armies.

Both Messrs. Taft and Hoover have spoken repeatedly of land troops and have attempted to argue that a certain number of divisions will be mobilized by Russia against which it would be futile to match American or European Divisions. The speeches have given the impression that because the Russians have more divisions already, it would be a mistake to try to build up manpower against them.

What seems to have been overlooked is that air power, for example, consists of a large amount of ground power. Thus the big bases in Europe, whether in Britain or France or Spain or North Africa or the middle east, will require a sizable number of ground troops to protect those points against land attack.

The theory that air power can make sustained attacks from our own continent and that these alone will be adequate has been found fallacious. These are, of course, intercontinental bombers which in the initial stages of any war will fly from here to Europe and back carrying the atom bomb; but every military man familiar with the general strategy of today knows that this is an initial stage and that the second stage will require repeated and sustained sorties from overseas bases integrated with land and sea operations.

Another fallacy which seems to permeate the Taft-Hoover addresses is that America should wait for an attack before starting a large expeditionary force to Europe. True the North Atlantic Pact literally doesn't obligate us to aid until an attack comes, but American citizens would not for a moment want to wait till Europe is attacked and Russia is on the march to begin a build-up of resistance, actual or potential. To deter an attack by assembling an adequate force is an implied obligation of any treaty of mutual de fense.

There are some good points i both the Taft and Hoover speeche such as the necessity for thoroug consideration of the problem o getting congressional authority t send large bodies of troops t Europe and of assuring that pro portionate contributions of man power will be made by the Euro peans. But this is a far differen question from that which con fronts our military chieftains.

Plainly the American peopl must entrust to their responsibl military chiefs the task of formu lating a basic strategy. It is no for laymen to say how man troops shall compose a division o how many divisions are necessar to ward off an attack. It is fo Congress to decide whether or no to take the advice of the militar and, if the nation does not hav faith in its military advisers, n military program which is evolve out of partisan debate in the hall of Congress can win the confidenc of the country. To illustrate th point as to how far militar science was run ahead of the al ready obsolete conceptions of fiv years ago with respect to th usual operations of land armies, i is pertinent to quote one para graph from a copyrighted inter view last week in U. S. News & World Report in which Genera Collins, chief of staff of the Unit ed States army, said:

"The guided missile also wi eventually be a great asset that think can ultimately be used per haps for the defense of Europe, be cause the guided missile can b brought in which considerable ac curacy under certain condition relatively close to your troops."

At another point in the extend ed interview the general said tha 200 Communist divisions are th equivalent of only 120 American type divisions and that while 20 o our divisions wouldn't be enoug the new weapons make it possibl for him to say: "You don't hav to match division for division."

Mr. Hoover was quite righ when he declared that the Ameri can people should have more infor mation, but it is also true tha laymen who are thinking solely o the number of divisions of lan armies in measuring our strength and who fail to see the over-a picture in terms of a combined a power, sea power and land powe with new atomic weapons for eac armed service are not really in formed on what 1951 warpowe can do.

The question of expense is fre quently mentioned but it is at bes only relative. How much mone would the American people pa today to prevent a third Worl War? The result can hardly b attained at a bargain price, bu where liberty and survival are a stake the value of money itself i also relative. Inflation is bad, bu defeat and enslavement are muc worse.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Feb. 11—As I told you Friday, a rich broker named Arthur J. Goldsmith runs a half-dozen propaganda layouts from his apartment in the luxurious Waldorf Tower but uses the demure and misleading address of "100 East 50th street" on the letterheads. Mr. Goldsmith is supposed to be a man that you are supposed to be afraid of. That kind are a challenge to a free press and I have never yet tangled with one who didn't fold up if you bellied right up to him.

So, after inquiries made by hand at the Waldorf Tower where this mysterious power has his lair, I called up to ask for an appointment. A sharp and, I thought, nasty manner was the extent of the Goldsmith menace in that encounter. Mr. Goldsmith said he wouldn't talk but that, if I would write him a letter, he would answer it. A few minutes later, one of the three secretaries employed in his three-room apartment where the half-dozen propaganda layouts do business under the letterhead address of 100 East 50th street called back to say that while Goldsmith was willing to answer such a letter, he wouldn't promise to answer any or all questions that the letter might ask.

Now, I ask you, what do you make of a rich man with a consuming hobby of creating propaganda through a bunch of letterhead societies and hosing money into our public elections, who is too proud, too independent of public opinion or too scared les the truth be told, to answer ques tions about his activities?

LINCOLN'S GREATEST STRENGTH

All over America Abraham Lincoln's birthday is always the high spot of the political speech-making season. Paying tribute to Lincoln is as much the politician's privilege as quoting Thomas Jefferson.

In this time of stress, Americans might well wish that their politicians spent less time in revering Lincoln and more in emulating the fundamental traits that made him a great public servant.

Lincoln stands out in American history because he channeled all his strength into a single great purpose: the preservation of the United States as a union.

He believed in the ideals that justified the existence of America and he believed in the country's future. In the union's darkest day, he did not listen to counsels of despair. His was the voice of courage, of confidence, and yet of compassion.

Above all, his was a voice for unity in allegiance to the American ideal.

Too many of the men who mount platforms to hymn Lincoln's praises will not practice in their daily political lives that same faithfulness to unity.

Seldom in American life has there been a greater need for solidarity of purpose among our people. Yet a lot of our lawmakers, including a healthy number in the august U. S. Senate, pursue their political objectives in utter and complete disregard of that necessity.

Men who cannot suppress their frankly political aims in a time of great trial for the nation make a mockery of the annual homage to Lincoln.

The goal of American living is freedom for every individual—in a setting of security—to develop his capacities as richly and fully as he wishes. The pursuit of that goal is not the special prerogative of any political party. No party may feel that its success is synonymous with the nation's success.

Any man who does believe that his party's triumph is absolutely indispensable to America's future is out of place invoking the spirit of Lincoln. For Lincoln was an American before he was a Republican.

ON THE BACKS OF MEN

Few Americans have had much experience with being carried, as a matter of course, by other human beings. Once past childhood, the average American's experience in being carried is limited to horseplay, in which the result is mere absurdity, and to illness, in which a disagreeable sense of helplessness is engendered. To get from one place to another by some means other than walking, we step into an automobile or some public conveyance.

In the Oriental lands, most particularly in China, the experience of the ordinary citizen is different. Automobiles are for the very few; street cars, buses and trains are for anyone who has the fare, but their routes serve relatively small numbers. The common means of transportation, other than one's own feet, are rickshaw and the sedan chair. The rickshaw is pulled by a trotting coolie, his back ahead of the rider's feet and judiciously out of reach. The sedan chair is carried on the shoulders of a team of coolies.

Something in a man's habits of thinking changes when it becomes his habit to ride on the backs of other men.

Karl Marx might have expected communism to change the order in which it is recognized as one man's lot to be carried and another man's lot to do the carrying. But modern communism does not change this; it merely changes, to suit its own needs, the method of deciding who carries and who is carried.

In order to deal intelligently with China, as well as with other Oriental nations, it is necessary to try to understand the minds of people who accept unthinkingly, as their natural right, the privilege of being carried by a team of coolies.

ATOMIC CURE FOR DIVORCE EVIL

Dispatches from Nevada about the recent A-bomb test contain some interesting sidelights. One account has it that the state's lucrative divorce trade may be affected adversely. It's feared estranged couples will look for quieter places to untie the knot.

Sociologists who worry over our high divorce rate may perk up at this news. Put an A-bomb test range in every easy-divorce state in the country and you might find a lot more couples determined to carry on bravely despite their differences.

LINCOLN AND DISLOYALTY

As the years pass, Abraham Lincoln is not being memembered as the President who controlled our destinies during the war between the states, nor even as the President who issued the Emancipation Proclamation.

Rather do Washington and Lincoln stand high above all the men who have sat in the President's chair, and their greatness lies in their selfless devotion to the nation. It is said that President Truman has taken Jackson as his model, which is unfortunate because it can only justify in his own mind a cantankerousness that approaches a distorted ego. Franklin D. Roosevelt employed no model, for he was his own model, naturally.

Lincoln could not have understood disloyalty. Even as we today are faced by disloyalty, by those who can and do serve an enemy, overtly and in secret, so was he faced with the same problem. In a proclamation, issued on March 10, 1863, he said:

"Whereas evil-disposed and disloyal persons at sundry places have enticed and procured soldiers to desert and absent themselves from their regiments, thereby weakening the strength of the armies and prolonging the war, giving aid and comfort to the enemy, and cruelly exposing the gallant and faithful soldiers remaining in the ranks to increased hardships and danger:

"I do therefore call upon all patriotic and faithful citizens to oppose and resist the aforementioned dangerous and treasonable crimes, and to aid in restoring to their regiments all soldiers absent without leave, and to assist in the execution of the act of Congress 'for enrolling and calling out the national forces, and for other purposes,' and to support the proper authorities in the prosecution and punishment of offenders against said act and in suppressing the insurrection and rebellion."

He called upon the people to aid in this, whereas in our era disloyalty has become so much a political issue that the executive branch of the government has consistently since 1934, when the Harold Ware Communist cell was organized, aided, defended, protected and whitewashed the disloyal.

It is not only a matter of Alger Hiss and William W. Remington, who was convicted on Wednesday of last week, after having been cleared on several occasions by so-called loyalty boards. It is much more than that. It is a general attitude that loyalty is a private matter and that high public officials, even in so important an agency as the State Department, may have private judgment as to whether the United States must be preserved as a sovereign state or shall become absorbed in some vast international congeries of states which live upon its strength while humiliating and shaming its traditions and conduct.

Lincoln would not have tolerated disloyalty. And even in his proclamation pardoning all who had taken up arms against this government and restoring to them their property, except slaves, he still insisted upon a loyalty oath, to wit:

"I, ——— ———, do solemnly swear, in presence of Almighty God, that I will henceforth faithfully support, protect, and defend the Constitution of the United States and the union of the states thereunder; and that I will in like manner abide by and faithfully support all acts of Congress passed during the existing rebellion with reference to slaves, so long and so far as not repealed, modified, or held void by Congress or by decision of the Supreme Court; and that I will in like manner abide by and faithfully support all proclamations of the President during the existing rebellion having reference to slaves, so long and so far as not modified or declared void by decision of the Supreme Court. So help me God."

There was an unerring greatness in this simple man which stands like a beacon in our era of intellectual and spiritual pigmies. He placed country above party; he placed principle above self. And because he so believed, he was assassinated.

It was unfortunate that he was followed by lesser men who dared not understand that the essence of reconstruction was malice toward none. They gave this country many unfortunate years.

No country can survive inadequate leadership; no nation can survive disloyalty. We need a Lincoln and a Robert E. Lee today to rescue America from a morass of mediocrity. On Lincoln's birthday this is something to think about.

That Body of Yours

STANDARD BLOOD PRESSURE READINGS

There was a time when an appendix operation was a common topic of conversation. When physicians and surgeons showed us that if the appendix was removed within 36 hours of discovery and no food or purgatives were given, the death rate could be reduced from 10 per cent to about 1 per cent, the interest in appendix operations subsided.

Today health discussions most frequently concern blood pressure, because high blood pressure is the most frequent cause of heart strokes (coronary thrombosis) and of brain strokes (apoplexy).

Because blood pressure is of such great interest, physicians now have to warn patients that the blood pressure may go up many points if they are emotionally disturbed and so purposey do not measure the blood pressure every time the patient consults them. Blood pressure should, if possible, be taken early in the day before the patient gets all worked up emotionally from the problems of the day, and should not be taken after a big meal.

For many years it has been customary for insurance and health organizations to publish blood pressure tables showing what the normal blood pressure should be at the various ages. According to the Journal of the American Medical Association, however, these published tables put normal blood pressure too low and so upset the minds of many men and women. The Journal states that these standards of normal blood pressure must be corrected, as 140 to 160 systolic (with arm cuff tightened) and 90 to 100 diastolic (with no pressure in the arm cuff) are really below the average. A study of 15,706 persons between the ages of 16 to 65 showed that persons up to the age of 40 can have normal pressures well above 140 systolic and 90 to 100 diastolic. In fact, these pressures are seen more often than those we now call normal pressures.

"In' patients older than 55 years, systolic pressures of 180 and 190 with diastolic pressures of 100 to 110 may merely indicate the aging process and should not cause alarm," the article states.

This information, gained by investigating the blood pressure of thousands of normal individuals, should be reassuring.

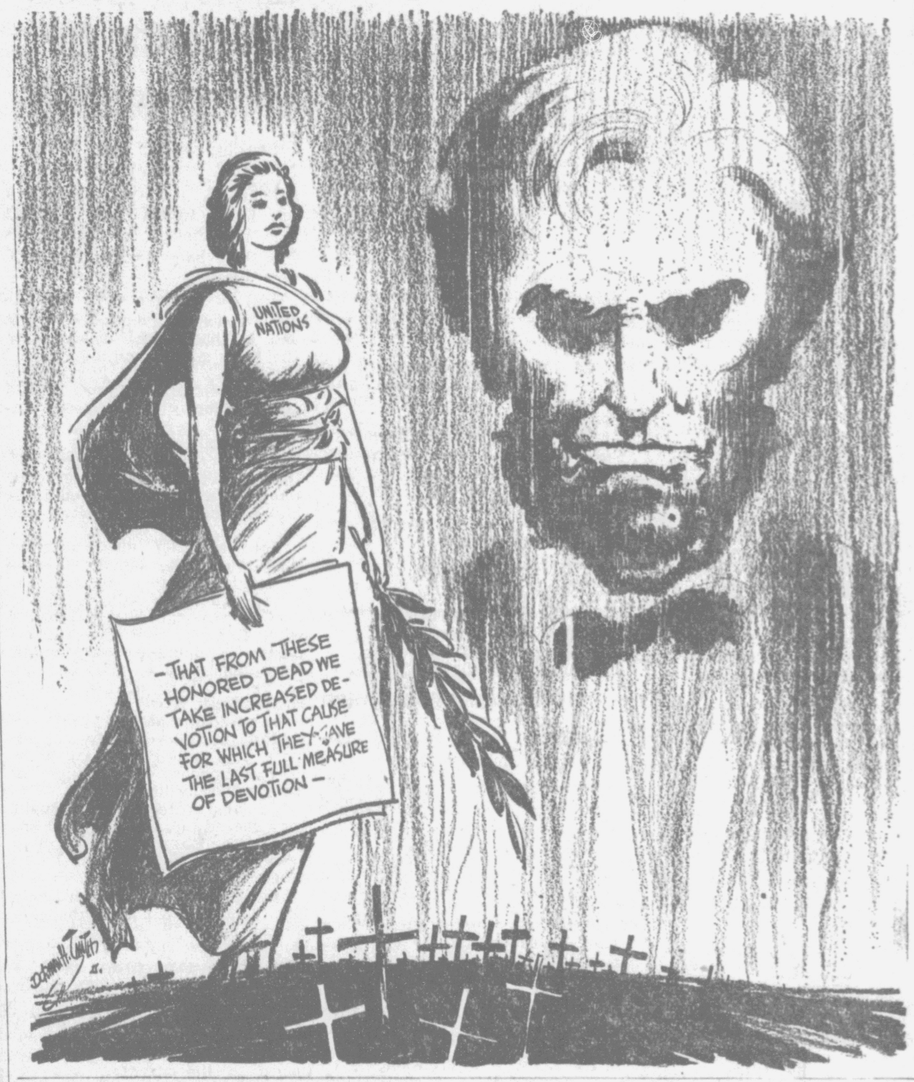

Remember, blood pressure is most important but higher readings than present standards should not cause alarm.

Still Guiding Toward Freedom

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — Today the SS Aagtedyk sails from Philadelphia, City of Brotherly Love, bearing the first cargo of the tide of toys to Europe. This is a friendship cargo which the American Legion has painstakingly collected from all parts of the U. S. A. for the children of Europe and for the families of American GI'S in Korea.

Last year the Legion sent 3,000,000 toys to Europe. Frequently drives of this kind slacken after the first year. People get tired or discouraged, figure the need isn't quite so great. But the Legion has reversed this trend, and the amazing total of 7,000,000 toys have now been contributed by children who could spare a toy from under their own Christmas tree.

What the Legion and its friends have realized is that money cannot buy friendship. Nor can the shipment of arms build friendship. Nor can the rebuilding of European factories, important as that is, build friendship. It is the people-to-people understanding, such as comes through a gift of a toy bearing a message from one child to another, which really builds the kind of enduring friendship we need.

Note—The Legion did such a good job of collecting friendship toys this year that the cost of shipping became much greater than last year. Whereupon a group of patriotic businessmen in New York, led by Lewis Rosenstiel, stepped in to raise $50,000 to cover overhead expenses.

Alien Property Politics

One of the little-noticed but festering political sores of Washington is General Aniline and Film, the giant German-Swiss chemical corporation, formerly affiliated with the notorious I. G. Farben cartel and now a pawn in the cutthroat game of Democratic politics.

If a Senate committee ever pries into the political ramifications of General Aniline and Film it will make the current probe of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation seem pallid by comparison. Technically, the German-Swiss company is supposed to be operated by the alien property custodian of the U. S. Justice Department. But the Justice Department has farmed direction of the company to various friends who hepled Harry Truman get where he is.

First of all, shrewd, farsighted Victor Emanuel, tycoon of the American Aviation Company, appointed Leo Crowley as head of his Standard Gas and Electric Co., when Leo was a power in the Roosevelt administration. At that time—1939 and the years following—Crowley had the unique privilege of drawing $75,000 from Standard Gas and Electric at the very same time he was working for U. S. taxpayers as head of the Federal Deposit Insurance and as alien property custodian.

An inplication that Crowley was serving two masters came later when he rewarded the man who paid him $75,000 annually by making Victor Emanuel a director of the giant German firm, General Aniline and Film. As alien property custodian, Crowley could appoint the directors of this German firm, and he appointed not only Emanuel but Emanuel's close friend, George Allen.

Profitable Back-Scratching

After Crowley stepped down as alien property custodian, he placed his own friend and assistant, Jim Markham, in this key position. And Markham, in turn, appointed another friend of Victor Emanuel's, Louey Johnson, on the board of General Aniline and Film. Johnson became not only a director, but general counsel at a retainer of $37,500 annually.

Later, when Markham stepped out as alien property custodian, he got a job in Louey Johnson's law firm. Thus, everybody scratched each other's back all the way round.

However, a lot of politicians had their eyes on the giant German-Swiss firm. Manufacturing as it does Ansco Film, hormones, and 1,000 different synthetic dyes, it was the juiciest property seized by the government during the war. Its factories spread out from Grasselli, N. J., to Binghamton and Johnson City, N. Y., and a total of $1,000,000 a year was paid out to top executives and directors.

So in 1947, Bob Hannegan of Democratic National Committee fame, induced Attorney General Tom Clark to appoint Jack Frye as head of the General Aniline. Frye, a party faithful, had been eased out of his job as head of Trans World Airlines, but now stepped into the presidency of the giant German-Swiss firm at $72,000.

Battle of Tycoons

About that time Victor Emanuel's influence began to wane, and the influence of rival tycoon, Floyd Odlum, began to increase. Both incidentally, had carefully sweetened the kitty of the Democratic party, but in 1948 Odlum had gone down the line for Truman while Emanuel flirted with the Republicans.

At any rate, today finds Richard C. Patterson, a satellite of Floyd Odlum's, on the board of General Aniline, and significantly appointed as U. S. Ambassador to Switzerland. Patterson has no outstanding qualifications for the U. S. ambassadorship to Switzerland, having recently served in an opposite area of the world—Guatemala. However, it may or may not be a coincidence that the Swiss are now doing their best to take over General Aniline, in fact, have sued the U. S. Government, while the Swiss Government has made representations to the State Department on behalf of the European investors in General Analine.

So naturally the question is being asked as to whether a Floyd Odlum man as ambassador to Switzerland could not perhaps intervene in this delicate, difficult situation.

Songbird Director

Other interesting political appointments to the board of General Aniline, made by a politically minded Justice Department, are: Morton Downey, the Coca-Cola singer, who is a delightful personality but knows little about dyestuffs; Colvin Brown, publisher of the Motion Picture Daily and great friend of ex-Postmaster General Frank Walker; William J. Mahaney of San Francisco, who gave $5,000 to the Democrats; and Donald Lincoln, law partner of Louey Johnson, who contributed $1,000 to the Democrats.

Meanwhile, General Aniline's earnings have dropped. Meanwhile, also, the U. S. Government has followed a general policy of selling off other German property seized during the war. General Aniline and Film, however, remains unsold, and the juciest industrial pawn in all party politics.

Talks of Hoover and Taft Make Military Men Gasp Over Lack of Knowledge

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Feb. 12 — Former President Hoover and Senator Taft, by their speeches urging a greater emphasis on sea power and air power rather than land power, have demonstrated that helpful though it be to rebate such issues these two statesmen are not really up to date on military strategy as it will affect the next big-scale war in Europe.

What both men are talking about has made military men here gasp with astonishment. For there is no such thing as a sharp line of demarcation in our over-all strategy between air power, sea power, or land power respectively. Korea has proved that it is the combination of all three rather than reliance on any one or two of thoese components which makes for success against an enemy, even though the aggressor possesses only one force-land armies.

Both Messrs. Taft and Hoover have spoken repeatedly of land troops and have attempted to argue that a certain number of divisions will be mobilized by Russia against which it would be futile to match American or European Divisions. The speeches have given the impression that because the Russians have more divisions already, it would be a mistake to try to build up manpower against them.

What seems to have been overlooked is that air power, for example, consists of a large amount of ground power. Thus the big bases in Europe, whether in Britain or France or Spain or North Africa or the middle east, will require a sizable number of ground troops to protect those points against land attack.

The theory that air power can make sustained attacks from our own continent and that these alone will be adequate has been found fallacious. These are, of course, intercontinental bombers which in the initial stages of any war will fly from here to Europe and back carrying the atom bomb; but every military man familiar with the general strategy of today knows that this is an initial stage and that the second stage will require repeated and sustained sorties from overseas bases integrated with land and sea operations.

Another fallacy which seems to permeate the Taft-Hoover addresses is that America should wait for an attack before starting a large expeditionary force to Europe. True the North Atlantic Pact literally doesn't obligate us to aid until an attack comes, but American citizens would not for a moment want to wait till Europe is attacked and Russia is on the march to begin a build-up of resistance, actual or potential. To deter an attack by assembling an adequate force is an implied obligation of any treaty of mutual defense.

There are some good points in both the Taft and Hoover speeches such as the necessity for thorough consideration of the problem of getting congressional authority to send large bodies of troops to Europe and of assuring that proportionate contributions of manpower will be made by the Europeans. But this is a far different question from that which confronts our military chieftains.

Plainly the American people must entrust to their responsible military chiefs the task of formulating a basic strategy. It is not for laymen to say how many troops shall compose a division or how many divisions are necessary to ward off an attack. It is for Congress to decide whether or not to take the advice of the military and, if the nation does not have faith in its military advisers, no military program which is evolved out of partisan debate in the halls of Congress can win the confidence of the country. To illustrate the point as to how far military science was run ahead of the already obsolete conceptions of five years ago with respect to the usual operations of land armies, it is pertinent to quote one paragraph from a copyrighted interview last week in U. S. News & World Report in which General Collins, chief of staff of the United States army, said:

"The guided missile also will eventually be a great asset that I think can ultimately be used perhaps for the defense of Europe, because the guided missile can be brought in which considerable accuracy under certain conditions, relatively close to your troops."

At another point in the extended interview the general said that 200 Communist divisions are the equivalent of only 120 American-type divisions and that while 20 of our divisions wouldn't be enough, the new weapons make it possible for him to say: "You don't have to match division for division."

Mr. Hoover was quite right when he declared that the American people should have more information, but it is also true that laymen who are thinking solely of the number of divisions of land armies in measuring our strength, and who fail to see the over-all picture in terms of a combined air power, sea power and land power with new atomic weapons for each armed service are not really informed on what 1951 warpower can do.

The question of expense is frequently mentioned but it is at best only relative. How much money would the American people pay today to prevent a third World War? The result can hardly be attained at a bargain price, but where liberty and survival are at stake the value of money itself is also relative. Inflation is bad, but defeat and enslavement are much worse.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Feb. 11—As I told you Friday, a rich broker named Arthur J. Goldsmith runs a half-dozen propaganda layouts from his apartment in the luxurious Waldorf Tower but uses the demure and misleading address of "100 East 50th street" on the letterheads. Mr. Goldsmith is supposed to be a man that you are supposed to be afraid of. That kind are a challenge to a free press and I have never yet tangled with one who didn't fold up if you bellied right up to him.

So, after inquiries made by hand at the Waldorf Tower where this mysterious power has his lair, I called up to ask for an appointment. A sharp and, I thought, nasty manner was the extent of the Goldsmith menace in that encounter. Mr. Goldsmith said he wouldn't talk but that, if I would write him a letter, he would answer it. A few minutes later, one of the three secretaries employed in his three-room apartment where the half-dozen propaganda layouts do business under the letterhead address of 100 East 50th street called back to say that while Goldsmith was willing to answer such a letter, he wouldn't promise to answer any or all questions that the letter might ask.

Now, I ask you, what do you make of a rich man with a consuming hobby of creating propaganda through a bunch of letterhead societies and hosing money into our public elections, who is too proud, too independent of public opinion or too scared lest the truth be told, to answer questions about his activities?

I am an American citizen. I am a voter. I have a right that my vote shall be effective and not neutralized or nullified by the dirty money of some rich predator living in Philadelphia who pours his wealth into my state out west to elect someone that he prefers. What right has this rich guy to butt into the elections in my state anyway? If it is corrupt practice for a corporation to do that, it is just as rotten for a secret group of eastern plotters to do the same thing with money received from corporations or from foundations or whatever source.

When I give Herbert Swope an assignment he stays with it. Most often he brings in the story, but this time he had the croup and could hardly talk on the phone, which, if you know your Herbie, is a terrible state of affairs, and moreover he just couldn't find his friend Goldsmith. He phoned all over intending to tell him he couldn't stand off the great American free press that way and had better answer the questions.

But Herbert couldn't get him and I did my duty when I asked the guy to talk. Now Goldsmith can either answer my questions about his propaganda societies and tell me the truth or I will make my own inquiries and tell him—and you.

Margaret Johnston Becomes the Bride Of Charles E. Joy

Miss Margaret Ann Johnston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Johnston of 6 Hanratty street, became the bride of Charles Edwin Joy, son of Mrs. Bertha Kline of 9 Maple street and Charles Joy, February 4 at 2:30 p. m. in Trinity Methodist Church, this city. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Ivan F. Gassoo of that congregation.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a light blue dress, with navy blue accessories, and a white rose corsage.

Miss Frieda Williams of 9 Maple street, niece of the groom, attended the bride. Miss Williams was dressed in a light blue dress, with dark blue accessories, and a red rose corsage.

John Johnston, Jr., of 6 Hanratty street, brother of the bride, was best man.

A reception for 50 guests followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents.

The couple are now making their home at 9 Maple street.

The bride attended Kingston High School. Mr. Joy is a veteran of World War 2 when he served for three years in the European Theatre of Operations, and where he was awarded the Purple Heart.

Mrs. Blanche Keidan Is Wed in New York

Announcement has been mad of the marriage of Mrs. Blanche Keidan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Navy of 105 Wurts street, to Harold Koppersmith of New York, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Koppersmith of New York, December 31. The ceremony was performed in Roskoff's, New York, with Rabbi A. Siskind officiating.

Mrs. Bernard Michael of Washington, D. C., was matron of honor for her sister, and Norman Koppersmith of New York was best man. Alan Charles Navy of this city, nephew of the bride, was child ringbearer.

The bride was graduated from Kingston High School, and Albany State Teachers College. She received her master's degree in 1950 from the New York School of Social Work, Columbia University.

The groom was graduated from the College of the City of New York, where he earned his degree as Bachelor of Social Science. He is now working at Columbia University for his doctorate in political science and sociology.

The couple's home is at 92 West 107th street, New York.

Mrs. Albert Kurdt Will Give Report At Leaders' Club

Of great importance in the active reorganization of the Girl Scout movement in Ulster county will be the meeting tonight of the Kingston District Leaders Club at 8 p. m. in the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Tonight's session of the Leaders' Club will feature a report of Mrs. Albert Kurdt of last week's meeting of the newly-formed Ulster county area Girl Scout Council. The council gathered, under the guidance of Miss Jane Lounsberry of the New York Girl Scout office, to proceed with plans for a complete overhaul of the county scouting program.

The council includes Camp Committee Chairman Mrs. Helen Oakley of Ellenville; Commissioner Mrs. Irma Cody of Napanoch; former Commissioner Mrs. Ashton Hart of High Falls; Treasurer Miss Drought of High Falls; and Mrs. Oscar Newkirk, Mrs. Dean Dykstra, Mrs. Albert Kurdt, Mrs. Casper Souers, Mrs. Vincent Connelly, Mrs. Gorman Schellhammer and Mrs. C. S. Jones, Jr., all of Kingston. The deputy commissioner has not yet been elected.

Last week's council meeting, as well as tonight's session of the Leaders' Club, were sparked by the urgent need for closer coordination among the county's 60 troops which comprise more than 700 registered scouts. According to Mrs. Bernhardt S. Kramer, president of the Kingston Club, efforts are being made to strengthen the unity among the leaders of the county's far-flung troops. The club includes leaders from Woodstock, Port Ewen, Malden and Centerville, as well as from Kingston. It meets each month and represents 27 troops. All leaders, assistant leaders, and troop committee chairmen are voting members.

Classes in Study Of Young Children Held by Parents

The final class in a series of 10 vital lessons for parents on the pre-school child level was held February 5 in connection with the adult education program.

It was announced at the final session that the course will be held again in the spring if requests from parents are sufficient. Those interested in having the course repeated are requested to notify Hubert Hoderath, telephone 1884.

During the special series, the group study centered around the physical, mental, emotional and social development of the young child and included such topics as the following:

Family relationships, mother, father, parent and child, sister and brother; discipline, punishment, wholesome eating, sleeping and toilet training, developing a philosophy of life, children's literature and records and place of the nursery school.

The course was limited to normal child behavior and the everyday normal problems that arise in every good home. An appraisal of the study was made by the group at the end of the course to determine how it had helped each member. The general consensus was that many workable techniques for comfortable discipline had been gained from each other.

Speakers during the course included Mrs. Raymond Gilkey, leader; John A. Gillus, health education assistant of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association and Dr. Robert H. Broad, county commissioner of health.

Films from the New York State Department of Health were shown at various times. The films included "Why Won't Tommy Eat?", "Problem Child," "Baby Meets His Parents" and "Helping a Child Accept the Do's."

Speakers Highlight Day Unit Meeting

Mrs. William E. Powers, and Miss Everice Parsons spoke Thursday at the regular monthly meeting of Kingston Day Unit, Home Bureau, when the group met at 2 p. m. in the Home Bureau rooms.

In outlining the Home Bureau's program for the year, Mrs. Powers stressed that if the unit is to be a success, each member must play an important part. Although the officers, through exercise of their responsibilities, contribute to a unit's success, the leaders must have the cooperation of the members, so classes can be planned. Meetings, which are planned to be both educational and interesting, she said, should be attended by all members. Mrs. Powers also pointed out that the majority of requests for projects are granted.

The second speaker, Miss Parsons, spoke of the importance of the homemaker's part in the family, who, she said, was the hub of the family's happiness.

Miss Parsons also discussed program preparation, world affairs, the cost of living, home nursing, and first aid. A lively group discussion on those subjects followed.

Hostess for the tea which followed was Mrs. Howard Aliton, assisted by the following co-hostesses: the Mmes. Frieda Hauptmann, Margaret Kiefer, Ann Isherwood, Albert Reese, Watson Wheeler and Michael Kalousdian. Mrs. Frieda Hauptmann and Mrs. Margaret Kiefer poured.

Peckham to Resign As Local Minister For New York Post

The Rev. William R. Peckham announced to his congregation at the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church Sunday morning that he has accepted a call to become associate pastor and director of religious education at the Fort Washington Collegiate Church, New York city.

Mr. Peckham has been pastor of the Clinton Avenue Church for 13 years. His resignation becomes effective February 28. No successor has been appointed.

The transfer of the local pastor was approved by Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam and the cabinet of the New York Conference of the Methodist Church at a meeting Friday afternoon.

Here 13 Years

The announcement of the resignation was received locally as a surprise to most of the congregation and many expressed regret over the impending departure of the pastor, whose 13 years at the local church was considerably longer than the usual stay of a pastor in the Methodist denomination. At the same time, congregation members wished their pastor "best of success" in his new field, a church spokesman said.

The collegiate denomination to which the Rev. Mr. Peckham will transfer is one of the oldest and most honored in America, with a history that runs back to the Dutch occupation of New York city.

The pastor of the Fort Washington Church is the Rev. Dr. Daniel W. Poling, son of Dr. Daniel A. Poling, distinguished clergyman and editor of the Christian Herald magazine. A brother of Daniel W. was one of the four clergymen of different faiths who surrendered their life-belts to others during World War 2 and went down with their ship. They have since received the highest awards of their country for this act of self-sacrifice and heroism.

The Fort Washington Church supports an independent recreational and religious educational building devoted to the youth of the community and conducts an active, seven-day-a-week program. The massive organ of the Collegiate Church of St. Nicholas, which was taken down last year, was transferred to the Fort Washington Church.

$11,600 Mortgage Erased

The Rev. Mr. Peckham made the following statement concerning his acceptance of the call: "It is naturally with a great deal of hesitancy that I leave Kingston, where I have made so many friends throughout the years. But I received a unanimous call to one of the most influential churches in New York city, equipped to meet the needs of the tremendous population in which it is the center. I feel that I am leaving the church here in good condition, and that in the big city I shall find those who need me more."

Mr. Peckham came to the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church (then the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church) in April, 1938. During his tenure there he was instrumental in erasing a debt of $11,600 plus $3,000 in interest. The congregation and friends filled Epworth Hall to capacity on November 9, 1944, to witness the burning of the mortgage.

Also during his pastorate, the local church was continually being improved. Concrete steps were repaired, the church steeple was repainted, the interior was redecorated twice, a hardwood floor was laid in the kitchen and new lighting fixtures as well as an automatic stoker were installed. The church celebrated its 95th anniversary in November, 1950.

A graduate of Mt. Hermon, Mass., College Preparatory and Springfield School of Engineering, Peckham was employed for two years with the New York Board of Water Supply before entering the ministry. He was ordained a deacon by Bishop L. B. Wilson at the New York Conference meeting at St. James Church here on April 5, 1924, and was ordained as elder by Bishop Theodore S. Henderson in New York on April 3, 1927. He completed a four year course in the New York Bible College in 1929.

Served in Woodstock

He served as pastor of the Woodstock parish for eight years and was in that capacity when the Woodstock M. E. Church celebrated its 100th anniversary in 1932. Following that event, he accepted a call to St. John's Methodist Church in Newburgh, where he remained five years. He was elected to two terms as president of the Newburgh Ministerial Association.

During his stay in Kingston, he was president in 1944 of the Kingston Ministerial Association and he has represented that association in serving the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital. He is a member of Local Board No. 18, Selective Service, from which position he will also resign as a result of his call to New York.

'World Prayer' Is Impressive Service

A large congregation of women filled St. James Methodist Church Friday at the "World Day of Prayer" service, an impressive ceremony conducted under the joint leadership of Mrs. Ralph Houston, and Mrs. Thomas H. Reynolds.

A chorus of more than 25 women from churches throughout the city, under the direction of C. Franklin Pierce, with only a short rehearsal prior to the service, sang "The Lord's Prayer" by Malotte for the offertory, and A. S. Cooper's "Sanctus" for the responsive reading. They also led the congregation during the hymns.

Margaret Johnston Becomes the Bride Of Charles E. Joy

Miss Margaret Ann Johnston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Johnston of 6 Hanratty street, became the bride of Charles Edwin Joy, son of Mrs. Bertha Kline of 9 Maple street and Charles Joy, February 4 at 2:30 p. m. in Trinity Methodist Church, this city. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Ivan F. Gassoo of that congregation.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a light blue dress, with navy blue accessories, and a white rose corsage.

Miss Frieda Williams of 9 Maple street, niece of the groom, attended the bride. Miss Williams was dressed in a light blue dress, with dark blue accessories, and a red rose corsage.

John Johnston, Jr., of 6 Hanratty street, brother of the bride, was best man.

A reception for 50 guests followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents.

The couple are now making their home at 9 Maple street.

The bride attended Kingston High School. Mr. Joy is a veteran of World War 2 when he served for three years in the European Theatre of Operations, and where he was awarded the Purple Heart.

Mrs. Blanche Keidan Is Wed in New York

Announcement has been mad of the marriage of Mrs. Blanche Keidan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Navy of 105 Wurts street, to Harold Koppersmith of New York, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Koppersmith of New York, December 31. The ceremony was performed in Roskoff's, New York, with Rabbi A. Siskind officiating.

Mrs. Bernard Michael of Washington, D. C., was matron of honor for her sister, and Norman Koppersmith of New York was best man. Alan Charles Navy of this city, nephew of the bride, was child ringbearer.

The bride was graduated from Kingston High School, and Albany State Teachers College. She received her master's degree in 1950 from the New York School of Social Work, Columbia University.

The groom was graduated from the College of the City of New York, where he earned his degree as Bachelor of Social Science. He is now working at Columbia University for his doctorate in political science and sociology.

The couple's home is at 92 West 107th street, New York.

Mrs. Albert Kurdt Will Give Report At Leaders' Club

Of great importance in the active reorganization of the Girl Scout movement in Ulster county will be the meeting tonight of the Kingston District Leaders Club at 8 p. m. in the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Tonight's session of the Leaders' Club will feature a report of Mrs. Albert Kurdt of last week's meeting of the newly-formed Ulster county area Girl Scout Council. The council gathered, under the guidance of Miss Jane Lounsberry of the New York Girl Scout office, to proceed with plans for a complete overhaul of the county scouting program.

The council includes Camp Committee Chairman Mrs. Helen Oakley of Ellenville; Commissioner Mrs. Irma Cody of Napanoch; former Commissioner Mrs. Ashton Hart of High Falls; Treasurer Miss Drought of High Falls; and Mrs. Oscar Newkirk, Mrs. Dean Dykstra, Mrs. Albert Kurdt, Mrs. Casper Souers, Mrs. Vincent Connelly, Mrs. Gorman Schellhammer and Mrs. C. S. Jones, Jr., all of Kingston. The deputy commissioner has not yet been elected.

Last week's council meeting, as well as tonight's session of the Leaders' Club, were sparked by the urgent need for closer coordination among the county's 60 troops which comprise more than 700 registered scouts. According to Mrs. Bernhardt S. Kramer, president of the Kingston Club, efforts are being made to strengthen the unity among the leaders of the county's far-flung troops. The club includes leaders from Woodstock, Port Ewen, Malden and Centerville, as well as from Kingston. It meets each month and represents 27 troops. All leaders, assistant leaders, and troop committee chairmen are voting members.

Classes in Study Of Young Children Held by Parents

The final class in a series of 10 vital lessons for parents on the pre-school child level was held February 5 in connection with the adult education program.

It was announced at the final session that the course will be held again in the spring if requests from parents are sufficient. Those interested in having the course repeated are requested to notify Hubert Hoderath, telephone 1884.

During the special series, the group study centered around the physical, mental, emotional and social development of the young child and included such topics as the following:

Family relationships, mother, father, parent and child, sister and brother; discipline, punishment, wholesome eating, sleeping and toilet training, developing a philosophy of life, children's literature and records and place of the nursery school.

The course was limited to normal child behavior and the everyday normal problems that arise in every good home. An appraisal of the study was made by the group at the end of the course to determine how it had helped each member. The general consensus was that many workable techniques for comfortable discipline had been gained from each other.

Speakers during the course included Mrs. Raymond Gilkey, leader; John A. Gillus, health education assistant of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association and Dr. Robert H. Broad, county commissioner of health.

Films from the New York State Department of Health were shown at various times. The films included "Why Won't Tommy Eat?", "Problem Child," "Baby Meets His Parents" and "Helping a Child Accept the Do's."

Margaret Johnston Becomes the Bride Of Charles E. Joy

Miss Margaret Ann Johnston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Johnston of 6 Hanratty street, became the bride of Charles Edwin Joy, son of Mrs. Bertha Kline of 9 Maple street and Charles Joy, February 4 at 2:30 p. m. in Trinity Methodist Church, this city. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Ivan F. Gassoo of that congregation.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a light blue dress, with navy blue accessories, and a white rose corsage.

Miss Frieda Williams of 9 Maple street, niece of the groom, attended the bride. Miss Williams was dressed in a light blue dress, with dark blue accessories, and a red rose corsage.

John Johnston, Jr., of 6 Hanratty street, brother of the bride, was best man.

A reception for 50 guests followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents.

The couple are now making their home at 9 Maple street.

The bride attended Kingston High School. Mr. Joy is a veteran of World War 2 when he served for three years in the European Theatre of Operations, and where he was awarded the Purple Heart.

Mrs. Blanche Keidan Is Wed in New York

Announcement has been mad of the marriage of Mrs. Blanche Keidan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Navy of 105 Wurts street, to Harold Koppersmith of New York, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Koppersmith of New York, December 31. The ceremony was performed in Roskoff's, New York, with Rabbi A. Siskind officiating.

Mrs. Bernard Michael of Washington, D. C., was matron of honor for her sister, and Norman Koppersmith of New York was best man. Alan Charles Navy of this city, nephew of the bride, was child ringbearer.

The bride was graduated from Kingston High School, and Albany State Teachers College. She received her master's degree in 1950 from the New York School of Social Work, Columbia University.

The groom was graduated from the College of the City of New York, where he earned his degree as Bachelor of Social Science. He is now working at Columbia University for his doctorate in political science and sociology.

The couple's home is at 92 West 107th street, New York.

Mrs. Albert Kurdt Will Give Report At Leaders' Club

Of great importance in the active reorganization of the Girl Scout movement in Ulster county will be the meeting tonight of the Kingston District Leaders Club at 8 p. m. in the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Tonight's session of the Leaders' Club will feature a report of Mrs. Albert Kurdt of last week's meeting of the newly-formed Ulster county area Girl Scout Council. The council gathered, under the guidance of Miss Jane Lounsberry of the New York Girl Scout office, to proceed with plans for a complete overhaul of the county scouting program.

The council includes Camp Committee Chairman Mrs. Helen Oakley of Ellenville; Commissioner Mrs. Irma Cody of Napanoch; former Commissioner Mrs. Ashton Hart of High Falls; Treasurer Miss Drought of High Falls; and Mrs. Oscar Newkirk, Mrs. Dean Dykstra, Mrs. Albert Kurdt, Mrs. Casper Souers, Mrs. Vincent Connelly, Mrs. Gorman Schellhammer and Mrs. C. S. Jones, Jr., all of Kingston. The deputy commissioner has not yet been elected.

Last week's council meeting, as well as tonight's session of the Leaders' Club, were sparked by the urgent need for closer coordination among the county's 60 troops which comprise more than 700 registered scouts. According to Mrs. Bernhardt S. Kramer, president of the Kingston Club, efforts are being made to strengthen the unity among the leaders of the county's far-flung troops. The club includes leaders from Woodstock, Port Ewen, Malden and Centerville, as well as from Kingston. It meets each month and represents 27 troops. All leaders, assistant leaders, and troop committee chairmen are voting members.

Classes in Study Of Young Children Held by Parents

The final class in a series of 10 vital lessons for parents on the pre-school child level was held February 5 in connection with the adult education program.

It was announced at the final session that the course will be held again in the spring if requests from parents are sufficient. Those interested in having the course repeated are requested to notify Hubert Hoderath, telephone 1884.

During the special series, the group study centered around the physical, mental, emotional and social development of the young child and included such topics as the following:

Family relationships, mother, father, parent and child, sister and brother; discipline, punishment, wholesome eating, sleeping and toilet training, developing a philosophy of life, children's literature and records and place of the nursery school.

The course was limited to normal child behavior and the everyday normal problems that arise in every good home. An appraisal of the study was made by the group at the end of the course to determine how it had helped each member. The general consensus was that many workable techniques for comfortable discipline had been gained from each other.

Speakers during the course included Mrs. Raymond Gilkey, leader; John A. Gillus, health education assistant of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association and Dr. Robert H. Broad, county commissioner of health.

Films from the New York State Department of Health were shown at various times. The films included "Why Won't Tommy Eat?", "Problem Child," "Baby Meets His Parents" and "Helping a Child Accept the Do's."

Woman Dies in Hospital

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 12 (AP)—An 85-year-old woman, who was found semi-conscious two days ago with a body temperature of 76 degrees, died today in Albany Hospital. Dr. Curtland Brown said Mrs. Anna Fadole previously had "shown improvement." Welfare investigators found Mrs. Fadole in her unheated furnished room Saturday during a routine check. She was suffering from frostbite, overexposure and malnutrition.

Speakers Highlight Day Unit Meeting

Mrs. William E. Powers, and Miss Everice Parsons spoke Thursday at the regular monthly meeting of Kingston Day Unit, Home Bureau, when the group met at 2 p. m. in the Home Bureau rooms.

In outlining the Home Bureau's program for the year, Mrs. Powers stressed that if the unit is to be a success, each member must play an important part. Although the officers, through exercise of their responsibilities, contribute to a unit's success, the leaders must have the cooperation of the members, so classes can be planned. Meetings, which are planned to be both educational and interesting, she said, should be attended by all members. Mrs. Powers also pointed out that the majority of requests for projects are granted.

The second speaker, Miss Parsons, spoke of the importance of the homemaker's part in the family, who, she said, was the hub of the family's happiness.

Miss Parsons also discussed program preparation, world affairs, the cost of living, home nursing, and first aid. A lively group discussion on those subjects followed.

Hostess for the tea which followed was Mrs. Howard Aliton, assisted by the following co-hostesses: the Mmes. Frieda Hauptmann, Margaret Kiefer, Ann Isherwood, Albert Reese, Watson Wheeler and Michael Kalousdian. Mrs. Frieda Hauptmann and Mrs. Margaret Kiefer poured.

Peckham to Resign As Local Minister For New York Post

The Rev. William R. Peckham announced to his congregation at the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church Sunday morning that he has accepted a call to become associate pastor and director of religious education at the Fort Washington Collegiate Church, New York city.

Mr. Peckham has been pastor of the Clinton Avenue Church for 13 years. His resignation becomes effective February 28. No successor has been appointed.

The transfer of the local pastor was approved by Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam and the cabinet of the New York Conference of the Methodist Church at a meeting Friday afternoon.

Here 13 Years

The announcement of the resignation was received locally as a surprise to most of the congregation and many expressed regret over the impending departure of the pastor, whose 13 years at the local church was considerably longer than the usual stay of a pastor in the Methodist denomination. At the same time, congregation members wished their pastor "best of success" in his new field, a church spokesman said.

The collegiate denomination to which the Rev. Mr. Peckham will transfer is one of the oldest and most honored in America, with a history that runs back to the Dutch occupation of New York city.

The pastor of the Fort Washington Church is the Rev. Dr. Daniel W. Poling, son of Dr. Daniel A. Poling, distinguished clergyman and editor of the Christian Herald magazine. A brother of Daniel W. was one of the four clergymen of different faiths who surrendered their life-belts to others during World War 2 and went down with their ship. They have since received the highest awards of their country for this act of self-sacrifice and heroism.

The Fort Washington Church supports an independent recreational and religious educational building devoted to the youth of the community and conducts an active, seven-day-a-week program. The massive organ of the Collegiate Church of St. Nicholas, which was taken down last year, was transferred to the Fort Washington Church.

$11,600 Mortgage Erased

The Rev. Mr. Peckham made the following statement concerning his acceptance of the call: "It is naturally with a great deal of hesitancy that I leave Kingston, where I have made so many friends throughout the years. But I received a unanimous call to one of the most influential churches in New York city, equipped to meet the needs of the tremendous population in which it is the center. I feel that I am leaving the church here in good condition, and that in the big city I shall find those who need me more."

Mr. Peckham came to the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church (then the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church) in April, 1938. During his tenure there he was instrumental in erasing a debt of $11,600 plus $3,000 in interest. The congregation and friends filled Epworth Hall to capacity on November 9, 1944, to witness the burning of the mortgage.

Also during his pastorate, the local church was continually being improved. Concrete steps were repaired, the church steeple was repainted, the interior was redecorated twice, a hardwood floor was laid in the kitchen and new lighting fixtures as well as an automatic stoker were installed. The church celebrated its 95th anniversary in November, 1950.

A graduate of Mt. Hermon, Mass., College Preparatory and Springfield School of Engineering, Peckham was employed for two years with the New York Board of Water Supply before entering the ministry. He was ordained a deacon by Bishop L. B. Wilson at the New York Conference meeting at St. James Church here on April 5, 1924, and was ordained as elder by Bishop Theodore S. Henderson in New York on April 3, 1927. He completed a four year course in the New York Bible College in 1929.

Served in Woodstock

He served as pastor of the Woodstock parish for eight years and was in that capacity when the Woodstock M. E. Church celebrated its 100th anniversary in 1932. Following that event, he accepted a call to St. John's Methodist Church in Newburgh, where he remained five years. He was elected to two terms as president of the Newburgh Ministerial Association.

During his stay in Kingston, he was president in 1944 of the Kingston Ministerial Association and he has represented that association in serving the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital. He is a member of Local Board No. 18, Selective Service, from which position he will also resign as a result of his call to New York.

'World Prayer' Is Impressive Service

A large congregation of women filled St. James Methodist Church Friday at the "World Day of Prayer" service, an impressive ceremony conducted under the joint leadership of Mrs. Ralph Houston, and Mrs. Thomas H. Reynolds.

A chorus of more than 25 women from churches throughout the city, under the direction of C. Franklin Pierce, with only a short rehearsal prior to the service, sang "The Lord's Prayer" by Malotte for the offertory, and A. S. Cooper's "Sanctus" for the responsive reading. They also led the congregation during the hymns.

Reports Car Damaged

Douglas Kiernan of Freeport, L. I., reported to the sheriff's office at 12:45 a. m. Sunday that his automobile was sideswiped by an unknown vehicle on the Slide Mountain road at Oliverea.

Local Children Audition for TV

Five youngsters from the Blossom and Blanche Dance Studio at Pine Grove avenue, this city, traveled to Albany Saturday to be auditioned for television. The five lucky youngsters were Shirley Albright, Rae Gadd, Peter Stein, Barbara Anne Williams, and Anita Williams.

Although the competition was reported as "keen," all five were accepted, and will appear on channel 4, WRGB, Schenectady, Saturday, Feb. 17, on the 2:30 p. m. show, "Juvenile Jamboree."

St. Valentine's Day

Enter Dan Cupid, with his bow and dart
To pierce some lovesick mortal's heart
Symbol of romance, he might come your way
For love is alive on St. Valentine's Day.

The world loves a lover, it's in the air
Show each other how much you care
A gift will tell what's hard to say
The dictates of sentiment you must obey.

Some say it with music, or with flowers
Delicious milk chocolates overpowers
Just make a card, draw a Valentine
Send it and say "Wilt thou be mine"?

Love will make the world go 'round
At that meeting, one's heart to pound
Boy meets girl, woman meets man
Then the embers of love they fan

'Tis Valentine's Day, you can speak up
To the brim of love, fill the cup
Watch out, friends, the ball and chain looms near

Amocos Win Class 'A' Title With 2997; Ryan's Service Tops 'C' With 2482

'A' Champs Roll 962, 1052 and 983; Kelder Paces Individuals With 655

The season's outstanding tenpin aggregation—Amoco Gas—justified its lofty estate Saturday night by pounding a brilliant 2997 series to lead the Class A Division in the 15th annual Kingston Bowling Association city tournament at the Ruzzo Bowlatorium.

Ryan's Service Station won Class C honors with a 2482 total.

Winners in Class B will not be determined until a recheck has been made of the eligibility of members of some of the leading teams.

The first "1200" squad in Kingston's bowling history, Amocos reeled off games of 962, 1052 and 983 for their massive total. The second place Embassy Five was well off the pace with 2810.

Weishaupt Sets Pace

Larry Weishaupt carried the team with a 244 solo in the first game, when he opened with seven strikes in succession, before he ran into a wide open split.

Randy Kelder, who cracked 655, paced the second game with 245, Clifton Quick shot 220, Charlie Manfro 203 and Harold Broskie 214. Four of the Amocos were over the "200" mark in the final set.

The 1052 and 2997 rate among the all-time high totals in Class A in city tournament history.

Steve Leone's 656, with 222, 188 and 246 sparked the Embassy Five to second place. Dick Howard's 233—618 led Grand Major to third place. Ed Murphy hit 218-214—622 and Joe Sangi 255—628 for Hymes Shoes. Sangi's 255 was high single for Class A in the team event.

Koskie Has 583

Ed Koskie's 583 series was the big lift in Ryan's Service's leap to Class C honors. James Ryan, the sponsor, shot 462, Harrison Dart 206—517, Murray Hamblin 430 and George Williams anchored with 205—590.

I.M.M. placed the runnerup squads in Class C with 2438 and 2398. George Muller posted 510 and Moe Lazarowitz 524 for No. 1. Herm Kreppel shot 208—530; Ben Marcus 518, and Irving Wilpan 501. Phil DeCicco's 546 for Astor Bar was the best C triple in the team shooting.

The teams in the money in Class A and C follow:

Scramble Starts For NIT Pairings

By JOE FALLS

New York, Feb. 12 (AP)—All the talk has been about the power-packed NCAA basketball tournament but the National Invitation tourney, actually one year older than the NCAA meet, also will present an impressive field for its 12-team extravaganza.

Of course, the NCAA gets most of the nation's outstanding teams since winners of the 10 major conferences automatically qualify for that tournament.

Nevetheless, the NIT, originated in 1938, will have a representative field. Most of these teams will come from the independent ranks.

High on the list for NIT berths are St. John's, Cincinnati, Duquesne, Villanova, LIU, Toledo, Seton Hall, Bowling Green, CCNY, LaSalle, and Manhattan.

Then, of course, there are the runnersup in the conference races. These, too, should add lustre to the Madison Square Garden event, scheduled for March 12-13-15-17. Some of these teams that may get bids are Bradley, West Virginia, St. Louis, Wyoming, Utah and Texas.

The conference winners also are eligible and two or three may shoot for the "grand-slam" achieved by CCNY last year.

This will be one of the busiest and most interesting weeks of the campaign. Several conference scraps could be decided in the next six days.

Columbia, for instance, could assure itself of at least a tie for the Ivy League title with victories over Yale and Harvard. The Lions, only major undefeated team in the land, whipped Cornell Saturday to bring its record to 15-0.

Dog Show

New York, Feb. 12 (AP)—The 75th edition of the Westminster Kennel Club dog show—biggest, classiest ad richest of them all—opened a two-day stay at Madison Square Garden today. The final count of entries revealed that 2,522 dogs, all of which have won at least one blue ribbon, will be seeking the most coveted prize in the canine world—the Westminster best-in-show award.

Newkirk Aces Trip Jackets

Newkirk Aces defeated the Yellow Jackets, 51-47 in the Y.M.C.A. "B" Basketball League Saturday.

Ahead all the way, the Aces coasted in the final quarter, after building up quarter leads of 18-5, 34-22 and 47-34.

The Yellow Jackets missed nine free throws in the fourth period and blew other opportunities but the Aces were playing out the clock.

The Aces solved the stiff Yellow Jacket zone defense with a well balanced attack. Smith was the high scorer with only 10 points but all nine players used by the Aces figured in the scoring. Hutton tossed in nine, while Farley and Schrader each had eight.

Phil DeCicco's 17 points sparked the losers, with Morrissey sinking 14 and Mauro 9.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. FIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

Fred Davi's basketball promotion at the municipal auditorium Thursday revived the popular theory that Kingston is primarily a New York Giant town in major league baseball sentiment.

Two of Leo Durocher's brightest stars—both Negroes—Monte Irvin and Henry Thompson—will be in the Yankee Five lineup. Mercy, how did that ever happen!

An old timer who knows his local sports recently divulged some interesting items regarding Giant sentiment in Kingston.

"I remember my dad used to take me over to Tivoli to see the Giants play their annual exhibition game with (I think) John Hoffman's Depeysters," said the old timer. "McGraw always came up, and as I recall it, it was like the West Point game today—an annual pre-opening game."

"I imagine," he continued, "Depeyster, after whom the Tivoli club was named, was a big shot financially and, for all I know was financially interested.

"That explains why there are so many Giant rooters in this neighborhood—the real answer being that it was born in them for their dads were Giant rooters all the way."

● Flotsam and Jetsam:

Bud Belchert and Bob Ghear joined the Navy together last week. Clarkie Mains has enlisted and was hoping that he could make it a trio, but his orders didn't come through in time. When Seton Hall beat Muhlenberg a few days ago in basketball it was a victory for Honey Russell over the peerless Benny Borgman, two of the all-time greats of the early era of professional basketball. Benny and Honey always squared off in the old days and what battles they were! On some nights Borgmann would hang it on Russell with a 25-point spree. The next time out Benny couldn't escape Russell's leeching tactics. Another great battle used to be Borgmann against Harry Riconda. Guarding Borgmann in those days meant only one thing. You had to leech him without a second't respite.

Say It Isn't So Department: Kay Brodhead, the bowling star, inquiring anxiously if it were true that the Chandlers beat Spinny's Five nine out of 11.

"Impossible," she wailed, "no team could do that to Spinny's," (sponsored by her late father.) .. ..

Sorry, Kay, but the record book says they did.

● Ken Murray and Kingston:

Does any old timer remember Ken Murray, the Saturday night TV star, as a baseball player in these parts?

A couple of times in recent weeks, Murray has mentioned "Kingston, N. Y.," in some indirect way. The first time it might have gone unnoticed, but in a recent interview with Laraine Day and her husband (Leo Durocher of the Giants), he said to Durocher:

"You know I used to be quite a ball player in my younger days up in Kingston, N. Y."

There must be a tremendous number of people watching the Ken Murray show and it comes as great publicity for Kingston. We have written Mr. Murray for an explanation and some background.

Meantime, the area got another plug on the radio, the other night when the Lone Ranger and Tonto were chasing cattle rustlers near "Woodstock." Or, so the nephew said.

The series of Monday night power boating lectures sponsored by Kingston Power Boat Association are similar to a nationwide movement of the United States Power Squadrons. The U.S.P.S. program started as far back as 1914. Drills and instruction classes were set up and more than 5,000 men who attended these classes entered the armed forces. Many of them received commissions on the basis of this U.S.P.S. training.

In the interim between the World Wars, the Squadrons returned to their peace-time instructional program and during World War II the Squadrons again supplied thousands of trained personnel who served the armed forces the better for this peace-time training.

Fifteen thousand members of 120 individual squadrons from coast to coast, the lakes to the gulf and in the Canal Zone and Hawaii will celebrate this day to serve notice that "right and might" is an unbeatable team.

Today's motto of the U.S.P.S. is: "There's much to be done in '51."

If Ted Williams gets 200 hits next season—which is a good year—he'll be getting $625 per bingle. Now, you know why the guy doesn't bunt.

Doug Ford Bids For First Title

San Antonio, Tex. Feb. 12 (AP)—Young Doug Ford goes after his first major championship in golf today against veteran campaigner E. J. (Dutch) Harrison when the two meet to decide first money in the $10,000 Texas Open.

Ford and Harrison each finished the 72-hole grind with 265 yesterday as Ford, the 27-year-old Briarcliff, N. Y., par-blaster, rammed down a 10-foot putt the eighteenth green—last shot of the regular tournament—and got the birdie that gave him a three-under par 68 and another chance at the $2,000 first prize.

It will be the seventh play-off for Harrison, the St. Andrews, Ill., old-timer to tournament golf. He has won only one of the six previous ones—the first, against Henry Poe at Pinehust, N. C., in 1936.

Auburn, Ala.—Earl M. Brown was dismissed as Auburn's head football coach.

Rochester Pinman Captures Petersen

Chicago, Feb. 12 (AP)—At 3 a. m. Sunday Feb. 4, an unheralded bowler named John Quinzi of East Rochester, N. Y., wearily trudged from the Petersen Tournament after posting an eight-game 1596.

His score, at that time, had taken the lead for Petersen's $8,000 first prize.

"It won't stand up at all," muttered the 29-year-old Quinzi, who owns a bowling alley. "It isn't even a 200 average."

Quinzi's early morning finish withstood the efforts of some of the games greatest pin-spillers during the final week. And last night—20 days of competition and 1,952 bowlers after the marathon $48,800 meet started—Quinzi was notified he was the winner of the game's biggest jackpot.

His effort was the second lowest winning score in the 41 year history of the classic. In 1922, Lou Levine of Chicago won from a comparatively small field of 96 with 1,588.

Quinzi, a former air force officer, will receive $5,000 in cash and 12 monthly payments of $250 for a four-hour job on the lanes that disappointed him.

Quinzi was nearly overtaken on the final squad last night by Norvel Martin, a 38-year-old Cincinnati veteran. Norvel, after a blistering start, faded in the final games but was still in contention until the last frame. He had a strike in the ninth frame for 209 and needed a spare and a nine count on his second ball to win in the 10th. But he failed and posted 1,586 for second place worth $4,000.

Winner of the concurrent De Vito meet and $3,000 first money was Ron Bergstrom of Chicago. Bergstrom blasted a rousing 1,722 three weeks ago and it was never threatened.

Page Signs

New York, Feb. 12 (AP)—Relief pitcher Joe Page has signed his 1951 contract with the New York Yankees and expects to regain top form this season. The world champions announced yesterday that the big lefthander became the 19th Yankee to come to terms. Page told Assistant General Manager Roy Hamey at Naugatuck, Conn.: "I'm not worrying about 1951. My arm is in great shape and I'm very happy over my contract."

Bowling Roundup

Charlie Gildersleeve pounded a 257 solo and 603 series to highlight action in the Y Mercantile American League bowling. He had opening counts of 170 and 176.

Runnerup Larry Jordan shot 213—563; Jack Raible 545; L. Van Bramer 533; Carmen Massa 224—529; Ed Bock 217—537; Austin Hitchcock 510; Bud Greenburg 506 and Tow Rowland 202—506.

Scoring dipped in the Central Rec Mixed League where Jim Daniels paced the men with 521 and Jennie Spada's neat 538 led the distaff department and took overall honors in the league.

Daniels hit for 194, 192 and 135, while Miss Spada had 176, 165 and 197. Marge Van Alstyne shot 472 and Marie Grimaldi soared 111 pins over her average with 462. Frank Grimaldi, Jr., was runnerup to Daniels with 513.

Pay Extra Fare Again

New York, Feb. 12 (AP)—For the second time in two weeks commuters paid an extra five-cent fare today to transfer from the Green Bus Lines in Queens to the subway when the line's bus drivers refused to give transfers. The line normally carries about 25,000 riders daily but this morning's traffic was light due to Lincoln's birthday. Many workers had the day off. The fare to Manhattan via the line has been 15 cents—10 cents on the bus plus an additional five cents for a transfer to the subway. But today, the commuters had to pay the regular 10-cent subway fare.

Defeat Schuler Five, 66-50

After trailing for three periods, the Esopus Firemen took advantage of Schuler Inn's depleted ranks to rack up a 66-50 victory in a Y "B" League basketball game, Saturday on the Y court. With the victory went the first round title of the Y "B" League.

Excessive fouling ruined the Schuler cagers who led 14-13 at the quarter and 28-24 at halftime.

Tom Stenson was banished for five personals early in the third quarter and Edwards followed late in the same period. This left Schulér's with only four players.

With six minutes to go in the final period, Clyde Carter fouled out, leaving only three players on the court. The lonesome trio tried desperately to maintain possession but were rolled over by sheer force of numbers.

The Firemen riddled the thinly-manned Schuler defenses for 27 points in the stretch run.

Wilson Scores 20

Wilson led the Firemen with 20 points and Burger tossed in 18. Richie Mains had 14.

High scorers for Schuler's Inn were Beaver McCardle with 18, Houghtaling 13, and Carter 10.

Eddie O'Connor, St. Patrick's Ace, Here Tuesday Against K.H.S. Five

Hill City Pivot Area's Best Player

Can Kingston High stop the best scholastic basketball player in the region on Tuesday night at the municipal auditorium.

The "best player" being Big Eddie O'Connor of St. Patrick's Academy of Newburgh, a sensational shot maker from the bucket.

The 6-foot, 7-inch O'Connor had his innings against Newburgh Free Academy Friday night and the Goldbacks, although whipping St. Patrick's, 51-41, came out a poor second against O'Connor, who poured 31 points through the basket.

O'Connor, who is sought by several Eastern basketball hotspots, is averaging in the neighborhood of 28 points for Coach Vince Connolly's cagers. And in several of the games he saw only part time duty.

The lanky Irishman has achieved real stardom this season. He was a prolific scorer last year with an average of about 23 points but at that time he was buried in the shadow of N.F.A.'s great Dick Tyler and Kingston's Ronnie Scheffel. This season he has had the field to himself and nobody has come close. There is certainly nobody in the DUSO League to challenge him.

Leonard's Task

The burden of holding O'Connor within reasonable restraint will fall on the broad shoulders of Moll Leonard, the Maroon center. Leonard is winding up his K.H.S. basketball career with a series of solid performances and has been consistently in double scoring figures through most of the season.

St. Patrick's will bring a good team to Kingston, but the Maroon has an excellent chance of stopping the Hill City quintet, even if they concede O'Connor 25 points or better.

Newburgh Academy proved that it is possible to defeat St. Patrick's, even if you don't stop O'Connor, who made a shambles of Big Ed Grabon, the N.F.A. star. Grabon had four fouls called on him in the first quarter. But, as N.F.A. luck would have it, Eddie Rightmyer, who replaced Grabon, came on to spark the Newburgh victory.

Following the St. Patrick's clash, Kingston entertains Port Jervis in a DUSO encounter Friday at the municipal auditorium.

'A' Champs Roll 962, 1052 and 983; Kelder Paces Individuals With 655

The season's outstanding tenpin aggregation—Amoco Gas—justified its lofty estate Saturday night by pounding a brilliant 2997 series to lead the Class A Division in the 15th annual Kingston Bowling Association city tournament at the Ruzzo Bowlatorium.

Ryan's Service Station won Class C honors with a 2482 total.

Winners in Class B will not be determined until a recheck has been made of the eligibility of members of some of the leading teams.

The first "1200" squad in Kingston's bowling history, Amocos reeled off games of 962, 1052 and 983 for their massive total. The second place Embassy Five was well off the pace with 2810.

Weishaupt Sets Pace

Larry Weishaupt carried the team with a 244 solo in the first game, when he opened with seven strikes in succession, before he ran into a wide open split.

Randy Kelder, who cracked 655, paced the second game with 245, Clifton Quick shot 220, Charlie Manfro 203 and Harold Broskie 214. Four of the Amocos were over the "200" mark in the final set.

The 1052 and 2997 rate among the all-time high totals in Class A in city tournament history.

Steve Leone's 656, with 222, 188 and 246 sparked the Embassy Five to second place. Dick Howard's 233—618 led Grand Major to third place. Ed Murphy hit 218-214—622 and Joe Sangi 255—628 for Hymes Shoes. Sangi's 255 was high single for Class A in the team event.

Koskie Has 583

Ed Koskie's 583 series was the big lift in Ryan's Service's leap to Class C honors. James Ryan, the sponsor, shot 462, Harrison Dart 206—517, Murray Hamblin 430 and George Williams anchored with 205—590.

I.M.M. placed the runnerup squads in Class C with 2438 and 2398. George Muller posted 510 and Moe Lazarowitz 524 for No. 1. Herm Kreppel shot 208—530; Ben Marcus 518 and Irving Wilpan 501. Phil DeCicco's 546 for Astor Bar was the best C triple in the team shooting.

The teams in the money in Class A and C follow:

Class A

1. Amoco Gas, 2997.
2. Embassy Five, 2810.
3. Ten Grand Major, 2783.
4. Hymes Shoes, 2761.
5. Mickey's Barbers, 2699.
6. Old Capital Motors, 2680.
7. Wiltwyck Motors, 2678.

Class C

1. Ryan's Service, 2482.
2. I.M.M. No. 1, 2438.
3. I.M.M. No. 2, 2398.
4. Astor Bar, 2368.
5. Grinding, 2359.
6. Main Office, 2355.
7. Weishaupt Market, 2354.

Scramble Starts For NIT Pairings

By JOE FALLS

New York, Feb. 12 (AP)—All the talk has been about the power-packed NCAA basketball tournament but the National Invitation tourney, actually one year older than the NCAA meet, also will present an impressive field for its 12-team extravaganza.

Of course, the NCAA gets most of the nation's outstanding teams since winners of the 10 major conferences automatically qualify for that tournament.

Nevetheless, the NIT, originated in 1938, will have a representative field. Most of these teams will come from the independent ranks.

High on the list for NIT berths are St. John's, Cincinnati, Duquesne, Villanova, LIU, Toledo, Seton Hall, Bowling Green, CCNY, LaSalle, and Manhattan.

Then, of course, there are the runnersup in the conference races. These, too, should add lustre to the Madison Square Garden event, scheduled for March 12-13-15-17. Some of these teams that may get bids are Bradley, West Virginia, St. Louis, Wyoming, Utah and Texas.

The conference winners also are eligible and two or three may shoot for the "grand-slam" achieved by CCNY last year.

This will be one of the busiest and most interesting weeks of the campaign. Several conference scraps could be decided in the next six days.

Columbia, for instance, could assure itself of at least a tie for the Ivy League title with victories over Yale and Harvard. The Lions, only major undefeated team in the land, whipped Cornell Saturday to bring its record to 15-0.

Dog Show

New York, Feb. 12 (AP)—The 75th edition of the Westminster Kennel Club dog show—biggest, classiest ad richest of them all—opened a two-day stay at Madison Square Garden today. The final count of entries revealed that 2,522 dogs, all of which have won at least one blue ribbon, will be seeking the most coveted prize in the canine world—the Westminster best-in-show award.

Newkirk Aces Trip Jackets

Newkirk Aces defeated the Yellow Jackets, 51-47 in the Y.M.C.A. "B" Basketball League Saturday.

Ahead all the way, the Aces coasted in the final quarter, after building up quarter leads of 18-5, 34-22 and 47-34.

The Yellow Jackets missed nine free throws in the fourth period and blew other opportunities but the Aces were playing out the clock.

The Aces solved the stiff Yellow Jacket zone defense with a well balanced attack. Smith was the high scorer with only 10 points but all nine players used by the Aces figured in the scoring. Hutton tossed in nine, while Farley and Schrader each had eight.

Phil DeCicco's 17 points sparked the losers, with Morrissey sinking 14 and Mauro 9.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. FIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

Fred Davi's basketball promotion at the municipal auditorium Thursday revived the popular theory that Kingston is primarily a New York Giant town in major league baseball sentiment.

Two of Leo Durocher's brightest stars—both Negroes—Monte Irvin and Henry Thompson—will be in the Yankee Five lineup. Mercy, how did that ever happen!

An old timer who knows his local sports recently divulged some interesting items regarding Giant sentiment in Kingston.

"I remember my dad used to take me over to Tivoli to see the Giants play their annual exhibition game with (I think) John Hoffman's Depeysters," said the old timer. "McGraw always came up, and as I recall it, it was like the West Point game today—an annual pre-opening game."

"I imagine," he continued, "Depeyster, after whom the Tivoli club was named, was a big shot financially and, for all I know was financially interested.

"That explains why there are so many Giant rooters in this neighborhood—the real answer being that it was born in them for their dads were Giant rooters all the way."

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Bud Beichert and Bob Ghear joined the Navy together last week. Clarkie Mains has enlisted and was hoping that he could make it a trio, but his orders didn't come through in time. When Seton Hall beat Muhlenberg a few days ago in basketball it was a victory for Honey Russell over the peerless Benny Borgman, two of the all-time greats of the early era of professional basketball. Benny and Honey always squared off in the old days and what battles they were! On some nights Borgmann would hang it on Russell with a 25-point spree. The next time out Benny couldn't escape Russell's leeching tactics. Another great battle used to be Borgmann against Harry Riconda. Guarding Borgmann in those days meant only one thing. You had to leech him without a second't respite.

Say It Isn't So Department: Kay Brodhead, the bowling star, inquiring anxiously if it were true that the Chandlers beat Spinny's Five nine out of 11.

"Impossible," she wailed, "no team could do that to Spinny's," (sponsored by her late father.) .. .. Sorry, Kay, but the record book says they did.

• Ken Murray and Kingston:

Does any old timer remember Ken Murray, the Saturday night TV star, as a baseball player in these parts?

A couple of times in recent weeks, Murray has mentioned "Kingston, N. Y.," in some indirect way. The first time it might have gone unnoticed, but in a recent interview with Laraine Day and her husband (Leo Durocher of the Giants), he said to Durocher:

"You know I used to be quite a ball player in my younger days up in Kingston, N. Y."

There must be a tremendous number of people watching the Ken Murray show and it comes as great publicity for Kingston. We have written Mr. Murray for an explanation and some background.

Meantime, the area got another plug on the radio, the other night when the Lone Ranger and Tonto were chasing cattle rustlers near "Woodstock." Or, so the nephew said.

The series of Monday night power boating lectures sponsored by Kingston Power Boat Association are similar to a nationwide movement of the United States Power Squadrons. The U.S.P.S. program started as far back as 1914. Drills and instruction classes were set up and more than 5,000 men who attended these classes entered the armed forces. Many of them received commissions on the basis of this U.S.P.S. training.

In the interim between the World Wars, the Squadrons returned to their peace-time instructional program and during World War II the Squadrons again supplied thousands of trained personnel who served the armed forces the better for this peace-time training.

Fifteen thousand members of 120 individual squadrons from coast to coast, the lakes to the gulf and in the Canal Zone and Hawaii will celebrate this day to serve notice that "right and might" is an unbeatable team.

Today's motto of the U.S.P.S. is: "There's much to be done in '51."

If Ted Williams gets 200 hits next season—which is a good year—he'll be getting $625 per bingle. Now, you know why the guy doesn't bunt.

Doug Ford Bids For First Title

San Antonio, Tex. Feb. 12 (AP)—Young Doug Ford goes after his first major championship in golf today against veteran campaigner E. J. (Dutch) Harrison when the two meet to decide first money in the $10,000 Texas Open.

Ford and Harrison each finished the 72-hole grind with 265 yesterday as Ford, the 27-year-old Briarcliff, N. Y., par-blaster, rammed down a 10-foot putt the eighteenth green—last shot of the regular tournament—and got the birdie that gave him a three-under par 68 and another chance at the $2,000 first prize.

It will be the seventh play-off for Harrison, the St. Andrews, Ill., old-timer to tournament golf. He has won only one of the six previous ones—the first, against Henry Poe at Pinehust, N. C., in 1936.

Auburn, Ala.—Earl M. Brown was dismissed as Auburn's head football coach.

Rochester Pinman Captures Petersen

Chicago, Feb. 12 (AP)—At 3 a. m. Sunday Feb. 4, an unheralded bowler named John Quinzi of East Rochester, N. Y., wearily trudged from the Petersen Tournament after posting an eight-game 1596.

His score, at that time, had taken the lead for Petersen's $8,000 first prize.

"It won't stand up at all," muttered the 29-year-old Quinzi, who owns a bowling alley. "It isn't even a 200 average."

Quinzi's early morning finish withstood the efforts of some of the games greatest pin-spillers during the final week. And last night—20 days of competition and 1,952 bowlers after the marathon $48,800 meet started—Quinzi was notified he was the winner of the game's biggest jackpot.

His effort was the second lowest winning score in the 41 year history of the classic. In 1922, Lou Levine of Chicago won from a comparatively small field of 96 with 1,588.

Quinzi, a former air force officer, will receive $5,000 in cash and 12 monthly payments of $250 for a four-hour job on the lanes that disappointed him.

Quinzi was nearly overtaken on the final squad last night by Norvel Martin, a 38-year-old Cincinnati veteran. Norvel, after a blistering start, faded in the final games but was still in contention until the last frame. He had a strike in the ninth frame for 209 and needed a spare and a nine count on his second ball to win in the 10th. But he failed and posted 1,586 for second place worth $4,000.

Winner of the concurrent De Vito meet and $3,000 first money was Ron Bergstrom of Chicago. Bergstrom blasted a rousing 1,722 three weeks ago and it was never threatened.

Page Signs

New York, Feb. 12 (AP)—Relief pitcher Joe Page has signed his 1951 contract with the New York Yankees and expects to regain top form this season. The world champions announced yesterday that the big lefthander became the 19th Yankee to come to terms. Page told Assistant General Manager Roy Hamey at Naugatuck, Conn.: "I'm not worrying about 1951. My arm is in great shape and I'm very happy over my contract."

Eddie O'Connor, St. Patrick's Ace, Here Tuesday Against K.H.S. Five

Hill City Pivot Area's Best Player

Can Kingston High stop the best scholastic basketball player in the region on Tuesday night at the municipal auditorium.

The "best player" being Big Eddie O'Connor of St. Patrick's Academy of Newburgh, a sensational shot maker from the bucket.

The 6-foot, 7-inch O'Connor had his innings against Newburgh Free Academy Friday night and the Goldbacks, although whipping St. Patrick's, 51-41, came out a poor second against O'Connor, who poured 31 points through the basket.

O'Connor, who is sought by several Eastern basketball hotspots, is averaging in the neighborhood of 28 points for Coach Vince Connolly's cagers. And in several of the games he saw only part time duty.

The lanky Irishman has achieved real stardom this season. He was a prolific scorer last year with an average of about 23 points but at that time he was buried in the shadow of N.F.A.'s great Dick Tyler and Kingston's Ronnie Scheffel. This season he has had the field to himself and nobody has come close. There is certainly nobody in the DUSO League to challenge him.

Leonard's Task

The burden of holding O'Connor within reasonable restraint will fall on the broad shoulders of Moll Leonard, the Maroon center. Leonard is winding up his K.H.S. basketball career with a series of solid performances and has been consistently in double scoring figures through most of the season.

St. Patrick's will bring a good team to Kingston, but the Maroon has an excellent chance of stopping the Hill City quintet, even if they concede O'Connor 25 points or better.

Newburgh Academy proved that it is possible to defeat St. Patrick's, even if you don't stop O'Connor, who made a shambles of Big Ed Grabon, the N.F.A. star. Grabon had four fouls called on him in the first quarter. But, as N.F.A. luck would have it, Eddie Rightmyer, who replaced Grabon, came on to spark the Newburgh victory.

Following the St. Patrick's clash, Kingston entertains Port Jervis in a DUSO encounter Friday at the municipal auditorium.

Car Breaks Window

Officer Earl Schoonmaker reported to police headquarters at 3:50 p. m., Saturday that a car headed north on North Front street "threw a piece of ice through one of the windows of Montgomery Ward's store and continued on without stopping." The ice was apparently forced from under a tire.

Bowling Roundup

Charlie Gildersleeve pounded a 257 solo and 603 series to highlight action in the Y Mercantile American League bowling. He had opening counts of 170 and 176.

Runnerup Larry Jordan shot 213—563; Jack Raible 545; L. Van Bramer 533; Carmen Massa 224—529; Ed Bock 217—537; Austin Hitchcock 510; Bud Greenburg 506 and Tow Rowland 202—506.

Scoring dipped in the Central Rec Mixed League where Jim Daniels paced the men with 521 and Jennie Spada's neat 538 led the distaff department and took overall honors in the league.

Daniels hit for 194, 192 and 133, while Miss Spada had 176, 165 and 197. Marge Van Alstyne shot 472 and Marie Grimaldi soared 111 pins over her average with 462. Frank Grimaldi, Jr., was runnerup to Daniels with 513.

Pay Extra Fare Again

New York, Feb. 12 (AP)—For the second time in two weeks commuters paid an extra five-cent fare today to transfer from the Green Bus Lines in Queens to the subway when the line's bus drivers refused to give transfers. The line normally carries about 25,000 riders daily but this morning's traffic was light due to Lincoln's birthday. Many workers had the day off. The fare to Manhattan via the line has been 15 cents—10 cents on the bus plus an additional five cents for a transfer to the subway. But today, the commuters had to pay the regular 10-cent subway fare.

Defeat Schuler Five, 66-50

After trailing for three periods, the Esopus Firemen took advantage of Schuler Inn's depleted ranks to rack up a 66-50 victory in a Y "B" League basketball game, Saturday on the Y court. With the victory went the first round title of the Y "B" League.

Excessive fouling ruined the Schuler cagers who led 14-13 at the quarter and 28-24 at halftime.

Tom Stenson was banished for five personals early in the third quarter and Edwards followed late in the same period. This left Schuler's with only four players.

With six minutes to go in the final period, Clyde Carter fouled out, leaving only three players on the court. The lonesome trio tried desperately to maintain possession but were rolled over by sheer force of numbers.

The Firemen riddled the thinly-manned Schuler defenses for 27 points in the stretch run.

Wilson Scores 20

Wilson led the Firemen with 20 points and Burger tossed in 18. Richie Mains had 14.

High scorers for Schuler's Inn were Beaver McCardle with 18, Houghtaling 13, and Carter 10.

Amocos Win Class 'A' Title With 2997; Ryan's Service Tops 'C' With 2482

'A' Champs Roll 962, 1052 and 983; Kelder Paces Individuals With 655

The season's outstanding tenpin aggregation—Amoco Gas—justified its lofty estate Saturday night by pounding a brilliant 2997 series to lead the Class A Division in the 15th annual Kingston Bowling Association city tournament at the Ruzzo Bowlatorium.

Ryan's Service Station won Class C honors with a 2482 total.

Winners in Class B will not be determined until a recheck has been made of the eligibility of members of some of the leading teams.

The first "1200" squad in Kingston's bowling history, Amocos reeled off games of 962, 1052 and 983 for their massive total. The second place Embassy Five was well off the pace with 2810.

Weishaupt Sets Pace

Larry Weishaupt carried the team with a 244 solo in the first game, when he opened with seven strikes in succession, before he ran into a wide open split.

Randy Kelder, who cracked 655, paced the second game with 245, Clifton Quick shot 220, Charlie Manfro 203 and Harold Broskie 214. Four of the Amocos were over the "200" mark in the final set.

The 1052 and 2997 rate among the all-time high totals in Class A in city tournament history.

Steve Leone's 656, with 222, 188 and 246 sparked the Embassy Five to second place. Dick Howard's 233—618 led Grand Major to third place. Ed Murphy hit 218-214—622 and Joe Sangi 255—628 for Hymes Shoes. Sangi's 255 was high single for Class A in the team event.

Koskie Has 583

Ed Koskie's 583 series was the big lift in Ryan's Service's leap to Class C honors. James Ryan, the sponsor, shot 462, Harrison Dart 206—517, Murray Hamblin 430 and George Williams anchored with 205—590.

I.M.M. placed the runnerup squads in Class C with 2438 and 2398. George Muller posted 510 and Moe Lazarowitz 524 for No. 1. Herm Kreppel shot 208—530; Ben Marcus 518, and Irving Wilpan 501. Phil DeCicco's 546 for Astor Bar was the best C triple in the team shooting.

The teams in the money in Class A and C follow:

Class A

1. Amoco Gas, 2997.
2. Embassy Five, 2810.
3. Ten Grand Major, 2783.
4. Hymes Shoes, 2761.
5. Mickey's Barbers, 2699.
6. Old Capital Motors, 2680.
7. Wiltwyck Motors, 2678.

Class C

1. Ryan's Service, 2482.
2. I.M.M. No. 1, 2438.
3. I.M.M. No. 2, 2398.
4. Astor Bar, 2368.
5. Grinding, 2359.
6. Main Office, 2355.
7. Weishaupt Market, 2354.
8. Engineering, 2312.

Scramble Starts For NIT Pairings

By JOE FALLS

New York, Feb. 12 (AP)—All the talk has been about the power-packed NCAA basketball tournament but the National Invitation tourney, actually one year older than the NCAA meet, also will present an impressive field for its 12-team extravaganza.

Of course, the NCAA gets most of the nation's outstanding teams since winners of the 10 major conferences automatically qualify for that tournament.

Nevetheless, the NIT, originated in 1938, will have a representative field. Most of these teams will come from the independent ranks.

High on the list for NIT berths are St. John's, Cincinnati, Duquesne, Villanova, LIU, Toledo, Seton Hall, Bowling Green, CCNY, LaSalle, and Manhattan.

Then, of course, there are the runnersup in the conference races. These, too, should add lustre to the Madison Square Garden event, scheduled for March 12-13-15-17. Some of these teams that may get bids are Bradley, West Virginia, St. Louis, Wyoming, Utah and Texas.

The conference winners also are eligible and two or three may shoot for the "grand-slam" achieved by CCNY last year.

This will be one of the busiest and most interesting weeks of the campaign. Several conference scraps could be decided in the next six days.

Columbia, for instance, could assure itself of at least a tie for the Ivy League title with victories over Yale and Harvard. The Lions, only major undefeated team in the land, whipped Cornell Saturday to bring its record to 15-0.

Dog Show

New York, Feb. 12 (AP)—The 75th edition of the Westminster Kennel Club dog show—biggest, classiest ad richest of them all—opened a two-day stay at Madison Square Garden today. The final count of entries revealed that 2,522 dogs, all of which have won at least one blue ribbon, will be seeking the most coveted prize in the canine world—the Westminster best-in-show award.

Newkirk Aces Trip Jackets

Newkirk Aces defeated the Yellow Jackets, 51-47 in the Y.M.C.A. "B" Basketball League Saturday.

Ahead all the way, the Aces coasted in the final quarter, after building up quarter leads of 18-5, 34-22 and 47-34.

The Yellow Jackets missed nine free throws in the fourth period and blew other opportunities but the Aces were playing out the clock.

The Aces solved the stiff Yellow Jacket zone defense with a well balanced attack. Smith was the high scorer with only 10 points but all nine players used by the Aces figured in the scoring. Hutton tossed in nine, while Farley and Schrader each had eight.

Phil DeCicco's 17 points sparked the losers, with Morrissey sinking 14 and Mauro 9.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. FIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

Fred Davi's basketball promotion at the municipal auditorium Thursday revived the popular theory that Kingston is primarily a New York Giant town in major league baseball sentiment.

Two of Leo Durocher's brightest stars—both Negroes—Monte Irvin and Henry Thompson—will be in the Yankee Five lineup. Mercy, how did that ever happen!

An old timer who knows his local sports recently divulged some interesting items regarding Giant sentiment in Kingston.

"I remember my dad used to take me over to Tivoli to see the Giants play their annual exhibition game with (I think) John Hoffman's Depeysters," said the old timer. "McGraw always came up, and as I recall it, it was like the West Point game today—an annual pre-opening game."

"I imagine," he continued, "Depeyster, after whom the Tivoli club was named, was a big shot financially and, for all I know was financially interested.

"That explains why there are so many Giant rooters in this neighborhood—the real answer being that it was born in them for their dads were Giant rooters all the way."

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Bud Beichert and Bob Ghear joined the Navy together last week. Clarkie Mains has enlisted and was hoping that he could make it a trio, but his orders didn't come through in time. When Seton Hall beat Muhlenberg a few days ago in basketball it was a victory for Honey Russell over the peerless Benny Borgman, two of the all-time greats of the early era of professional basketball. Benny and Honey always squared off in the old days and what battles they were! On some nights Borgmann would hang it on Russell with a 25-point spree. The next time out Benny couldn't escape Russell's leeching tactics. Another great battle used to be Borgmann against Harry Riconda. Guarding Borgmann in those days meant only one thing. You had to leech him without a second't respite.

Say It Isn't So Department: Kay Brodhead, the bowling star, inquiring anxiously if it were true that the Chandlers beat Spinny's Five nine out of 11.

"Impossible," she wailed, "no team could do that to Spinny's," (sponsored by her late father.) .. ..

Sorry, Kay, but the record book says they did.

• Ken Murray and Kingston:

Does any old timer remember Ken Murray, the Saturday night TV star, as a baseball player in these parts?

A couple of times in recent weeks, Murray has mentioned "Kingston, N. Y.," in some indirect way. The first time it might have gone unnoticed, but in a recent interview with Laraine Day and her husband (Leo Durocher of the Giants), he said to Durocher:

"You know I used to be quite a ball player in my younger days up in Kingston, N. Y."

There must be a tremendous number of people watching the Ken Murray show and it comes as great publicity for Kingston. We have written Mr. Murray for an explanation and some background.

Meantime, the area got another plug on the radio, the other night when the Lone Ranger and Tonto were chasing cattle rustlers near "Woodstock." Or, so the nephew said.

The series of Monday night power boating lectures sponsored by Kingston Power Boat Association are similar to a nationwide movement of the United States Power Squadrons. The U.S.P.S. program started as far back as 1914. Drills and instruction classes were set up and more than 5,000 men who attended these classes entered the armed forces. Many of them received commissions on the basis of this U.S.P.S. training.

In the interim between the World Wars, the Squadrons returned to their peace-time instructional program and during World War II the Squadrons again supplied thousands of trained personnel who served the armed forces the better for this peace-time training.

Fifteen thousand members of 120 individual squadrons from coast to coast, the lakes to the gulf and in the Canal Zone and Hawaii will celebrate this day to serve notice that "right and might" is an unbeatable team.

Today's motto of the U.S.P.S. is: "There's much to be done in '51."

If Ted Williams gets 200 hits next season—which is a good year—he'll be getting $625 per bingle. Now, you know why the guy doesn't bunt.

Doug Ford Bids For First Title

San Antonio, Tex. Feb. 12 (AP)—Young Doug Ford goes after his first major championship in golf today against veteran campaigner E. J. (Dutch) Harrison when the two meet to decide first money in the $10,000 Texas Open.

Ford and Harrison each finished the 72-hole grind with 265 yesterday as Ford, the 27-year-old Briarcliff, N. Y., par-blaster, rammed down a 10-foot putt the eighteenth green—last shot of the regular tournament—and got the birdie that gave him a three-under par 68 and another chance at the $2,000 first prize.

It will be the seventh play-off for Harrison, the St. Andrews, Ill., old-timer to tournament golf. He has won only one of the six previous ones—the first, against Henry Poe at Pinehust, N. C., in 1936.

Auburn, Ala.—Earl M. Brown was dismissed as Auburn's head football coach.

Rochester Pinman Captures Petersen

Chicago, Feb. 12 (AP)—At 3 a. m. Sunday Feb. 4, an unheralded bowler named John Quinzi of East Rochester, N. Y., wearily trudged from the Petersen Tournament after posting an eight-game 1596.

His score, at that time, had taken the lead for Petersen's $8,000 first prize.

"It won't stand up at all," muttered the 29-year-old Quinzi, who owns a bowling alley. "It isn't even a 200 average."

Quinzi's early morning finish withstood the efforts of some of the games greatest pin-spillers during the final week. And last night—20 days of competition and 1,952 bowlers after the marathon $48,800 meet started—Quinzi was notified he was the winner of the game's biggest jackpot.

His effort was the second lowest winning score in the 41 year history of the classic. In 1922, Lou Levine of Chicago won from a comparatively small field of 96 with 1,588.

Quinzi, a former air force officer, will receive $5,000 in cash and 12 monthly payments of $250 for a four-hour job on the lanes that disappointed him.

Quinzi was nearly overtaken on the final squad last night by Norvel Martin, a 38-year-old Cincinnati veteran. Norvel, after a blistering start, faded in the final games but was still in contention until the last frame. He had a strike in the ninth frame for 209 and needed a spare and a nine count on his second ball to win in the 10th. But he failed and posted 1,586 for second place worth $4,000.

Winner of the concurrent De Vito meet and $3,000 first money was Ron Bergstrom of Chicago. Bergstrom blasted a rousing 1,722 three weeks ago and it was never threatened.

Page Signs

New York, Feb. 12 (AP)—Relief pitcher Joe Page has signed his 1951 contract with the New York Yankees and expects to regain top form this season. The world champions announced yesterday that the big lefthander became the 19th Yankee to come to terms. Page told Assistant General Manager Roy Hamey at Naugatuck, Conn.: "I'm not worrying about 1951. My arm is in great shape and I'm very happy over my contract."

Eddie O'Connor, St. Patrick's Ace, Here Tuesday Against K.H.S. Five

Hill City Pivot Area's Best Player

Can Kingston High stop the best scholastic basketball player in the region on Tuesday night at the municipal auditorium.

The "best player" being Big Eddie O'Connor of St. Patrick's Academy of Newburgh, a sensational shot maker from the bucket.

The 6-foot, 7-inch O'Connor had his innings against Newburgh Free Academy Friday night and the Goldbacks, although whipping St. Patrick's, 51-41, came out a poor second against O'Connor, who poured 31 points through the basket.

O'Connor, who is sought by several Eastern basketball hotspots, is averaging in the neighborhood of 28 points for Coach Vince Connolly's cagers. And in several of the games he saw only part time duty.

The lanky Irishman has achieved real stardom this season. He was a prolific scorer last year with an average of about 23 points but at that time he was buried in the shadow of N.F.A.'s great Dick Tyler and Kingston's Ronnie Scheffel. This season he has had the field to himself and nobody has come close. There is certainly nobody in the DUSO League to challenge him.

Leonard's Task

The burden of holding O'Connor within reasonable restraint will fall on the broad shoulders of Moll Leonard, the Maroon center. Leonard is winding up his K.H.S. basketball career with a series of solid performances and has been consistently in double scoring figures through most of the season.

St. Patrick's will bring a good team to Kingston, but the Maroon has an excellent chance of stopping the Hill City quintet, even if they concede O'Connor 25 points or better.

Newburgh Academy proved that it is possible to defeat St. Patrick's, even if you don't stop O'Connor, who made a shambles of Big Ed Grabon, the N.F.A. star. Grabon had four fouls called on him in the first quarter. But, as N.F.A. luck would have it, Eddie Rightmyer, who replaced Grabon, came on to spark the Newburgh victory.

Following the St. Patrick's clash, Kingston entertains Port Jervis in a DUSO encounter Friday at the municipal auditorium.

Car Breaks Window

Officer Earl Schoonmaker reported to police headquarters at 3:50 p. m., Saturday that a car headed north on North Front street "threw a piece of ice through one of the windows of Montgomery Ward's store and continued on without stopping." The ice was apparently forced from under a tire.

Bowling Roundup

Charlie Gildersleeve pounded a 257 solo and 603 series to highlight action in the Y Mercantile American League bowling. He had opening counts of 170 and 176.

Runnerup Larry Jordan shot 213—563; Jack Raible 545; L. Van Bramer 533; Carmen Massa 224—529; Ed Bock 217—537; Austin Hitchcock 510; Bud Greenburg 506 and Tow Rowland 202—506.

Scoring dipped in the Central Rec Mixed League where Jim Daniels paced the men with 521 and Jennie Spada's neat 538 led the distaff department and took overall honors in the league.

Daniels hit for 194, 192 and 135, while Miss Spada had 176, 165 and 197. Marge Van Alstyne shot 472 and Marie Grimaldi soared 111 pins over her average with 462. Frank Grimaldi, Jr., was runnerup to Daniels with 513.

Pay Extra Fare Again

New York, Feb. 12 (AP)—For the second time in two weeks commuters paid an extra five-cent fare today to transfer from the Green Bus Lines in Queens to the subway when the line's bus drivers refused to give transfers. The line normally carries about 25,000 riders daily but this morning's traffic was light due to Lincoln's birthday. Many workers had the day off. The fare to Manhattan via the line has been 15 cents—10 cents on the bus plus an additional five cents for a transfer to the subway. But today, the commuters had to pay the regular 10-cent subway fare.

Defeat Schuler Five, 66-50

After trailing for three periods, the Esopus Firemen took advantage of Schuler Inn's depleted ranks to rack up a 66-50 victory in a Y "B" League basketball game, Saturday on the Y court. With the victory went the first round title of the Y "B" League.

Excessive fouling ruined the Schuler cagers who led 14-13 at the quarter and 28-24 at halftime.

Tom Stenson was banished for five personals early in the third quarter and Edwards followed late in the same period. This left Schuler's with only four players.

With six minutes to go in the final period, Clyde Carter fouled out, leaving only three players on the court. The lonesome trio tried desperately to maintain possession but were rolled over by sheer force of numbers.

The Firemen riddled the thinly-manned Schuler defenses for 27 points in the stretch run.

Wilson Scores 20

Wilson led the Firemen with 20 points and Burger tossed in 18. Richie Mains had 14.

High scorers for Schuler's Inn were Beaver McCardle with 18, Houghtaling 13, and Carter 10.

Two Men Indicted In Dutchess Case

Dutchess County District Attorney W. Vincent Grady said Saturday that he would press for an early trial of the two men who were indicted by a grand jury on charges that they kidnaped and murdered 14-year-old Robert E. Leonard, of Poughkeepsie.

The two indicted Saturday are Alfred Kurt Von Wolfersdorf, 66, of 7 High street, Poughkeepsie, and Joseph Louis Paonessa, 40, an automobile mechanic, of 52 South Clover street, the same city.

They were accused in the four-count indictment of kidnapping and killing the grade school pupil in a shack on the Di Rocco farm near Rock City, Dutchess county, last Oct. 16. Young Leonard's nude body was found last Nov. 27 in the dilapidated shack on a farm about 25 miles north of Poughkeepsie.

Von Wolfersdorf and Paonessa are scheduled to be arraigned in Dutchess county court tomorrow.

District Attorney Grady said that Paonessa admitted that he lured the boy to the farm with a promise of a job, and then shot him in the head as the boy pleaded for his life. The prosecutor quoted Paonessa as saying he killed the boy on orders of Von Wolfersdorf, the Leonard family's landlord, who suspected the boy of stealing from the house.

Grady said Paonessa told authorities he and Von Wolfersdorf were members of a "secret society" and that he was completely dominated by the chief. Grady said he knew of no other members of the "society."

Will Scatter Ashes

New York, Feb. 12 (AP)—The ashes of bandleader Eddy Duchin, who won fame as a pianist and glory as a naval combat officer, will be scattered at sea. The body of Duchin, who died Friday at the age of 41, is to be cremated today at Ferncliff, N. Y., in Westchester county. The ashes later are to be taken to sea either by a naval vessel or plane in accordance with family wishes. Funeral services for Duchin were held yesterday at the Campbell Funeral Church. Many notables attended. Five American sailors composed an honor guard before the flag-draped bier of the pianist who enlisted in the navy eight years ago.

Herald Tribune Lauds Selection Of Dr. Flemming

Under the caption, "A Noteworthy Appointment," the New York Herald Tribune in today's issue publishes the following editorial on the appointment of Dr. Arthur S. Flemming, son of Judge and Mrs. Harry H. Flemming, of this city:

The appointment by the Defense Mobilization Director of Dr. Arthur S. Flemming to head up the nation's man-power program presages an efficient and realistic handling of this difficult problem. Dr. Flemming has had long experience in government as a member of the United States Civil Service Commission and in handling man-power problems during World War 2. His broad knowledge of government problems, shown by his valuable contributions to the Hoover commission, as well as his outstanding personal qualifications, make his appointment noteworthy. The undisguised pro-labor bias of Secretary Tobin clearly disqualified him for the post. The country can be sure that Dr. Flemming will play no favorites, will be objective in applying his broad understanding of the problem to policy making.

At the same time it is important that Dr. Flemming, while maintaining a firm control, should utilize existing government agencies at both Federal and state levels to implement his policies rather than build up an expensive and costly superstructure of competing agencies. We believe that his intimate knowledge of the costs of government and the wastes now present will be reflected in his decisions as to how the job can be done most economically and effectively. Now that the decision has been made by Mr. Wilson to place this responsibility in the hands of his new assistant the national interest requires complete co-operation from Secretary Tobin and others who may have wished for a different decision by Mr. Wilson.

State Seeks Bids

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 12 (AP)—The state is seeking bids on the first 16 of a series of projects to clear the Adirondack forest preserve of trees felled by the near-hurricane of Nov. 25. The State Conservation Department advertised yesterday for bids on the 16 projects, involving at least 75,000 cords of pulp wood and 7,000,000 feet

Two Men Indicted In Dutchess Case

Dutchess County District Attorney W. Vincent Grady said Saturday that he would press for an early trial of the two men who were indicted by a grand jury on charges that they kidnaped and murdered 14-year-old Robert E. Leonard, of Poughkeepsie.

The two indicted Saturday are Alfred Kurt Von Wolfersdorf, 66, of 7 High street, Poughkeepsie, and Joseph Louis Paonessa, 40, an automobile mechanic, of 52 South Clover street, the same city.

They were accused in the four-count indictment of kidnapping and killing the grade school pupil in a shack on the Di Rocco farm near Rock City, Dutchess county, last Oct. 16. Young Leonard's nude body was found last Nov. 27 in the dilapidated shack on a farm about 25 miles north of Poughkeepsie.

Von Wolfersdorf and Paonessa are scheduled to be arraigned in Dutchess county court tomorrow.

District Attorney Grady said that Paonessa admitted that he lured the boy to the farm with a promise of a job, and then shot him in the head as the boy pleaded for his life. The prosecutor quoted Paonessa as saying he killed the boy on orders of Von Wolfersdorf, the Leonard family's landlord, who suspected the boy of stealing from the house.

Grady said Paonessa told authorities he and Von Wolfersdorf were members of a "secret society" and that he was completely dominated by the chief. Grady said he knew of no other members of the "society."

Will Scatter Ashes

New York, Feb. 12 (AP)—The ashes of bandleader Eddy Duchin, who won fame as a pianist and glory as a naval combat officer, will be scattered at sea. The body of Duchin, who died Friday at the age of 41, is to be cremated today at Ferncliff, N. Y., in Westchester county. The ashes later are to be taken to sea either by a naval vessel or plane in accordance with family wishes. Funeral services for Duchin were held yesterday at the Campbell Funeral Church. Many notables attended. Five American sailors composed an honor guard before the flag-draped bier of the pianist who enlisted in the navy eight years ago.

Two Men Indicted In Dutchess Case

Dutchess County District Attorney W. Vincent Grady said Saturday that he would press for an early trial of the two men who were indicted by a grand jury on charges that they kidnaped and murdered 14-year-old Robert E. Leonard, of Poughkeepsie.

The two indicted Saturday are Alfred Kurt Von Wolfersdorf, 66, of 7 High street, Poughkeepsie, and Joseph Louis Paonessa, 40, an automobile mechanic, of 52 South Clover street, the same city.

They were accused in the four-count indictment of kidnapping and killing the grade school pupil in a shack on the Di Rocco farm near Rock City, Dutchess county, last Oct. 16. Young Leonard's nude body was found last Nov. 27 in the dilapidated shack on a farm about 25 miles north of Poughkeepsie.

Von Wolfersdorf and Paonessa are scheduled to be arraigned in Dutchess county court tomorrow.

District Attorney Grady said that Paonessa admitted that he lured the boy to the farm with a promise of a job, and then shot him in the head as the boy pleaded for his life. The prosecutor quoted Paonessa as saying he killed the boy on orders of Von Wolfersdorf, the Leonard family's landlord, who suspected the boy of stealing from the house.

Grady said Paonessa told authorities he and Von Wolfersdorf were members of a "secret society" and that he was completely dominated by the chief. Grady said he knew of no other members of the "society."

Will Scatter Ashes

New York, Feb. 12 (AP)—The ashes of bandleader Eddy Duchin, who won fame as a pianist and glory as a naval combat officer, will be scattered at sea. The body of Duchin, who died Friday at the age of 41, is to be cremated today at Ferncliff, N. Y., in Westchester county. The ashes later are to be taken to sea either by a naval vessel or plane in accordance with family wishes. Funeral services for Duchin were held yesterday at the Campbell Funeral Church. Many notables attended. Five American sailors composed an honor guard before the flag-draped bier of the pianist who enlisted in the navy eight years ago.

County Insurance Agents Will Hold Dinner on Feb. 16

The Ulster County Insurance Agents Association has completed plans for the annual dinner to be held Friday night, February 16, at the Hotel Stuyvesant.

Due to the prominence of the speakers that the association has been able to obtain, this annual affair has become one of the outstanding insurance meetings of the Hudson River Valley. Up to date reservations have been obtained from Orange, Sullivan, Dutchess, Greene and Columbia county agents and also from educators, lawyers and insurance company officials from the principal cities of eastern New York state.

This year's principal speaker will be New York State Insurance Commissioner Bohlinger. As far as can be ascertained, this will be the first time that the insurance commissioner has spoken to any agent's group. He was appointed to his post late last fall and in that short time has impressed both companies and agents with his abilities. While the topic of Commissioner Bohlinger's speech is not known, his complete knowledge of the entire insurance field is sure to provide his listeners with an instructive and interesting evening. Members of the Ulster County Insurance Agents Association feel it a distinct honor that Insurance Commissioner Bohlinger has accepted this engagement.

The following Kingston agents have been in charge of arrangements: Lawrence Quilty, Clarence Buddenhagen, James Hanstein and William Golden who have had the cooperation of William Kuehn, treasurer, and Herman Eaton, secretary. As capacity for the dinner is limited, the committee has decided that all reservations must be paid for before tickets are mailed. It will be impossible to buy tickets at the door, due to limited accommodations.

Members of the public in Ulster county who would like to attend are urged to contact their agent or a member of the committee this week. All member agents are requested to have their remittances for the proper number of reservations in the hands of the treasurer by Tuesday, Feb. 13.

"Please settle a percentage question," requests a New York city reader. "South let the opponents hold the first spade trick won the second with dummy's king, and entered his hand with a heart to finesse for the queen of clubs.

"East won the club and continued spades, whereupon South was a gone gosling. If he tried to set up his ninth trick in clubs, East would win and run the spades. If he took the diamond finesse, West would win and lead a club to his partner.

"North says that the proper play is to take the diamond finesse before tackling the clubs. If it loses, the suit may nevertheless break 3-3 (as it did) to give declarer his ninth trick.

"Who is right?"

North wins. His play is roughly 10 per cent better than the actual play.

The right play is to duck the first trick, win the second trick with the king of spades, cash the king of diamonds, and then finesse the jack of diamonds. West wins and returns a spade, of course, but South wins and cashes the ace of diamonds, discovering that dummy's last diamond is good for the ninth trick.

The most interesting part of this hand is the bidding. Four hearts is unbeatable, while three no-trump may well be defeated (and actually was, when the hand was played.)

If my correspondents had been using the Stayman Convention, they would have reached the right contract. North's first response would have been two clubs—asking South to show a biddable major. South would oblige by bidding two hearts, whereupon North would raise to four hearts.

This convention is so useful, and there have been so many questions about it, that I shall describe it more fully in other articles this week.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that application was made on the first day of February 1951 by the Western Union Telegraph Company to the Federal Communications Commission to close the agency operated telegraph office at Lake Katrine, N. Y. If application is granted, substitute service will be available from 7:30 a. m. to 9 p. m. at the Kingston, N. Y., office located at 237 Fair street. Any member of the public desiring to protest or support the closing of this office may communicate in writing with the Federal Communications Commission, Washington 25, D. C., on or before March 5, 1951.

As Pegler Sees It

told me he belonged to Goldsmith's Committee on National Affairs and insisted that it was a very fine outfit. He was especially warm over its new determination to oppose smearing by "association" now that a lot of rotten fellow-travelers of the Soviet treason are being shown up and are claiming innocence.

So I called up Herbert Bayard Swope, who for years before and during his editorship of the old World was one of the best reporters we ever had in this country. I put it up to him. I put it up to Herbert because Herbie has become a joiner himself in his old age, which, I am sorry to have to say, is an infallible symptom of stuffed-shirtism, and he says he has been on several of Goldsmith's letterheads, adding, however, his opinion that most of these things have no real existence and don't amount to a dam.

As to their insubstantial character I agree with Herbert. But I can't go along with his nonchalant belief that they make no difference because I have come upon a statement filed with the clerk of the House in Washington wherein just one of Goldsmith's letterhead layouts, the Committee on National Affairs, shows that a lot of New York and nearby easterners, by the use of their money, butted into elections in other states in favor of such characters as old Frank P. Graham, of North Carolina, and a guy named George E. Franklin, Jr., of Nevada, who was entered in the race to knock off Senator Pat McCarran, the chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee. McCarran has been anti-Communist all the way down the line. He fought to get Spain recognized as a friendly nation. The opposition to such recognition went back to the fact that General Franko knocked the spots off the Soviet Foreign Legion, gave Soviet Russia her only military licking to date and now rules the best nation in the entire European continent, not excluding Great Britain, and the only one fit and willing to fight the Kremlin.

But in his ardent commendation of the Committee on National Affairs, Eliot didn't say anything about the money it raised and spent in the 1950 congressional campaigns and, as I have said, Goldsmith wouldn't talk at all.

Herbert Swope said: "I think he is scared of you."

"Why?" I asked. "Is he scared I will tell about that slush money?"

Well, while we are waiting for Mr. Goldsmith to get over his bashfulness, his harmless Committee on National Affairs, of which he is secretary, with Eliot listed as a member of the executive committee, reported to the clerk of the House as follows:

Contributions, somewhat unintelligibly listed, were $10,074, all from rich people within a radius of Baltimore, Ridgefield-Danbury, Conn., and Pittsburgh. The Wall street influence is represented by "Harold F. Linder, $200," address, 44 Wall street.

It is impossible to ascertain from the statement of disbursements just how much was spent in each of which candidacies. But unmistakably these rich eastern people sent $5,000 to John Conlon, 1008 S. Third street, Las Vegas, Nev., and $500 to the Washoe County Veterans' Committee for the election of George S. Franklin, Jr., who nevertheless was licked by Pat McCarran, who now is fixing to tear the iron curtain off this kind of business in our politics. The donations to old Graham in North Carolina seem to have been $200. These are some matters that I wanted to ask Mr. Goldsmith about. Do you think he was right to refuse to talk?

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Ross May Become G.O.P. Candidate

St. Louis, Feb. 12 (AP)—Walter W. Ross, son of the late Presidential Press Secretary Charles G. Ross, may become a candidate for a Congressional post on the Republican ticket.

GOP leaders said last night Ross had been pledged 20 of the 29 Republican committee votes for nomination from Missouri's 11th Congressional District. A successor to the late John B. Sullivan, a Democrat, will be chosen in an election March 9.

Ross, 34, said he would decide today whether he could accept the nomination.

"The whole thing was a surprise," he said. "Apparently somebody suggested my name and since that time everybody has been calling me and the thing has just snowballed along."

He said he never had participated in politics but that he always had been a Republican.

Howard V. Stephens, Republican national committeeman, said Charles Ross had been a "free thinker" in politics. The elder Ross was one of President Truman's closest friends.

New Drug Reported

Philadelphia, Feb. 12 (AP)—A new drug has been reported by the University of Pennsylvania to reduce sharply the unpleasant after-effects of taking anaesthesia. The university identified the drug as dramamine. It was developed by the husband-and-wife team of Dr. Alan and Dr. Helen Rubin.

To Propose Group To Study Divorce Laws for Change

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 12 (AP)—Creation of a special commission to study the feasibility of easing New York state's strict divorce law will be proposed in the legislature tonight.

Assemblywoman Janet Hill Gordon, Norwich Republican, said she would introduce a bill to set up a 23-member commission to study what she termed "widespread fraud, perjury, collusion and connivance" in dissolving marriages in New York.

Adultery is the only grounds on which divorce is granted in this state.

Opposition by the Roman Catholic Church, which does not recognize divorce on any grounds, was instrumental in killing a similar proposal by Mrs. Gordon two years ago. The measure died in the Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

The G.O.P.-controlled legislature, headed toward mid-March adjournment, also will:

1—Receive a bill to require twice-a-year compulsory inspection of automobiles at state-owned and state-operated inspection stations.

2—Consider, in the Assembly, bills to double the required personal injury liability insurance on taxicabs — from $2,500-$5,000 to $5,000-$10,000 — and increase property damage liability — from $1,000 to $5,000.

Bar Association Support

Mrs. Gordon's divorce-study proposal has the backing of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York.

The bill would direct the commission to "study and analyze comprehensively the problems created by marriage, separation, annulment of marriage and related matters."

The group also would be directed to "recommend any enactments, revisions or modifications (of existing laws) necessary to effectuate the findings, conclusions and recommendations of the commission."

Her measure would appropriate $50,000 for the study.

Mrs. Gordon, an attorney, said in a statement that "sordid conditions" which warrant a commission study "have long concerned all of us and have come to be recognized as a public scandal."

Test of Defenses Ends at Newburgh

Newburgh, N. Y., Feb. 12 (AP)—A four-day test of the air defenses of northeastern United States ended yesterday with the air force grading results as "very satisfactory."

The exercises over a 21-state area east of the Mississippi river and north of North Carolina involved some 3,000 aircraft sorties.

An estimated 150,000 civil defense ground observers, radar and army anti-aircraft artillery provided the ground aspect of the maneuvers.

Headquarters of the maneuvers was at Stewart Air Force base here.

Will Build Community

Frankfurt, Germany, Feb. 12 (AP)—The U. S. government is getting a new multi-million dollar home in West Germany—a complete American-type community to be built near the West German capital of Bonn. U. S. high commission offices, now in Frankfurt, will be moved there. High Commissioner John J. McCloy said the transfer would simplify working relations with the West German government. It also will prepare for establishment of a U. S. embassy near Bonn when the occupation's end—possibly in 1952—replaces the high commission by a diplomatic mission.

County Insurance Agents Will Hold Dinner on Feb. 16

The Ulster County Insurance Agents Association has completed plans for the annual dinner to be held Friday night, February 16, at the Hotel Stuyvesant.

Due to the prominence of the speakers that the association has been able to obtain, this annual affair has become one of the outstanding insurance meetings of the Hudson River Valley. Up to date reservations have been obtained from Orange, Sullivan, Dutchess, Greene and Columbia county agents and also from educators, lawyers and insurance company officials from the principal cities of eastern New York state.

This year's principal speaker will be New York State Insurance Commissioner Bohlinger. As far as can be ascertained, this will be the first time that the insurance commissioner has spoken to any agent's group. He was appointed to his post late last fall and in that short time has impressed both companies and agents with his abilities. While the topic of Commissioner Bohlinger's speech is not known, his complete knowledge of the entire insurance field is sure to provide his listeners with an instructive and interesting evening. Members of the Ulster County Insurance Agents Association feel it a distinct honor that Insurance Commissioner Bohlinger has accepted this engagement.

The following Kingston agents have been in charge of arrangements: Lawrence Quilty, Clarence Buddenhagen, James Hanstein and William Golden who have had the cooperation of William Kuehn, treasurer, and Herman Eaton, secretary. As capacity for the dinner is limited, the committee has decided that all reservations must be paid for before tickets are mailed. It will be impossible to buy tickets at the door, due to limited accommodations.

Members of the public in Ulster county who would like to attend are urged to contact their agent or a member of the committee this week. All member agents are requested to have their remittances for the proper number of reservations in the hands of the treasurer by Tuesday, Feb. 13.

"Please settle a percentage question," requests a New York city reader. "South let the opponents hold the first spade trick won the second with dummy's king, and entered his hand with a heart to finesse for the queen of clubs.

"East won the club and continued spades, whereupon South was a gone gosling. If he tried to set up his ninth trick in clubs, East would win and run the spades. If he took the diamond finesse, West would win and lead a club to his partner.

"North says that the proper play is to take the diamond finesse before tackling the clubs. If it loses, the suit may nevertheless break 3-3 (as it did) to give declarer his ninth trick.

"Who is right?"

North wins. His play is roughly 10 per cent better than the actual play.

The right play is to duck the first trick, win the second trick with the king of spades, cash the king of diamonds, and then finesse the jack of diamonds. West wins and returns a spade, of course, but South wins and cashes the ace of diamonds, discovering that dummy's last diamond is good for the ninth trick.

The most interesting part of this hand is the bidding. Four hearts is unbeatable, while three notrump may well be defeated (and actually was, when the hand was played.)

If my correspondents had been using the Stayman Convention, they would have reached the right contract. North's first response would have been two clubs—asking South to show a biddable major. South would oblige by bidding two hearts, whereupon North would raise to four hearts.

This convention is so useful, and there have been so many questions about it, that I shall describe it more fully in other articles this week.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that application was made on the first day of February 1951 by the Western Union Telegraph Company to the Federal Communications Commission to close the agency operated telegraph office at Lake Katrine, N. Y. If application is granted, substitute service will be available from 7:30 a. m. to 9 p. m. at the Kingston, N. Y., office located at 237 Fair street. Any member of the public desiring to protest or support the closing of this office may communicate in writing with the Federal Communications Commission, Washington 25, D. C., on or before March 5, 1951.

As Pegler Sees It

told me he belonged to Goldsmith's Committee on National Affairs and insisted that it was a very fine outfit. He was especially warm over its new determination to oppose smearing by "association" now that a lot of rotten fellow-travelers of the Soviet treason are being shown up and are claiming innocence.

So I called up Herbert Bayard Swope, who for years before and during his editorship of the old World was one of the best reporters we ever had in this country. I put it up to him. I put it up to Herbert because Herbie has become a joiner himself in his old age, which, I am sorry to have to say, is an infallible symptom of stuffed-shirtism, and he says he has been on several of Goldsmith's letterheads, adding, however, his opinion that most of these things have no real existence and don't amount to a dam.

As to their insubstantial character I agree with Herbert. But I can't go along with his nonchalant belief that they make no difference because I have come upon a statement filed with the clerk of the House in Washington wherein just one of Goldsmith's letterhead layouts, the Committee on National Affairs, shows that a lot of New York and nearby easterners, by the use of their money, butted into elections in other states in favor of such characters as old Frank P. Graham, of North Carolina, and a guy named George E. Franklin, Jr., of Nevada, who was entered in the race to knock off Senator Pat McCarran, the chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee. McCarran has been anti-Communist all the way down the line. He fought to get Spain recognized as a friendly nation. The opposition to such recognition went back to the fact that General Franko knocked the spots off the Soviet Foreign Legion, gave Soviet Russia her only military licking to date and now rules the best nation in the entire European continent, not excluding Great Britain, and the only one fit and willing to fight the Kremlin.

But in his ardent commendation of the Committee on National Affairs, Eliot didn't say anything about the money it raised and spent in the 1950 congressional campaigns and, as I have said, Goldsmith wouldn't talk at all.

Herbert Swope said: "I think he is scared of you."

"Why?" I asked. "Is he scared I will tell about that slush money?"

Well, while we are waiting for Mr. Goldsmith to get over his bashfulness, his harmless Committee on National Affairs, of which he is secretary, with Eliot listed as a member of the executive committee, reported to the clerk of the House as follows:

Contributions, somewhat unintelligibly listed, were $10,074, all from rich people within a radius of Baltimore, Ridgefield-Danbury, Conn., and Pittsburgh. The Wall street influence is represented by "Harold F. Linder, $200," address, 44 Wall street.

It is impossible to ascertain from the statement of disbursements just how much was spent in each of which candidacies. But unmistakably these rich eastern people sent $5,000 to John Conlon, 1008 S. Third street, Las Vegas, Nev., and $500 to the Washoe County Veterans' Committee for the election of George S. Franklin, Jr., who nevertheless was licked by Pat McCarran, who now is fixing to tear the iron curtain off this kind of business in our politics. The donations to old Graham in North Carolina seem to have been $200. These are some matters that I wanted to ask Mr. Goldsmith about. Do you think he was right to refuse to talk?

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Ross May Become G.O.P. Candidate

St. Louis, Feb. 12 (AP)—Walter W. Ross, son of the late Presidential Press Secretary Charles G. Ross, may become a candidate for a Congressional post on the Republican ticket.

GOP leaders said last night Ross had been pledged 20 of the 29 Republican committee votes for nomination from Missouri's 11th Congressional District. A successor to the late John B. Sullivan, a Democrat, will be chosen in an election March 9.

Ross, 34, said he would decide today whether he could accept the nomination.

"The whole thing was a surprise," he said. "Apparently somebody suggested my name and since that time everybody has been calling me and the thing has just snowballed along."

He said he never had participated in politics but that he always had been a Republican.

Howard V. Stephens, Republican national committeeman, said Charles Ross had been a "free thinker" in politics. The elder Ross was one of President Truman's closest friends.

New Drug Reported

Philadelphia, Feb. 12 (AP)—A new drug has been reported by the University of Pennsylvania to reduce sharply the unpleasant after-effects of taking anaesthesia. The university identified the drug as dramamine. It was developed by the husband-and-wife team of Dr. Alan and Dr. Helen Rubin.

To Propose Group To Study Divorce Laws for Change

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 12 (AP)—Creation of a special commission to study the feasibility of easing New York state's strict divorce law will be proposed in the legislature tonight.

Assemblywoman Janet Hill Gordon, Norwich Republican, said she would introduce a bill to set up a 23-member commission to study what she termed "widespread fraud, perjury, collusion and connivance" in dissolving marriages in New York.

Adultery is the only grounds on which divorce is granted in this state.

Opposition by the Roman Catholic Church, which does not recognize divorce on any grounds, was instrumental in killing a similar proposal by Mrs. Gordon two years ago. The measure died in the Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

The G.O.P.-controlled legislature, headed toward mid-March adjournment, also will:

1—Receive a bill to require twice-a-year compulsory inspection of automobiles at state-owned and state-operated inspection stations.

2—Consider, in the Assembly, bills to double the required personal injury liability insurance on taxicabs — from $2,500-$5,000 to $5,000-$10,000 — and increase property damage liability — from $1,000 to $5,000.

Bar Association Support

Mrs. Gordon's divorce-study proposal has the backing of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York.

The bill would direct the commission to "study and analyze comprehensively the problems created by marriage, separation, annulment of marriage and related matters."

The group also would be directed to "recommend any enactments, revisions or modifications (of existing laws) necessary to effectuate the findings, conclusions and recommendations of the commission."

Her measure would appropriate $50,000 for the study.

Mrs. Gordon, an attorney, said in a statement that "sordid conditions" which warrant a commission study "have long concerned all of us and have come to be recognized as a public scandal."

Test of Defenses Ends at Newburgh

Newburgh, N. Y., Feb. 12 (AP)—A four-day test of the air defenses of northeastern United States ended yesterday with the air force grading results as "very satisfactory."

The exercises over a 21-state area east of the Mississippi river and north of North Carolina involved some 3,000 aircraft sorties.

An estimated 150,000 civil defense ground observers, radar and army anti-aircraft artillery provided the ground aspect of the maneuvers.

Security reasons blacked out further results, including the performance of radar.

Headquarters of the maneuvers was at Stewart Air Force base here.

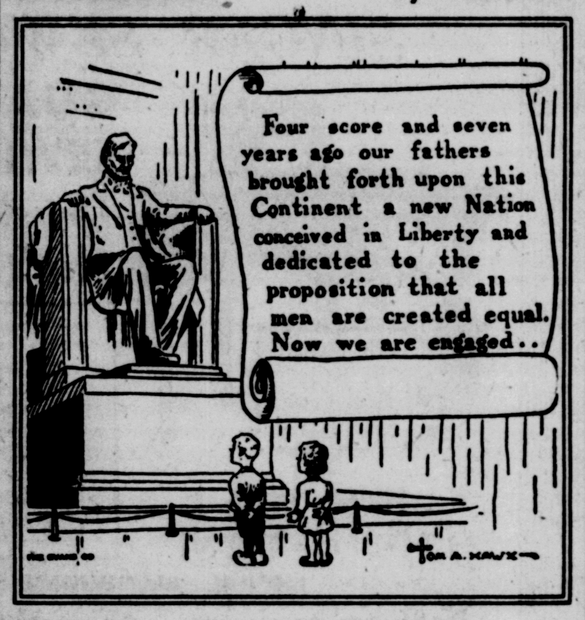

Will Build Community

Frankfurt, Germany, Feb. 12 (AP)—The U. S. government is getting a new multi-million dollar home in West Germany—a complete American-type community to be built near the West German capital of Bonn. U. S. high commission offices, now in Frankfurt, will be moved there. High Commissioner John J. McCloy said the transfer would simplify working relations with the West German government. It also will prepare for establishment of a U. S. embassy near Bonn when the occupation's end—possibly in 1952—replaces the high commission by a diplomatic mission.

County Insurance Agents Will Hold Dinner on Feb. 16

The Ulster County Insurance Agents Association has completed plans for the annual dinner to be held Friday night, February 16, at the Hotel Stuyvesant.

Due to the prominence of the speakers that the association has been able to obtain, this annual affair has become one of the outstanding insurance meetings of the Hudson River Valley. Up to date reservations have been obtained from Orange, Sullivan, Dutchess, Greene and Columbia county agents and also from educators, lawyers and insurance company officials from the principal cities of eastern New York state.

This year's principal speaker will be New York State Insurance Commissioner Bohlinger. As far as can be ascertained, this will be the first time that the insurance commissioner has spoken to any agent's group. He was appointed to his post late last fall and in that short time has impressed both companies and agents with his abilities. While the topic of Commissioner Bohlinger's speech is not known, his complete knowledge of the entire insurance field is sure to provide his listeners with an instructive and interesting evening. Members of the Ulster County Insurance Agents Association feel it a distinct honor that Insurance Commissioner Bohlinger has accepted this engagement.

The following Kingston agents have been in charge of arrangements: Lawrence Quilty, Clarence Buddenhagen, James Hanstein and William Golden who have had the cooperation of William Kuehn, treasurer, and Herman Eaton, secretary. As capacity for the dinner is limited, the committee has decided that all reservations must be paid for before tickets are mailed. It will be impossible to buy tickets at the door, due to limited accommodations.

Members of the public in Ulster county who would like to attend are urged to contact their agent or a member of the committee this week. All member agents are requested to have their remittances for the proper number of reservations in the hands of the treasurer by Tuesday, Feb. 13.

"Please settle a percentage question," requests a New York city reader. "South let the opponents hold the first spade trick won the second with dummy's king, and entered his hand with a heart to finesse for the queen of clubs.

"East won the club and continued spades, whereupon South was a gone gosling. If he tried to set up his ninth trick in clubs, East would win and run the spades. If he took the diamond finesse, West would win and lead a club to his partner.

"North says that the proper play is to take the diamond finesse before tackling the clubs. If it loses, the suit may nevertheless break 3-3 (as it did) to give declarer his ninth trick.

"Who is right?"

North wins. His play is roughly 10 per cent better than the actual play.

The right play is to duck the first trick, win the second trick with the king of spades, cash the king of diamonds, and then finesse the jack of diamonds. West wins and returns a spade, of course, but South wins and cashes the ace of diamonds, discovering that dummy's last diamond is good for the ninth trick.

The most interesting part of this hand is the bidding. Four hearts is unbeatable, while three no-trump may well be defeated (and actually was, when the hand was played.)

If my correspondents had been using the Stayman Convention, they would have reached the right contract. North's first response would have been two clubs—asking South to show a biddable major. South would oblige by bidding two hearts, whereupon North would raise to four hearts.

This convention is so useful, and there have been so many questions about it, that I shall describe it more fully in other articles this week.

As Pegler Sees It

told me he belonged to Goldsmith's Committee on National Affairs and insisted that it was a very fine outfit. He was especially warm over its new determination to oppose smearing by "association" now that a lot of rotten fellow-travelers of the Soviet treason are being shown up and are claiming innocence.

So I called up Herbert Bayard Swope, who for years before and during his editorship of the old World was one of the best reporters we ever had in this country. I put it up to him. I put it up to Herbert because Herbie has become a joiner himself in his old age, which, I am sorry to have to say, is an infallible symptom of stuffed-shirtism, and he says he has been on several of Goldsmith's letterheads, adding, however, his opinion that most of these things have no real existence and don't amount to a dam.

As to their insubstantial character I agree with Herbert. But I can't go along with his nonchalant belief that they make no difference because I have come upon a statement filed with the clerk of the House in Washington wherein just one of Goldsmith's letterhead layouts, the Committee on National Affairs, shows that a lot of New York and nearby easterners, by the use of their money, butted into elections in other states in favor of such characters as old Frank P. Graham, of North Carolina, and a guy named George E. Franklin, Jr., of Nevada, who was entered in the race to knock off Senator Pat McCarran, the chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee. McCarran has been anti-Communist all the way down the line. He fought to get Spain recognized as a friendly nation. The opposition to such recognition went back to the fact that General Franko knocked the spots off the Soviet Foreign Legion, gave Soviet Russia her only military licking to date and now rules the best nation in the entire European continent, not excluding Great Britain, and the only one fit and willing to fight the Kremlin.

But in his ardent commendation of the Committee on National Affairs, Eliot didn't say anything about the money it raised and spent in the 1950 congressional campaigns and, as I have said, Goldsmith wouldn't talk at all.

Herbert Swope said: "I think he is scared of you."

"Why?" I asked. "Is he scared I will tell about that slush money?"

Well, while we are waiting for Mr. Goldsmith to get over his bashfulness, his harmless Committee on National Affairs, of which he is secretary, with Eliot listed as a member of the executive committee, reported to the clerk of the House as follows:

Contributions, somewhat unintelligibly listed, were $10,074, all from rich people within a radius of Baltimore, Ridgefield-Danbury, Conn., and Pittsburgh. The Wall street influence is represented by "Harold F. Linder, $200," address, 44 Wall street.

It is impossible to ascertain from the statement of disbursements just how much was spent in each of which candidacies. But unmistakably these rich eastern people sent $5,000 to John Conlon, 1008 S. Third street, Las Vegas, Nev., and $500 to the Washoe County Veterans' Committee for the election of George S. Franklin, Jr., who nevertheless was licked by Pat McCarran, who now is fixing to tear the iron curtain off this kind of business in our politics. The donations to old Graham in North Carolina seem to have been $200. These are some matters that I wanted to ask Mr. Goldsmith about. Do you think he was right to refuse to talk?

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Ross May Become G.O.P. Candidate

St. Louis, Feb. 12 (AP)—Walter W. Ross, son of the late Presidential Press Secretary Charles G. Ross, may become a candidate for a Congressional post on the Republican ticket.

GOP leaders said last night Ross had been pledged 20 of the 29 Republican committee votes for nomination from Missouri's 11th Congressional District. A successor to the late John B. Sullivan, a Democrat, will be chosen in an election March 9.

Ross, 34, said he would decide today whether he could accept the nomination.

"The whole thing was a surprise," he said. "Apparently somebody suggested my name and since that time everybody has been calling me and the thing has just snowballed along."

He said he never had participated in politics but that he always had been a Republican.

Howard V. Stephens, Republican national committeeman, said Charles Ross had been a "free thinker" in politics. The elder Ross was one of President Truman's closest friends.

New Drug Reported

Philadelphia, Feb. 12 (AP)—A new drug has been reported by the University of Pennsylvania to reduce sharply the unpleasant after-effects of taking anaesthesia. The university identified the drug as dramamine. It was developed by the husband-and-wife team of Dr. Alan and Dr. Helen Rubin.

To Propose Group To Study Divorce Laws for Change

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 12 (AP)—Creation of a special commission to study the feasibility of easing New York state's strict divorce law will be proposed in the legislature tonight.

Assemblywoman Janet Hill Gordon, Norwich Republican, said she would introduce a bill to set up a 23-member commission to study what she termed "widespread fraud, perjury, collusion and connivance", in dissolving marriages in New York.

Adultery is the only grounds on which divorce is granted in this state.

Opposition by the Roman Catholic Church, which does not recognize divorce on any grounds, was instrumental in killing a similar proposal by Mrs. Gordon two years ago. The measure died in the Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

The G.O.P.-controlled legislature, headed toward mid-March adjournment, also will:

1—Receive a bill to require twice-a-year compulsory inspection of automobiles at state-owned and state-operated inspection stations.

2—Consider, in the Assembly, bills to double the required personal injury liability insurance on taxicabs — from $2,500-$5,000 to $5,000-$10,000 — and increase property damage liability — from $1,000 to $5,000.

Bar Association Support

Mrs. Gordon's divorce-study proposal has the backing of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York.

The bill would direct the commission to "study and analyze comprehensively the problems created by marriage, separation, annulment of marriage and related matters."

The group also would be directed to "recommend any enactments, revisions or modifications (of existing laws) necessary to effectuate the findings, conclusions and recommendations of the commission."

Her measure would appropriate $50,000 for the study.

Mrs. Gordon, an attorney, said in a statement that "sordid conditions" which warrant a commission study "have long concerned all of us and have come to be recognized as a public scandal."

Test of Defenses Ends at Newburgh

Newburgh, N. Y., Feb. 12 (AP)—A four-day test of the air defenses of northeastern United States ended yesterday with the air force grading results as "very satisfactory."

The exercises over a 21-state area east of the Mississippi river and north of North Carolina involved some 3,000 aircraft sorties.

An estimated 150,000 civil defense ground observers, radar and army anti-aircraft artillery provided the ground aspect of the maneuvers.

Security reasons blacked out further results, including the performance of radar.

Headquarters of the maneuvers was at Stewart Air Force base here.

Will Build Community

Frankfurt, Germany, Feb. 12 (AP)—The U. S. government is getting a new multi-million dollar home in West Germany—a complete American-type community to be built near the West German capital of Bonn. U. S. high commission offices, now in Frankfurt, will be moved there. High Commissioner John J. McCloy said the transfer would simplify working relations with the West German government. It also will prepare for establishment of a U. S. embassy near Bonn when the occupation's end—possibly in 1952—replaces the high commission by a diplomatic mission.

The Weather

MONDAY, FEB. 12, 1951

Sun rises at 6:45 a. m.; sun sets at 5:12 p. m., E.S.T.
Weather, cloudy.

The Temperature

The lowest temperature recorded on The Freeman thermometer during the night was 30 degrees. The highest figure recorded up to noon today was 43 degrees.

Weather Forecast

New York city and vicinity—Fair today, warmer than yesterday, high 50-55. Mostly fair tonight, milder than last night, low 35-40. Partly cloudy, continued quite mild Tuesday, high in the 50's.

Eastern New York—Cloudy and milder followed by occasional light rain or drizzle today and tonight. Low tonight 32-38. Tuesday cloudy with some rain probably changing to light snow.

Floods Ease Off In Western Region

Seattle, Feb. 12 (AP)—Clearing skies and a sharp temperature drop eased flood conditions in western Washington and British Columbia today and the Weather Bureau said the "worst is over."

Rain-swollen rivers were cresting and slowly receding after a three-day rampage which had left an estimated 5,000 persons homeless.

A state of emergency was in effect in western Washington and five National Guard units were called out as rampaging rivers crashed through dikes and spilled out over lowlands.

The Red Cross here said national headquarters had made a disaster appropriation for the area.

Governor Langlie proclaimed a state of emergency after some 4,600 persons had been driven from their homes in northwest Washington. Another 650 were homeless in British Columbia's flooded Fraser river valley.

Rivers spilled their banks after three days of record rain. The Weather Bureau said early today clearing weather had generally eased flood conditions throughout the area.

Personnel Named For Blood Survey In County Areas

Kerhonkson, Feb. 12—Personnel including the clinic workers who will be in charge of the blood typing project sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post, 8959, Kerhonkson, were named at a recent meeting.

Dr. William Galeota, post surgeon, explained the procedure necessary for the typing and following his talk, each volunteer was assigned a particular job for the project.

Those who will be in charge of the project in addition to Dr. Galeota include the following:

Duane Koefoed, chief technician; William Lucas and Helen Fillion, technicians; Katherine Blair, Phyllis Koefoed, Connie Feldshuh, Hilda Coddington and Dorothy Amann, nurses; Phyllis Hulbert, Eve McCauley, Marian Lifer, Shirley Brynan, cherical staff: Ida Kilgannon, Ethel Decker, Mabel Greene, Claire Kunz, Kay Shea, receptionists; Lillian Dembo, Rose Gilman, Elsie Burkard, Monica Groves, Ruth Brown and Suzanne Decker, personnel in charge of slides.

The first tentative clinic will be held on or about March 5 for 200 persons between 8 and 10:30 p. m. This clinic will be for the typing of all emergency organizations including firemen and civilian defense groups. Any organization wishing to be included in this clinic may contact Mrs. Hyman Bank, telephone 5893, Kerhonkson, or Mrs. Irving Gilman, 5801.

The second group typing will be held in Accord at a date and place to be announced. With the permission of parents, all children will be typed in the schools at Kerhonkson and Accord. Clinics will be continued at regular intervals until all residents have been typed.

The Kerhonkson V. F. W. is sponsoring this worthwhile survey to assure that all residents have a card bearing their particular blood type in case of any emergency.

Women May Replace G.I.'s in Army Posts

Washington, Feb. 12 (AP) — A close survey will be made soon to see how many combat-qualified men can be moved out into the U. S. field forces by giving their jobs to G. I. Janes, Senator Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex) says.

The Senator told a reporter yesterday that will be the next business of his Armed Services Sub-Committee. That group, by a 7-1 vote, has just passed along to the full committee a broad program for building up the fighting forces, including a draft of 18-year-olds.

"Just as soon as we get this 18-year-old draft out of the way the preparedness subcommittee will launch a spot check of all air bases, army posts and navy and marine establishments to see how women can handle military assignments now held by able-bodied combat men," Johnson said.

"There is no thought of drafting women for the armed services," Johnson said. "But we certainly can make a military career more appealing once we learn how many could be used."

His statement contrasted with a suggestion from Mrs. Mildred McAfee Horton, wartime commander of the Waves, that women be drafted for non-combat service.

St. Joseph's Men Hold Communion Breakfast

The Holy Name Society of St. Joseph's Church held its annual communion and breakfast on Sunday. The Boy Scouts and Cubs of Troop 3, sponsored by the society, observed Boy Scout Sunday by receiving communion and attending the breakfast which was served in St. Joseph's School hall.

Allan J. Indzonka, a Newburgh lawyer, was the guest speaker. He review the history of the Catholic Church through 19 centuries of persecution and growth and described the church as the greatest civilizing and cultural influence in history.

Charles Trice, chairman of the society's Boy Scout committee, discussed the activities of Troop 3 Scouts and explained the fundamental purposes and objectives of all Scout programs. Other speakers were the Rev. John D. Simmons, spiritual director of the society, and William T. Leehive, president of the Ulster county union of Holy Name Societies. Nicholas Reis, vice president of the society served as toastmaster.

Bids Are Sought For New School

Water consumers are reminded that Thursday, Feb. 15, is the last day water rents may be paid without the added 10 per cent.

The first meeting of Cub Pack 26 was held Saturday night in the Reformed Church Hall at which time the pack received its charter for the coming year. Cub Pack 26 is sponsored by the Port Ewen School Association. There are two dens with Mrs. Genevieve B. Tinnie and Mrs. Myron Lane as den mothers. Robert Sanford and Robert Coutant are den chiefs. The pack committee consists of Myron Lane, chairman, Daniel Terpening and Donald Terpening. The Rev. H. E. Christiana is cub master and Gordon Craig is the assistant cub master. After a program consisting of a skit by the Cubs depicting Henry Hudson discovering the Hudson river and buying Esopus Island from the Indians, the following boys received their membership cards and bob cat pins: Donald Atkins, Cleon Barker, Joe Beaver, Keith Costello, Roland G. Craig, Jr., Howard Greiner, Myron Lane, Emory La May, Darrel Myers, Gerald W. Pridgen, Thomas R. Steigerwald, Robert Short, Daniel Terpening, Donald Mack Tinney and C. Robert Whitaker. The Dens meet once each week with their den mothers and den chiefs. The pack meets once a month.

4 Thefts Reported To Kingston Police

Four thefts were reported to the police over the week-end.

Officer George Dougherty reported at 9:25 p. m., Sunday that Howard J. Mosher, 18 Excelsior avenue, New Paltz, had informed him that his car had been taken from in front of the Ertel Mfg. Co., on North Front street. It was valued at $1,200, he said, and was taken between 7 p. m., and the time he reported it.

Police were notified Saturday at 4:25 p. m., by Ackerman & Herrick, 280 Fair street, that "within the past hour" someone had taken a quarter-inch Mall drill valued at $20.

William Schoonmaker, 8 Wrentham street, reported at 4:35 p. m., Sunday, that someone had stolen three of his pigeons, valued at $20, and at 8:20 p. m. Sunday Raymond Lowe, 17 West Strand, reported that a wallet had been stolen from his home. The value of its contents was not mentioned.

Marbletown Plans Child Clinic on Wednesday

A child health conference conducted by the Ulster County Health Department will be opened at the Marbletown Health Center in the Marbletown Town Garage February 14 from 9 a. m. to 11:30 a. m., it was announced today.

This is a well-child clinic and is limited to infants and preschool children for the purpose of improving child health. Physical examinations and immunizations against diphtheria, smallpox, whooping cough and tetanus will be given at this clinic.

Children under regular care of their own family physician are not admitted unless the physician wishes that this service be taken over by the child health conference. This will serve to avoid duplication of services and facilitate the work of the private physician, a spokesman for the clinic pointed out.

Providing a need is shown for the clinic in the community, it will be continued monthly on the second Wednesday from 9 a. m. to 11:30 a. m.

Governor Splits

defense based chiefly on air and sea power and opposed to the idea of a land war with Russia.

The question of where troops should be sent, Dewey said, was "a job for experts' and not Congress. He added that European nations should be and would, raise many more troops than America sends there.

Taft said Saturday in Chicago that Congress should be asked for approval of any further shipments of American troops abroad.

Dewey said he thought the "great debate' among Republicans, with its "hard clash" of opinion, was good, as it paved the way for a policy representing the wishes of all the people.

Congressional troop limitations, Dewey said, would "permit Stalin to think that he can take Europe" and make American soldiers now in Europe "victims of a mouse-trap."

He declared that congressional power to declare war was wholly separate from the question of troop movements.

During the interview, Dewey also said:

He had no information on whether Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower would be available for a 1952 Presidential nomination, as Dewey had suggested previously.

President Truman has not offered him a cabinet post.

Less than 49 per cent of the people now support the President.

National unity requires an end to advocacy of "socialized medicine" and the "stupid Brannen (farm) plan."

The Wage and Price Division is "a recruiting agency for broken-down Democrat politicians.'

Dewey is scheduled to make a major foreign policy speech here tonight at a Lincoln Day dinner sponsored by the National Republican Club.

Red Secretary Killed

Kuala Lumpur, Malaya, Feb. 12 (AP)—Ng Kim Hing, 30, Communist district committee secretary of the Bakri area in Muar district of Johore state, was killed today by security forces. The government had offered 14,000 straits dollars ($4,585 U. S.) for his capture. Five other Communists were slain in other operations of Malayan security forces.

Dewey Administration Has Control

weight-distance tax on big trucks, expected to net the state from $20,000,000 to $30,000,000 annually, strongly favored by Dewey.

A final decision is not likely until shortly before the Legislature adjourns in mid-March on the proposal for a state investigation of (1) alleged gangster-political tieups in New York city and (2) the city administration.

Fate of the proposal seemed shrouded in doubt after Dewey said on a television program yesterday that he didn't know whether he would back the Mitchell-Roman resolution authorizing such a probe.

Spokesmen for more than 200 organizations have requested time to speak at tomorrow's public hearing on the state budget in the Assembly chamber.

Most of them apparently will urge more spending, especially in state aid for education to help finance teacher pay raises and school construction. The United Parents Associations of New York city will send a delegation of 600 to the hearing.

The economy forces will be spearheaded by the Citizens Public Expenditure Survey, Inc., a private taxpayer group, and the Commerce and Industry Association of New York (city).

The Legislature's Democratic minority opened the battle of the budget yesterday, charging that "Dewey's claims of rigid economies do not jibe with the facts."

The Democratic leaders, Senator Elmer F. Quinn and Assemblyman Irwin Steingut, contended that "the only drastic economies could be found in slashes in social welfare expenses, such as aid to the blind and aid to dependent children." Otherwise, they claim, the budget was inflationary.

Cites Advantages For Volunteers in Airborne Service

Due to very limited quotas on air force enlistments the U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force recruiting service is presently urging young men to volunteer for the regular army.

Sgt. First Class Raymond G. Ingersoll of the local recruiting station states the airborne, for example, offers an opportunity for young fellows interested in military aircraft to gain much experience in this field. Most airborne troops are more familiar with and perform more air travel than many air force men, because it is part of their basic and advanced training.

If an individual can qualify as a jumper, he can get an additional $50 per month, and this increases with his rank. However, paratroopers jump only on a voluntary basis. The majority of the personnel of the airborne division are landed by gliders and transports.

Serving with the airborne means serving with the best. The airborne troops are proud of their branch of service, and have a greater "esprit-de-corps" than most line outfits. The 11th and 82nd Airborne, two of the country's famous wartime divisions, are now taking qualified volunteers.

Sgt. Ingersoll also announced that the Kingston station enlisted a total of 41 men during the month of January. Of this number six were veterans having served in the armed forces previously. "I would like it to be known," said the recruiting sergeant, "that 29 of these boys were high school graduates and six were college men. This is indicative of the type of young fellow who is volunteering his services today. The recruiting agencies for all of the services are striving to get the best for the armed forces on a volunteer basis."

Shah of Iran Weds

Lack of Excitement

There has been a strange lack of excitement in Tehran over the fete. Even Soraya was reported by court intimates to have been unconcerned over the ceremony which was to make her Empress of Iran.

By the Shah's order free food will be distributed to the poor.

The heads of friendly nations have observed the event by sending sumptuous presents.

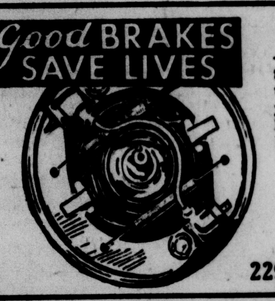

President Truman sent a crystal vase inscribed with American legendary heroes. From Britain's King George VI came a pair of solid silver candelabra of the Georgian period. The British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, which have huge petroleum holdings in this country, gave a hospital worth £25,000 ($70,000) as a wedding present.

It is the second marriage for the youthful king. His first union to Princess Fawzia, sister of Egypt's king, Farouk, was dissolved by decree in 1948.

Floods Ease Off In Western Region

Seattle, Feb. 12 (AP)—Clearing skies and a sharp temperature drop eased flood conditions in western Washington and British Columbia today and the Weather Bureau said the "worst is over."

Rain-swollen rivers were cresting and slowly receding after a three-day rampage which had left an estimated 5,000 persons homeless.

A state of emergency was in effect in western Washington and five National Guard units were called out as rampaging rivers crashed through dikes and spilled out over lowlands.

The Red Cross here said national headquarters had made a disaster appropriation for the area.

Governor Langlie proclaimed a state of emergency after some 4,600 persons had been driven from their homes in northwest Washington. Another 650 were homeless in British Columbia's flooded Fraser river valley.

Rivers spilled their banks after three days of record rain. The Weather Bureau said early today clearing weather had generally eased flood conditions throughout the area.

Personnel Named For Blood Survey In County Areas

Kerhonkson, Feb. 12—Personnel including the clinic workers who will be in charge of the blood typing project sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post, 8959, Kerhonkson, were named at a recent meeting.

Dr. William Galeota, post surgeon, explained the procedure necessary for the typing and following his talk, each volunteer was assigned a particular job for the project.

Those who will be in charge of the project in addition to Dr. Galeota include the following:

Duane Koefoed, chief technician; William Lucas and Helen Fillion, technicians; Katherine Blair, Phyllis Koefoed, Connie Feldshuh, Hilda Coddington and Dorothy Amann, nurses; Phyllis Hulbert, Eve McCauley, Marian Lifer, Shirley Brynan, cherical staff: Ida Kilgannon, Ethel Decker, Mabel Greene, Claire Kunz, Kay Shea, receptionists; Lillian Dembo, Rose Gilman, Elsie Burkard, Monica Groves, Ruth Brown and Suzanne Decker, personnel in charge of slides.

The first tentative clinic will be held on or about March 5 for 200 persons between 8 and 10:30 p. m. This clinic will be for the typing of all emergency organizations including firemen and civilian defense groups. Any organization wishing to be included in this clinic may contact Mrs. Hyman Bank, telephone 5893, Kerhonkson, or Mrs. Irving Gilman, 5801.

The second group typing will be held in Accord at a date and place to be announced. With the permission of parents, all children will be typed in the schools at Kerhonkson and Accord. Clinics will be continued at regular intervals until all residents have been typed.

The Kerhonkson V. F. W. is sponsoring this worthwhile survey to assure that all residents have a card bearing their particular blood type in case of any emergency.

Women May Replace G.I.'s in Army Posts

Washington, Feb. 12 (AP) — A close survey will be made soon to see how many combat-qualified men can be moved out into the U. S. field forces by giving their jobs to G. I. Janes, Senator Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex) says.

The Senator told a reporter yesterday that will be the next business of his Armed Services Sub-Committee. That group, by a 7-1 vote, has just passed along to the full committee a broad program for building up the fighting forces, including a draft of 18-year-olds.

"Just as soon as we get this 18-year-old draft out of the way the preparedness subcommittee will launch a spot check of all air bases, army posts and navy and marine establishments to see how women can handle military assignments now held by able-bodied combat men," Johnson said.

"There is no thought of drafting women for the armed services," Johnson said. "But we certainly can make a military career more appealing once we learn how many could be used."

His statement contrasted with a suggestion from Mrs. Mildred McAfee Horton, wartime commander of the Waves, that women be drafted for non-combat service.

St. Joseph's Men Hold Communion Breakfast

The Holy Name Society of St. Joseph's Church held its annual communion and breakfast on Sunday. The Boy Scouts and Cubs of Troop 3, sponsored by the society, observed Boy Scout Sunday by receiving communion and attending the breakfast which was served in St. Joseph's School hall.

Allan J. Indzonka, a Newburgh lawyer, was the guest speaker. He review the history of the Catholic Church through 19 centuries of persecution and growth and described the church as the greatest civilizing and cultural influence in history.

Charles Trice, chairman of the society's Boy Scout committee, discussed the activities of Troop 3 Scouts and explained the fundamental purposes and objectives of all Scout programs. Other speakers were the Rev. John D. Simmons, spiritual director of the society, and William F. Leehive, president of the Ulster county union of Holy Name Societies. Nicholas Reis, vice president of the society served as toastmaster.

Water consumers are reminded that Thursday, Feb. 15, is the last day water rents may be paid without the added 10 per cent.

The first meeting of Cub Pack 26 was held Saturday night in the Reformed Church Hall at which time the pack received its charter for the coming year. Cub Pack 26 is sponsored by the Port Ewen School Association. There are two dens with Mrs. Genevieve B. Tinnie and Mrs. Myron Lane as den mothers. Robert Sanford and Robert Coutant are den chiefs. The pack committee consists of Myron Lane, chairman, Daniel Terpening and Donald Terpening. The Rev. H. E. Christiana is cub master and Gordon Craig is the assistant cub master. After a program consisting of a skit by the Cubs depicting Henry Hudson discovering the Hudson river and buying Esopus Island from the Indians, the following boys received their membership cards and bob cat pins: Donald Atkins, Cleon Barker, Joe Beaver, Keith Costello, Roland G. Craig, Jr., Howard Greiner, Myron Lane, Emory La May, Darrel Myers, Gerald W. Pridgen, Thomas R. Steigerwald, Robert Short, Daniel Terpening, Donald Mack Tinney and C. Robert Whitaker. The Dens meet once each week with their den mothers and den chiefs. The pack meets once a month.

4 Thefts Reported To Kingston Police

Four thefts were reported to the police over the week-end.

Officer George Dougherty reported at 9:25 p. m., Sunday that Howard J. Mosher, 18 Excelsior avenue, New Paltz, had informed him that his car had been taken from in front of the Ertel Mfg. Co., on North Front street. It was valued at $1,200, he said, and was taken between 7 p. m., and the time he reported it.

Polce were notified Saturday at 4:25 p. m., by Ackerman & Herrick, 280 Fair street, that "within the past hour" someone had taken a quarter-inch Mall drill valued at $20.

William Schoonmaker, 8 Wrentham street, reported at 4:35 p. m., Sunday, that someone had stolen three of his pigeons, valued at $20, and at 8:20 p. m. Sunday Raymond Lowe, 17 West Strand, reported that a wallet had been stolen from his home. The value of its contents was not mentioned.

Marbletown Plans Child Clinic on Wednesday

A child health conference conducted by the Ulster County Health Department will be opened at the Marbletown Health Center in the Marbletown Town Garage February 14 from 9 a. m. to 11:30 a. m., it was announced today.

This is a well-child clinic and is limited to infants and preschool children for the purpose of improving child health. Physical examinations and immunizations against diphtheria, smallpox, whooping cough and tetanus will be given at this clinic.

Children under regular care of their own family physician are not admitted unless the physician wishes that this service be taken over by the child health conference. This will serve to avoid duplication of services and facilitate the work of the private physician, a spokesman for the clinic pointed out.

Providing a need is shown for the clinic in the community, it will be continued monthly on the second Wednesday from 9 a. m. to 11:30 a. m.

Governor Splits

defense based chiefly on air and sea power and opposed to the idea of a land war with Russia.

The question of where troops should be sent, Dewey said, was "a job for experts' and not Congress. He added that European nations should be and would, raise many more troops than America sends there.

Taft said Saturday in Chicago that Congress should be asked for approval of any further shipments of American troops abroad.

Dewey said he thought the "great debate' among Republicans, with its "hard clash" of opinion, was good, as it paved the way for a policy representing the wishes of all the people.

Congressional troop limitations, Dewey said, would "permit Stalin to think that he can take Europe" and make American soldiers now in Europe "victims of a mouse-trap."

He declared that congressional power to declare war was wholly separate from the question of troop movements.

During the interview, Dewey also said:

He had no information on whether Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower would be available for a 1952 Presidential nomination, as Dewey had suggested previously.

President Truman has not offered him a cabinet post.

Less than 49 per cent of the people now support the President. "I am not a candidate (for the Presidency) nor will be one."

National unity requires an end to advocacy of "socialized medicine" and the "stupid Brannen (farm) plan."

The Wage and Price Division is "a recruiting agency for broken-down Democrat politicians.'

Dewey is scheduled to make a major foreign policy speech here tonight at a Lincoln Day dinner sponsored by the National Republican Club.

Red Secretary Killed

Kuala Lumpur, Malaya, Feb. 12 (AP)—Ng Kim Hing, 30, Communist district committee secretary of the Bakri area in Muar district of Johore state, was killed today by security forces. The government had offered 14,000 straits dollars ($4,585 U. S.) for his capture. Five other Communists were slain in other operations of Malayan security forces.

Dewey Administration Has Control

weight-distance tax on big trucks, expected to net the state from $20,000,000 to $30,000,000 annually, strongly favored by Dewey.

A final decision is not likely until shortly before the Legislature adjourns in mid-March on the proposal for a state investigation of (1) alleged gangster-political tie-ups in New York city and (2) the city administration.

Fate of the proposal seemed shrouded in doubt after Dewey said on a television program yesterday that he didn't know whether he would back the Mitchell-Roman resolution authorizing such a probe.

Spokesmen for more than 200 organizations have requested time to speak at tomorrow's public hearing on the state budget in the Assembly chamber.

Most of them apparently will urge more spending, especially in state aid for education to help finance teacher pay raises and school construction. The United Parents Associations of New York city will send a delegation of 600 to the hearing.

The economy forces will be spearheaded by the Citizens Public Expenditure Survey, Inc., a private taxpayer group, and the Commerce and Industry Association of New York (city).

The Legislature's Democratic minority opened the battle of the budget yesterday, charging that "Dewey's claims of rigid economies do not jibe with the facts."

The Democratic leaders, Senator Elmer F. Quinn and Assemblyman Irwin Steingut, contended that "the only drastic economies could be found in slashes in social welfare expenses, such as aid to the blind and aid to dependent children." Otherwise, they claim, the budget was inflationary.

The Senator told a reporter yesterday that will be the next business of his Armed Services Sub-Committee. That group, by a 7-1 vote, has just passed along to the full committee a broad program for building up the fighting forces, including a draft of 18-year-olds.

"Just as soon as we get this 18-year-old draft out of the way the preparedness subcommittee will launch a spot check of all air bases, army posts and navy and marine establishments to see how women can handle military assignments now held by able-bodied combat men," Johnson said.

"There is no thought of drafting women for the armed services," Johnson said. "But we certainly can make a military career more appealing once we learn how many could be used."

His statement contrasted with a suggestion from Mrs. Mildred McAfee Horton, wartime commander of the Waves, that women be drafted for non-combat service.

St. Joseph's Men Hold Communion Breakfast

The Holy Name Society of St. Joseph's Church held its annual communion and breakfast on Sunday. The Boy Scouts and Cubs of Troop 3, sponsored by the society, observed Boy Scout Sunday by receiving communion and attending the breakfast which was served in St. Joseph's School hall.

Allan J. Indzonka, a Newburgh lawyer, was the guest speaker. He review the history of the Catholic Church through 19 centuries of persecution and growth and described the church as the greatest civilizing and cultural influence in history.

Charles Trice, chairman of the society's Boy Scout committee, discussed the activities of Troop 3 Scouts and explained the fundamental purposes and objectives of all Scout programs. Other speakers were the Rev. John D. Simmons, spiritual director of the society, and William F. Leehive, president of the Ulster county union of Holy Name Societies. Nicholas Reis, vice president of the society served as toastmaster.

The first meeting of Cub Pack 26 was held Saturday night in the Reformed Church Hall at which time the pack received its charter for the coming year. Cub Pack 26 is sponsored by the Port Ewen School Association. There are two dens with Mrs. Genevieve B. Tinnie and Mrs. Myron Lane as den mothers. Robert Sanford and Robert Coutant are den chiefs. The pack committee consists of Myron Lane, chairman, Daniel Terpening and Donald Terpening. The Rev. H. E. Christiana is cub master and Gordon Craig is the assistant cub master. After a program consisting of a skit by the Cubs depicting Henry Hudson discovering the Hudson river and buying Esopus Island from the Indians, the following boys received their membership cards and bob cat pins: Donald Atkins, Cleon Barker, Joe Beaver, Keith Costello, Roland G. Craig, Jr., Howard Greiner, Myron Lane, Emory La May, Darrel Myers, Gerald W. Pridgen, Thomas R. Steigerwald, Robert Short, Daniel Terpening, Donald Mack Tinney and C. Robert Whitaker. The Dens meet once each week with their den mothers and den chiefs. The pack meets once a month.

4 Thefts Reported To Kingston Police

Four thefts were reported to the police over the week-end.

Officer George Dougherty reported at 9:25 p. m., Sunday that Howard J. Mosher, 18 Excelsior avenue, New Paltz, had informed him that his car had been taken from in front of the Ertel Mfg. Co., on North Front street. It was valued at $1,200, he said, and was taken between 7 p. m., and the time he reported it.

Polce were notified Saturday at 4:25 p. m., by Ackerman & Herrick, 280 Fair street, that "within the past hour" someone had taken a quarter-inch Mall drill valued at $20.

William Schoonmaker, 8 Wrentham street, reported at 4:35 p. m., Sunday, that someone had stolen three of his pigeons, valued at $20, and at 8:20 p. m. Sunday Raymond Lowe, 17 West Strand, reported that a wallet had been stolen from his home. The value of its contents was not mentioned.

Marbletown Plans Child Clinic on Wednesday

A child health conference conducted by the Ulster County Health Department will be opened at the Marbletown Health Center in the Marbletown Town Garage February 14 from 9 a. m. to 11:30 a. m., it was announced today.

This is a well-child clinic and is limited to infants and preschool children for the purpose of improving child health. Physical examinations and immunizations against diphtheria, smallpox, whooping cough and tetanus will be given at this clinic.

Children under regular care of their own family physician are not admitted unless the physician wishes that this service be taken over by the child health conference. This will serve to avoid duplication of services and facilitate the work of the private physician, a spokesman for the clinic pointed out.

Providing a need is shown for the clinic in the community, it will be continued monthly on the second Wednesday from 9 a. m. to 11:30 a. m.

Governor Splits

defense based chiefly on air and sea power and opposed to the idea of a land war with Russia.

The question of where troops should be sent, Dewey said, was "a job for experts' and not Congress. He added that European nations should be and would, raise many more troops than America sends there.

Taft said Saturday in Chicago that Congress should be asked for approval of any further shipments of American troops abroad.

Dewey said he thought the "great debate' among Republicans, with its "hard clash" of opinion, was good, as it paved the way for a policy representing the wishes of all the people.

Congressional troop limitations, Dewey said, would "permit Stalin to think that he can take Europe" and make American soldiers now in Europe "victims of a mousetrap."

He declared that congressional power to declare war was wholly separate from the question of troop movements.

During the interview, Dewey also said:

He had no information on whether Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower would be available for a 1952 Presidential nomination, as Dewey had suggested previously.

President Truman has not offered him a cabinet post.

Less than 49 per cent of the people now support the President.

"I am not a candidate (for the Presidency) nor will be one."

National unity requires an end to advocacy of "socialized medicine" and the "stupid Brannen (farm) plan."

The Wage and Price Division is "a recruiting agency for broken-down Democrat politicians.'

Dewey is scheduled to make a major foreign policy speech here tonight at a Lincoln Day dinner sponsored by the National Republican Club.

Red Secretary Killed

Kuala Lumpur, Malaya, Feb. 12 (AP)—Ng Kim Hing, 30, Communist district committee secretary of the Bakri area in Muar district of Johore state, was killed today by security forces. The government had offered 14,000 straits dollars ($4,585 U. S.) for his capture. Five other Communists were slain in other operations of Malayan security forces.

Dewey Administration Has Control

weight-distance tax on big trucks, expected to net the state from $20,000,000 to $30,000,000 annually, strongly favored by Dewey.

A final decision is not likely until shortly before the Legislature adjourns in mid-March on the proposal for a state investigation of (1) alleged gangster-political tieups in New York city and (2) the city administration.

Fate of the proposal seemed shrouded in doubt after Dewey said on a television program yesterday that he didn't know whether he would back the Mitchell-Roman resolution authorizing such a probe.

Spokesmen for more than 200 organizations have requested time to speak at tomorrow's public hearing on the state budget in the Assembly chamber.

Most of them apparently will urge more spending, especially in state aid for education to help finance teacher pay raises and school construction. The United Parents Associations of New York city will send a delegation of 600 to the hearing.

The economy forces will be spearheaded by the Citizens Public Expenditure Survey, Inc., a private taxpayer group, and the Commerce and Industry Association of New York (city).

The Legislature's Democratic minority opened the battle of the budget yesterday, charging that "Dewey's claims of rigid economies do not jibe with the facts."

The Democratic leaders, Senator Elmer F. Quinn and Assemblyman Irwin Steingut, contended that "the only drastic economies could be found in slashes in social welfare expenses, such as aid to the blind and aid to dependent children." Otherwise, they claim, the budget was inflationary.

Cites Advantages For Volunteers in Airborne Service

Due to very limited quotas on air force enlistments the U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force recruiting service is presently urging young men to volunteer for the regular army.

Sgt. First Class Raymond G. Ingersoll of the local recruiting station states the airborne, for example, offers an opportunity for young fellows interested in military aircraft to gain much experience in this field. Most airborne troops are more familiar with and perform more air travel than many air force men, because it is part of their basic and advanced training.

If an individual can qualify as a jumper, he can get an additional $50 per month, and this increases with his rank. However, paratroopers jump only on a voluntary basis. The majority of the personnel of the airborne division are landed by gliders and transports.

Serving with the airborne means serving with the best. The airborne troops are proud of their branch of service, and have a greater "esprit-de-corps" than most line outfits. The 11th and 82nd Airborne, two of the country's famous wartime divisions, are now taking qualified volunteers.

Sgt. Ingersoll also announced that the Kingston station enlisted a total of 41 men during the month of January. Of this number six were veterans having served in the armed forces previously. "I would like it to be known," said the recruiting sergeant, "that 29 of these boys were high school graduates and six were college men. This is indicative of the type of young fellow who is volunteering his services today. The recruiting agencies for all of the services are striving to get the best for the armed forces on a volunteer basis."

Shah of Iran Weds

Lack of Excitement

There has been a strange lack of excitement in Tehran over the fete. Even Soraya was reported by court intimates to have been unconcerned over the ceremony which was to make her Empress of Iran.

By the Shah's order free food will be distributed to the poor.

The heads of friendly nations have observed the event by sending sumptuous presents.

President Truman sent a crystal vase inscribed with American legendary heroes. From Britain's King George VI came a pair of solid silver candelabra of the Georgian period. The British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, which have huge petroleum holdings in this country, gave a hospital worth £25,000 ($70,000) as a wedding present.

It is the second marriage for the youthful king. His first union to Princess Fawzia, sister of Egypt's king, Farouk, was dissolved by decree in 1948.
